Runoffs Are Set In School Races

By SAM HANNA
Political Editor

Incumbent C. E. Buckley of Ward 3 nailed down the only seat out of seven up for election on the Ouachita Parish School Board in Saturday's first Democratic primary.

With races in six wards, Democrats H. W. Tolson, Ward 10, and William Norris III, Ward 5, captured first primary victories, but they face Republican opposition.

Close races Saturday necessitated Democratic run-offs in Ward 4, 6, 7 and 10 in the August 29th second primary. Ward 10 had two board members to nominate in the primary.

INCUMBENTS LOSE

Four incumbents were defeated — Marvin Shipp, Ward 4, Robert Rhone, Ward 5, Chester P. Holloway, Ward 7, and A. L. Smith, Ward 10.

In the biggest ward, Tolson ran high with 1326 votes in Ward 10 where businessman Milton Ford, second with 1039, faces contractor Fred Henry, third with 875, in the run-off.

The two Democratic nominees meet Mrs. George M. Snellings, a Republican, in the November 3rd general election.

Other Democratic run-offs will be as follows in the August 29th second primary:

Ward 4 — James T. Lee, who ran high with 90 votes, meets Arthur L. Finley, second with 67. Incumbent Shipp, seeking his third term, was third.

Ward 6 — William H. Ray, tops with 235 votes, faces incumbent E. M. Finley, 181 votes. Dale C. Meachum ran last with 74. Finley has been on the board for 18 years.

Ward 7 — J. T. Franks, first with 76 votes, runs it off with Thomas W. Golson, second with 66. Incumbent Holloway, seeking his third term, ran third with 56 votes while Miss Happy McDonald was last with 34 votes.

In Ward 5, Norris, an attorney, ran high with 1633 votes in a field of four candidates. Incumbent Rhone, ending his first term, was second with 951 votes. Charles A. Guraedy polled 209 votes while Dr. Edward G. Long was fourth with 152.

Norris, however, now enters a general election race with Dr. Claude Smith of Ward 5.

Buckley, a realtor and 10-year veteran on the board, polled 768 votes over W. T. McBroom with 395 and Albert J. Kelly with 183.

In Ward 10, Tolson received 1326 votes to lead a field of six candidates. Incumbent Smith, seeking a second term, ran last with 250.

Ford polled 1039 to Henry's 875 while Wiley J. Gates ran fourth with 589 over Robert C. Ellen Jr. with 449 votes.

Members of the 19 - man board serve six-year staggering terms. Two seats are up for election in Ward 10 because of a population increase.

Some 29,543 Democrats were registered for the first primary, which attracted a light turn-out at the polls Saturday.

Reds Step Up Viet Nam War During Week

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Never in the history of the war in South Viet Nam have the Communist Viet Cong struck so hard and so often as in the past week. The surmise here Saturday is that Red leaders have ordered ambushes of everything that moves.

"We can always move troops and material by air," a high U.S. officer said. "But part of the idea of winning this war is opening up and controlling overland communications channels —roads, canals and so on.

"We have to keep moving on land, and I'm afraid this bloodletting will continue until the Vietnamese forces begin to do more about keeping security guards out when they move and taking better precautions against ambushes."

8TH DISTRICT CONGRESS

Speedy O. Long Is Upset Victor

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Former State Sen. Speedy O. Long upset congressman Gillis W. Long Saturday night in their bitter Democratic primary contest.

The 35-year-old Speedy Long scored the victory with the backing of Gov. John J. McKeithen in a central Louisiana battle for leadership of the fabled Long political machine.

Gillis went down to defeat despite the support of his cousin, U. S. Sen. Russell B. Long.

The complete count gave Rep. Long 28,422 votes to 33,301 for Speedy.

PRIMARY VICTORIES

Three other incumbent congressmen seeking renomination scored first primary victories.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert of New Orleans turned back three opponents in the First District; Rep. T. A. Tohmpson beat Lake Charles television newsman Gary Tyler; and Rep. James Morrison of Hammond defeated six opponents in the Sixth District.

Complete but unofficial returns from 257 precincts in Orleans, Plaquemines and St. Bernard Parishes gave Hebert 44,386 votes to 9,266 for Alec Norris, 6,019 for Elmer Tapper and 2,033 for Jacob K. Fink.

Thompson rolled up 38,845 votes to 29,615 for Tyler in their southwest Louisiana battle.

All four incumbent Congressmen were attacked during the campaign for not voting the Southern way in one manner or another during recent years.

Morrison squeezed past his six opponents by less than 3,000 votes.

With 307 of 308 precincts reported, Morrison had 52,186 to 49,692 for his combined opposition.

The central Louisiana battle between Gillis and Speedy Long, a pair of distant cousins, carried with it the prestige of Gov. McKeithen and U. S. Sen. Russell B. Long and leadership of Louisiana's fabled Long political clan.

McKeithen gave his support to Speedy Long, 35, a former state Senator from Jena. Russell Long again threw his backing behind incumbent Gillis Long, 41, now of Alexandria.

McKeithen could probably claim leadership of Louisiana's Long clan if he and Speedy could engineer an upset of Gillis.

Russell Long was generally accepted as leader of the clan until McKeithen split the group last winter. He upset Gillis in the gubernatorial primary even though Gillis was backed by Russell.

Republicans will challenge four of Louisiana's eight Democratic nominees in November. They will take on the winning Long; Morrison or his winning opponent; House Whip Hale Boggs of New Orleans; and Edwin Willis, chairman of the House un - American Activities Committee.

Boggs, Willis, and Reps. Otto Passman and Joe D. Waggonner were not opposed in today's primary.

Speedy Long and most of the other Democratic challengers accused the four incumbent Congressmen of failing to properly represent the South.

The entire Louisiana delegation went on record against the civil rights bill. But their challengers hit four of them on related issues.

They said Long and Morrison did not fight enlargement of the House Rules Committee, the committee that finally let the civil rights bill loose. Gillis Long denied this charge and pointed to his House proposal for a national referendum on the civil rights bill.

He and Morrison were also criticized for approving wheat sales to Russia.

Jumonville blasted Morrison for not defending Plaquemine city officials on the House floor. A New York Congressman critized the officials for arresting Negro integration leader James Farmer during a racial crisis last summer.

Hebert was criticized for not voting on the final version of the civil rights bill. He replied he was paired against the bill and voted 145 times against it.

Hebert is the dean of the Louisiana House delegation, with 24 years service.

Jury Still Out In Hoffa Trial For Mail Fraud

CHICAGO (AP)—The jury deliberating the $20-million mail fraud and conspiracy case against Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa and six co-defendants quit for the day at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Deliberations will be resumed at 9:30 a.m. today.

The jury of eight men and four women was taken to hotel accommodations at the Great Lakes Naval Base, 30 miles north of Chicago. The jury has been kept there under guard since the trial began.

The jury deliberated 4½ hours Friday night, then resumed at 9:10 a.m. Saturday.

SIXTH WEEK WINNERS

Contest Attracts Variety Of Photos

It required a lot of shutter tripping in many locales to produce the large variety of pictures from which $40 in prize winners were selected in the sixth week of the Monroe Morning World and News-Star Snapshot Awards Contest.

Prize winners, with $5 going for first place, $3 for second, and $2 for third, were:

Class A, babies and children, first place, Mrs. E. E. Schutz, Route 4, Box 195, Monroe, for

Judge Voids Two Slates For Electors

Upholds System's Constitutionality; Appeal Slated

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A state judge rejected a taxpayers' attack on presidential elector laws Saturday and at the same time ruled against the Democratic State Central Committee offering both pledged and unpledged slates.

Dist. Judge Fred Blanche Jr. ruled against the six taxpayers who had challenged constitutionality of the elector laws on grounds they were an improper legislative delegation of power.

Attorneys for the taxpayers said an appeal would be filed.

STATE LAW

The court also pointed to state law which specifically says "no greater number of candidates for any office shall appear on the official ballot bearing any one party designation than there are persons to be elected to office," and said the Democratic committee couldn't have two slates of 10 electors each.

This decision had been expected, because legislators who originally had attempted to push bills for presidential primaries said they did so because they knew the Democratic committee's two slates wouldn't stand up legally.

The court struggle began at the height of a Louisiana move by fans of Alabama Gov. George Wallace to design a presidential primary in which he could challenge President Johnson for the Democratic label.

Harry Fuller, second assistant attorney general, speaking for the Democratic committee, the defendant, said he didn't know whether the central committee would want to appeal or simply stand by the court decision.

But Gov. John McKeithen's remark a day earlier that the unpledged elector move had lost its lure because of Republican Barry Goldwater's nomination indicated the governor wasn't in favor of the unpledged issue.

And McKeithen reminded newsmen in a mansion conference Wallace had withdrawn.

Unless the plantiffs' appeal upsets Judge Blanche's ruling, the decision in effect has blocked unpledged elector sponsors from attempting to operate as part of the Democratic Party framework. They can always turn to a lawful step of using a petition of 1,000 voters to get an unpledged slate on the ballot.

Garden Prize

Rufus F. Parker, 3804 Polk, retired special officer of the Monroe police department, who occupies his time these days fishing and gardening, is proud of his tomatoes, still bearing heavily despite summer heat and drought. He displayed evenly developed "Siamese" twin tomatoes this week that weighed a pound and a half.

Lots Of Milk

Who drinks more milk than children, particularly school children? Probably nobody.

Going through a report on last year's bills in the Ouachita Prish school system, Supt. Milton C. Hall found the section on milk — a whopping $141,485.83.

No idea how many bottles that would come to, but it required cooperation from a large number of cows.

First Child

Word has been received from Washington, D. C., that Lt. and Mrs. Thomas Gordon Cagle are the proud parents of their first child, a son, Clark Henderson, born at the U.S. Naval Hospital in Bethesda, Marland, on July 14.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cordell of Arkadelphia, Arkansas, and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Otha M. Cagle of El Dorado, Arkansas. Mrs. Otha Cagle is the former Eleanor Bennett of Monroe. Paternal great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles G.Bennett of Monroe and Mrs. O. T. Cagle of El Dorado. Lt. Cagle is stationed at the Pentagon.

Rioting Negroes Defy Curfew In Rochester

Police Battle With Looters; White Killed

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Rioting Negroes fired shotguns and pistols in the air Saturday night and police fought back with tear gas in a new outburst of racial violence. One white man was killed during hit-and-run looting raids by marauders.

Three policemen were seriously injured. One was clubbed over the head with a bottle, another was knocked down by a hammer thrown at him and the third suffered a serious hand injury.

HIT BY CAR

The elderly white man killed was tentatively identified as Judson Brayan. He was slugged by a looter and knocked into the street where he was struck by a passing automobile.

One witness said he might have been trying to flag down the car.

Police said patrolmen were using tear gas to break up bands of looters.

At least 70 persons were arrested Saturday night, bringing the two-night total to more than 200.

A spokesman for the city said that Brayan was a volunteer Civil Defense worker who was in the area in connection with the disturbances. He was wearing a white Civil Defense helmet.

More than 250 persons were arrested Saturday night and police said additional prisoners were being brought in "by the busload." The two - night total of those arrested was near 400. Police said they were putting four persons into each cell.

Arthur Deutsch, director of public relations for the city, said that 100 additional state troopers would be in the city Sunday morning, bringing the total force to about 400.

Police said the shooting erupted in the northeast section of the city where 2,000 Negroes rioted for 20 hours earlier Saturday.

Looting spread Saturday night to a second Negro section and later branched out into white sections.

Two other persons reportedly had been killed during the evening—one in a car accident and the other in a shooting. However, these were not related to the rioting.

Police said the elderly white man killed in the rioting was standing outside a store when a mob of Negroes looting it came out and clubbed him over the head with a lead pipe.

The man, believed to be in his 80's stumbled into the street and was struck by a car. The driver apparently panicked when he saw the Negro mob, swerved and struck him, dragging him 100 feet down the street. The car kept on going.

The man was dead on arrival at Genessee Hospital.

Police said there were at least three incidents of Negroes using cars for hit-and-run tactics. Thay skidded to a halt at intersections, hurled rocks from cars through shop windows, grabbed merchandise and sped away.

For the first time in its history, the U.S. Post Office in the middle of the inflamed Negro area locked its doors at 8:15 p.m. EDT. Until Saturday night, the building had been open 24 hours a day.

"You can get killed out here," said one patrolman in the area of violence.

The new outburst erupted shortly after officials who had shut off the liquor supply for miles around put into effect a dusk - to - dawn curfew. All shops selling guns and ammunition also had been closed.

The reports of looting and rioting came from western parts of Rochester that had been untouched by the violence that raged throughout the night before. Both areas are predominantly Negro.

Negroes sitting on their porches and leaning out windows of apartments jeered and shouted obscenities at helmeted police rushed into the new trouble spot.

The looting in western Rochester came shortly after 250 Negroes swarmed onto the streets at the scene of Friday night's rioting tossing bottles and beer cans. Numerous car and building windows were smashed. At least 100 steel-helmeted troopers rushed to the scene and at least one shot was fired.

Police Jail Harlem Red For Defiance

NEW YORK (UPI) —A Communist leader, trying to rally his forces on a Harlem street corner in defiance of the city's top police official, was arrested Saturday while hundreds of Negroes looked on. The planned demonstration then fizzled.

At almost the same time, the city went into state Supreme Court and received an injunction against demonstrations in Harlem by three militant Negro organizations.

Among them was the Harlem Defense Council, whose leader, William Epton was arrested when he arrived at 116th St. and Lenox Ave. about 4:20 p.m. EDT with about 25 of his followers.

HELMETED POLICE

More than 100 helmeted police were waiting for the Negro Communist, along with a crowd of several hundred Negro bystanders.

Epton, whose group had planned to march on the 135th St. police precinct, was banned from doing so by order of Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy. Before Epton's arrest, the Defense Council changed plans and said they would march on a junior high school at 139th St., also against police orders.

The Communist started across Lenox Ave. into a milling, shouting crowd. Police with nightsticks quickly cleared a path through the mob and placed Epton in a patrol car.

He was charged with disorderly conduct and causing a crowd to collect, then placed in a detention cell at the 100th St. station.

Area Weather Outlook Same

Skies over the Twin Cities will be partly cloudy until tonight with the possibility of scattered showers during the afternoon and evening forecast.

HOT

The area will continue to be plagued with hot temperatures today. The night temperatures will cool off a little, however, but will be much like those for the past week.

The lowest recorded temperature Saturday at FAA at the Monroe Municipal Airport was 73 with a high of 93. The high expected today will be 90 to 95 with the low predicted at 70 to 74.

Winds will be variable, 5 to 15 m.p.h.

AGAINST CUBA

OAS Ministers Pass Sanctions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Organization of American States (OAS) for the first time Saturday night denounced Communist Cuba for aggression against Venezuela and agreed to impose economic and diplomatic sanctions against the Castro regime.

Of the 20-member organization, 15 nations voted for the sanctions. Chile, Mexico and Uruguay voted against them and Bolivia abstained. Venezuela, which requested the sanctions in retaliation for Cuban aggression, was ineligible to vote.

ISOLATION

The resolutions containing the sanctions and measures increasing Cuba's isolation from other Central and South American nations was approved during an executive session of the OAS resolutions committee. The vote was to be repeated later in public.

The OAS action also was a warning to Premier Fidel Castro that further aggressive acts against his neighbors would bring him face-to-face with combined military might of Latin American and the United States.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk who represented the United States at the historic meeting attended by the foreign ministers of the OAS nations, hailed the collective action as "a step beyond" the expulsion of Cuba from OAS membership two years ago. "Unfortunately, the Cuban regime did not heed that warning," Rusk said.

The sanctions, while binding on each OAS member, do not have a time limit on when they become effective. Also, there is no provision in the resolutions or the OAS charter that provides for penalties if a nation chooses to ignore the sanctions.

Venezuela accused Cuba of aggression last year after authorities discovered a three-ton cache of Cuban arms, supplied to pro - Castro terrorists who were attempting to disrupt the Venezuelan elections. A five-nation OAS investigating committee substantiated the charges last February.

RESCUED AT SEA

'Gooney Bird' Men To Continue Lives

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — "It's an awful thing to think you won't live until tomorrow."

So spoke Philip Karakoosh, 21, one of four Connecticut men rescued after nine days at sea on a rubber life raft designed for two.

Karakoosh, a machinist from Chesire, said he felt it was all oven when on the ninth day after their yacht sank during a trip to Bermuda they were down to a pint of water.

"But Leo kept us from losing our heads," he said of Leo Pogorzelski, 48, a father of five children.

"Leo was a stablizing influence. He rationed the water and led us in daily prayer."

Karakoosh, Pogorzelski, Ralph G. Stevens, 32, and Julius Kasimer, 34, were spotted by a plane Thursday. The British freighter Maidan, en route here from Malta, picked them up.

Pogprzelski, who with Stevens hails from Waterbury, told of writing his last will on the side of the raft. Karakoosh said he wrote several last messages on a can that would float.

The four left Saybrook, Conn., for Bermuda July 11 on Stevens' 36-foot motor sailer, the Gooney Bird. Pogorzelski said he was at the helm on the night of July 13 when the yacht struck something and started shipping water.

"I don't know what we hit," he said. "It sounded like something wooden. Although there was a bright moon, I couldn't see anything."

Kasimer, of New Haven, said he was asleep "but the impact woke me up."

The men at first didn't think much of the leak.

But by the next day, Stevens said, they noticed the bilge pumps running constantly.

"The boat started swinging from side to side rather badly Tuesday, and by Wednesday noon it was so bad we had to take to the raft. We tried to tie the raft to the boat, but in the confusion it slipped away."

The man said the Gooney Bird drifted away. None of them actually saw it sink.

The boat was owned by Stevens, vice president of an eyelet manufacturing firm bearing his name. His wife, Glenice, mother of four, and his father, Carlton, reported the men missing when they were five days overdue.

Mrs. Stevens said it was a precautionary measure. "We thought they decided to turn around and were on their way home."

PAR STUDY REPORT

State Education Planning Urged

BATON ROUGE (Special) — The Public Affairs Research Council Saturday called for greater attention to education at the higher levels, if the people of Louisiana are to progress. Greater support was also urged.

"The future of Louisiana—politically, economically, and culturally — depends on the extent to which its citizens are educated," PAR said.

In an 82-page study of "Enrollments to 1970," PAR predicted an increase in Louisiana's college enrollments in the 1960's from 55,989 to 110,770 and called for adequate support to meet this challenge.

"The increasing complexity of our civilization requires more professional and technical workers with more years of education. The individual of today needs more education to assure that he can develop fully his intellectual and earning capacity. Finally, we must look to the colleges and universities for new knowledge," the research agency reported.

The study by PAR was carried out in cooperation with the state board of education, officials of Louisiana State University, and offocials of Louisiana's private colleges.

The impact of the post - war "baby boom" which caused elementary and high school enrollments to increase sharply during the 1950's will begin falling on higher education in 1964, the report shows.

Enrollments in the public colleges and universities in the fall of 1964, PAR said, are estimated to increase 15.1 per cent above the fall of 1963. A further increase in the fall of 1965 is estimated to be up another 10.4 per cent.

Thereafter, increases should not be as great and should be more in line with the six per cent average increase in state revenues.

"There seems little question," PAR said, "that Louisiana will have to provide additional money for its colleges even to maintain the present level of staff and services. And, of course, if Louisiana is to advance among the states, it must build a first - rate system of quality higher education, which will produce the kind of citizens demanded in the world of today and tomorrow."

PAR went on to say that many states anticipating the surge of college students have adopted plans to provide for the orderly development and adequate support of their colleges and universities. Louisiana has not yet taken this vital step," the study reported.

PAR traced the development of Louisiana's public colleges and universities and noted that they were established "without any apparent state plan."

"Several institutions are located in areas which are not major metropolitan centers, and some are in areas of declining or slowly increasing population," the research agency said.

The Council also stated that "almost all state colleges created in this century began as junior or two-year colleges, yet only the Alexandria branch of LSU — the newest institution—is not a senior college today."

"Certainly the senior colleges cannot be converted back to junior colleges. However, it is questionable that Louisiana will have enough money and potential students to establish a system of junior colleges superimposed on its many senior colleges," PAR said.

PAR's warning struck at actions of the 1964 legislative session which authorized the creation of several junior colleges and a two-year commuters' college by legislative act without state - wide planning or recommendation by the LSU Board or by the state board of education.

Louisiana already has 26 colleges and universities — 14 public and 12 private, the report shows. One of PAR's recommendations was that "no new institutions" be created until a master plan is developed.

PAR stressed as it has in the past, that more emphasis should be placed on the financing of elementary and high schools at the local level, thereby freeing state funds for higher education.

The Council said "the public colleges and universities in Louisiana are dependent primarily on the state for their funds, whereas the public elementary and high schools can obtain local support."

The study shows that enrollments in elementary grades and high schools will not increase during the 1960's as rapidly as they have in recent years. Thus, the greater relative need for funds will be in the area of higher education.

"However," PAR said, "since no one segment of education can progress alone, the quality of education at the elementary and high school levels must be improved as the state's colleges and universities strive for higher standards."

The study makes a number of recommendations to provide for better planning and coordination so that more efficient use can be made of available funds and facilities.

1. "The step most needed in higher education in Louisiana is the development of a coordinated master plan." PAR recommended creation of a state coordinating agency, composed of persons representing the state as a whole and not individual institutions, with "authority to enforce its policies and decisions."

2. A uniform system of budgeting, accounting, and reporting of information should be set up so the legislature and public can better analyze the cost and efficiency of college operation.

3. Funds should be appropriated to colleges under a formula based on student credit hours taught. A number of states have already done this.

4. Better use of faculty should be sought through new methods and techniques such as individual instruction through taped lectures, exchange of professors, and use of non-teaching personel for clerical duties.

5. Ways should be sought to make better use of college classrooms and facilities. Consideration should be given to using facilities year-round.

6. More and better counseling is needed in high schools to encourage top students to enter college and discourage students from doing so if they do not have the capacity for college work. "Consideration should be given to applying some criteria to eliminate those obviously unsuited for college work."

375 ATTEND SESSIONS

Day Camp Closes At Forsythe Park

Flag lowering and graduation ceremonies highlighted the end of the 11th season of the Twin Cities YMCA-YWCA Day Camp at Forsythe Park Friday.

Approximately 375 girls and boys participated in the camp activities this summer. Three, two-week periods were held.

Top honors for the third period of the camp went to Randy Boultinghouse and Denise Downing, best campers, and Taylor Brown, most improved camper.

Awards in archery were given to Kathy Kiper, Christy Coleman, Renee Downing, Jim Rosamond, Donnie Laudenheimer, Donnie Gill, Jan Beavers and David Carter.

Riflery honors were awarded to Kim Funderburk, Linda Newcomer, Julia Jones, Gail Sherman, Keith Smith, Melvyn McCoy, Scott Tisdale, Donnie Hightower and David Peat.

Members of the best camping groups were Kim Funderburk, Kathy Haynes, Karen Bodan, Ginger Trim, Susan Herring, Laura Burgess, Gracie Land, Karen Van Buren, Jeri Sue Nagle, Cindy Cooley, David Carter, Gordon Evans, James Joel Mallard, Steve Mullins, Michael Neal Myers, David Peat, Michael Stephens, Walter Cash and Bruce Moore.

During the third session 27 boys and girls passed the intermediate and advanced swimming tests.

Woman Doctor's Close Friend Being Watched

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — At least one close friend of slain New Orleans woman bone surgeon, Dr. Mary Stults Sherman, is under constant surveillance, police said here Saturday.

A 24-hour guard was arranged for an unidentified woman after several persons who were close to the physician reported receiving threatening telephone calls. Two or three persons say they have gotten calls from a man who said, "You are next."

Dr. Sherman's body was found last Tuesday morning on the floor of the bedroom in her fashionable St. Charles Avenue apartment. She was stabbed eight times and her body set afire. Police ruled out burglary as the motive although her car was stolen and her wallet empty. The killer later abandoned the car.

Dr. Sherman was a staff member at Ochsner Clinic and was director of the bone pathology laboratory of Ochsner Foundation Hospital here.

CLAIM VIOLATIONS

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI)—The official Cambodian news agency Saturday charged that U.S., Thai and South Vietnamese planes have violated Cambodian air space seven times in the last two weeks.

Reserved Seat Tickets At Tech To Go On Sale

RUSTON (Special) — Reserved seat tickets for Louisiana Tech's home football games will go on sale Monday, Aug. 3, Joe Aillet, Tech athletic director, announced today.

The Techsters will play five home contests this fall, all night games with the exception of the homecoming tilt at 2 p. m. against Southeastern Louisiana College on Nov. 7.

Other home games will be with McNeese State on Sept. 26, East Texas State on Oct. 3, Arlington State on Oct. 17, and Tennessee Tech on Oct. 31.

Persons who held reserved seats last season have until Sept. 1 to retain the same seats this campaign, Aillet said. A reserved seat ticket for the five games sells for $10.

Senate Slates Dope Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Investigations subcommittee will launch Tuesday a a far-ranging probe of the international narcotics racket and its operations in the United States and Canada. Chairman John L. MClellan, D-Ark., asked federal Narcotics Commissioner Henry L. Giordano to lead off the testimony tracing the flow of illicit drugs from opium poppy fields in the Near East and Far East to Western Hemisphere mobsters.

Much of the testimony is to center on the big time narcotics traffic in New York City, Chicago, San Francisco and other cities across the United States, and in Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa, Canada.

Subcommittee sources said evidence compiled by their own investigators and undervover agents for the Narcotics Bureau also will show inner workings of narcotics rings operating in Detroit, Philadelphia, Newark, N. J., San Antonio, Tex., and San Diego, Calif., and the nation's capital.

"We will name the names of ring leaders," the committee's counsel Jermoe S. Adlerman told a reporter. He added that charts to be placed in evidence are expected to show tie-ins between foreign based mobs and those in this hemisphere who virtually dominate the racket.

McClellan said his hearings will over two distinct phases. In three days of hearings, he said in a statement, the subcommittee will seek to draw a picture of "the criminal organizations which bring the narcotics from the opium poppy to the consumer."

Then, in three more days of hearings, probably the following week, testimony will switch, he said, to "the nature od drug addiction and the treatment and rehabilitation of the addict."

The treatment and rehabilitation problem could lead to controversy in the hearings because there are many rival and clashing views as to what is needed.

Unless something turns up to change its mind, the subcommittee plans to call no hoodlums as witnesses, on grounds they would merely involve their 5th Amendment privilege against giving self-incriminating testimony and answer no questions.

Most of the testimony will come from federal undercover and other police officials, and from medical men and other students of the narcotics problem — about 25 witnesses.

New Business Dean Named At Northeast

A change in the deanship of the School of Business Administration at Northeast Louisiana State College was announced Saturday by College President George T. Walker.

Dwight Delbert Vines, associate professor of business administration, has been appointed dean of the school, effective August 24. He succeeds Dr. James R. Bobo, who has resigned to return to the faculty of Louisiana State University at New Orleans.

"We are very appreciative of the splendid contribution of Dean Bobo to our program at Northeast," Dr. Walker said.

Vines has won recognition for his work as coordinator of the highly successful Business Management Institutes held at Northeast State in recent years and for his work as faculty adviser of the nationally recognized NLSC chapter of Pi Sigma Epsilon, sales and marketing fraternity.

He was winner of the national organization's "Top Adviser Award" in 1963. The chapter, winner for two consecutive years of the fraternity's "Top Chapter Award," made it three in a row by winning against for 1963-64, and at the same time won the "Top Chapter Award" given by Sales and Marketing Executives, International. It was the first time in fraternity history for one chapter to win both of the coveted chapter awards in a single year.

The new dean of business administration is a native of Jonesboro. He holds the bachelor's degree in business administration from Northwestern State College at Natchitoches and the M. B. A. degree from Louisiana State University. He is currently engaged in doctoral studies at the University of Colorado.

While a student at Northwestern State, Vines was recipient of the Pi Omega Pi Award as outstanding business graduate. He was also named to the Northwestern Senior Hall of Fame.

While in college there he worked as advertising salesman for one of the local newspapers and later was employed as an office machines salesman for a national corporation in Shreveport.

In addition to Pi Omega Pi, his honorary and professional memberships include Pi Kappa Delta, Pi Sigma Epsilon, Beta Gamma Sigma, Phi Kappa Phi, Southwest Management Association and Sales and Marketing Executives, International.

He has been a member of the NLSC faculty since 1958.

Vines is married to the former Miss Jean Varnado of Baton Rouge. They have two sons: Michael Allen, 7, and Timothy Wayne, 3. He is a member of Lakeshore Baptist Church.

Viet Nam Repeals Diem Family Law

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The South Vietnamese government announced Saturday night that the "family law" of the defunct Ngo Dinh Diem regime, which among other provisions prohibited divorce, has been repealed.

The law also banned polygamy, and gave wives property rights with their husbands.

A new decree regulating marriage will remain in force until a new civil code is promulgated by the government.

Grand Dragon Joins Support For Goldwater

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Georgia's top Ku Klux Klan official joined other dissident Democrats on Saturday in support of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona for the presidency.

Grand Dragon Calvin F. Craig of Atlanta became the first Klan leader to announce endorsement of the Republican nominee, whose convention victory followed a floor fight in which the Klan was the target of an unsuccessful censure effort.

Craig, 32, emphasized his decision to support Goldwater was based not on personality but the issues between the major parties. He is a candidate for the State Senate in the Sept. 9 Democratic primary.

"I'm going to be a Goldwater Democrat," Craig said. "It is not necessarily Goldwater himself; it is just that the people are going to have a choice of voting for states rights and constitutional government or for going down the road to socialism.

"With Goldwater, we've got a chance to regain states rights."

Craig predicted Georgia would go Republican next November for the first time since Reconstruction days.

A move to accomplish this starts in earnest Tuesday when a group meets here to organize a statewide Democrats-for-Goldwater campaign.

Attorney Roy V. Harris of Augusta, long-time segregationist leader, said that James H. Gray, publisher of the Albany Herald would be the keynote speaker. Gray, former state Democratic chairman, was not available for comment.

In Macon, Rep. John J. Flynt, D-Ga., said he did not think he would be able to attend the Democratic National Convention because of re-election campaign activities.

"I am not going to forsage the party that I belong to," he said. "It has demonstrated its ability to lead the country."

Retiring Rep. Carl Vinson, whose tenure of 50 years sets a record, said Friday he was a Democrat and proud of it. Vinson plans to attend the convention.

He and Flynt were contacted after several state officials—including Lt. Gov. Peter Zack Geer, Agriculture Commissioner Phil Campbell, Comptroller James Bentley and Treasurer Jack Ray —all declined to serve as delegates.

Two Get LP&L Service Awards

They are Milton Z. Cloyd, serviceman in Waterproof, 15-year pin; and Wiley H. Rabb, meter - reader in Ferriday, 5 year pin.

Rabb, who lives at 710 Kentucky Avenue in Ferriday, and his wife are the parents of one son, Wiley Jr., 2, and one daughter, 3 weeks. His father, Nolan L. Rabb Sr., lives at Waterproof.

Cloyd, who joined LP&L June 8, 1949, and his wife are the parents of one daughter, Cathy, 10; and two sons, David 7, and Bruce 6. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Cloyd live in West Monroe.

NEW WORD FOR WORKING SCULPTURE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sculpture doesn't always just sit quietly in museums and get looked at, any more. Some sculpture moves and makes sounds as visitors nudge the works or press buttons or throw switches.

Steelways, a publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute, calls the phenomenon "synasthesia," meaning hearing stimulated and accompanied by illusions of color and seeing stimulated by sound.

CASE BAFFLES POLICE

Girl's Body Stolen From Funeral Home

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP)—The body of 14-year-old Theresa Koertgen was stolen from a funeral home during the night in a grisly mystery.

Capt. Edward Caulfield, chief of police, reported Saturday he had no clues, leads or theories in a case of a type he never before had encountered.

He told a reporter some person or persons broke into the Haben Funeral Home, removed the body from its casket, took it out a side door and vanished.

Final rites—with the body missing—were conducted on schedule Saturday in St. Peter Roman Catholic church.

The 500-capacity church was well filled.

The Rev. Elmer Klug explained that the solemn Requiem High Mass was sung because it was for the benefit of the girl's soul.

The mourners were told—although many of them already had learned by word of mouth—of the eerie abduction.

There was no casket. But in its place stood a catafalque, a draped, coffin-size structure. It was flanked by six tall black candle holders.

The pallbearers were there, too.

Father Klug said Theresa was a "real nice, popular" child who had graduated from elementary school in June.

Her mother, Margaret Koertgen, is a well-known church worker.

Her father, Leo, is an executive with a Skokie automobile concern.

The mother's voice quavered with emotion as she spoke briefly with a newsman. She didn't know, she said, what had happened to the body of her daughter.

Family and friends attended a wake for Theresa at the funeral home Friday night until it closed at 10:30 p.m.

When the funeral home reopened at 6:30 a.m. Saturday the body was gone.

Theresa suffered a seizure Tuesday while swimming in a Skokie pool. She died Wednesday in Skokie Valley Hospital.

Police said the death certificate signed at the hospital indicates the girl died of a cerebral hemorrhage. The chief said an inquest will be held if the body is recovered.

He described the community as being in a state of shock.

Skokie is a suburb on the northwestern fringe of Chicago.

It has a population of about 70,000. It calls itself the largest villege in the United States.

Theresa had been laid out in her yellow graduation dress decorated with a yellow corsage. She was a brunette, 5 feet 6 and weighed 125 pounds.

As a testimony to the girl's popularity, there were 86 pages of names in the guest register at the funeral home.

R. William Haben, owner of the funeral home, said he never had experienced an incident such as the vanishing body in 41 years as a mortician.

"This is a horror-book story," he commented.

"The whole thing is a mystery," said police Sgt. Roy Milz. He said bereaved relatives will be questioned.

Capt. Caulfield assigned eight detectives to the case.

A search of an area two square miles around the funeral home was begun.

Melon Festival To Be Held This Week In Union

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Union Parish, the number two watermelon-producing parish in Louisiana, is preparing for its first annual watermelon festival.

The event will be held Friday, with activities getting underway at 10 a.m. and continuing through 5 p.m.

Scheduled are a watermelon eating contest, auction of winning entries, appearance of beauty queens and a melon guessing contest.

A load of Union Parish watermelons was shipped to Canada last week.

BUS NARROWLY ESCAPES

Barges Rip Out Gap In Causeway

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A tugboat pushed two barges into the Lake Pontchartrain Causeway early Saturday, tearing out 200 feet of the 24-mile-long bridge.

A bus carrying 20 passengers had just passed over the danger spot when the crash came. Six lives were lost in a similar accident six weeks ago.

A bus passenger, Riley B. Kimball, 46, of nearby Mandeville, told The New Orleans States-Item that there was no one at the wheel of the tug at the time of the accident. Kimball was one of 20 passengers on a private bus headed for work at Avondale Shipyards.

"I said to the driver," said Kimball, 'You better speed up, it seems like that tug is headed for the bridge.'

"He speeded up and everyone stood up and looked out as we hurried by. There was nobody in the pilot house. No one in sight, on the barges or the tug."

And, when the bus was out of danger, Kimball added, "we leaned over the rail and actually saw the impact."

The tug, the Red Poll, hit the causeway, said to be the world's longest bridge over water, at an angle, about two and a quarter miles from the north shore of the lake. The toll bridge carries much of the north-south traffic to and from New Orleans.

It was shortly after dawn, and there were only about 60 vehicles on the causeway at the time. The bus and another tug not involved in the accident gave the alarm.

The causeway resembles a highway on stilts about 20 feet above the 15-foot-deep water. There are openings which permit water traffic to pass after vessels give whistle signals they want to go through.

This tug was bound from Morgan City, on the Louisiana coast, to Mandeville near the northern terminus of the bridge, and was not scheduled to pass through the causeway.

Last June 16 a Trailways bus with eight persons aboard happened to be on the causeway near the point of impact, when a similar accident occurred. The bus plunged into the lake and six persons perished.

Jackson Opens Headquarters For Goldwater

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A Goldwater - for - president headquarters opened in Jackson Saturday while GOP officials revealed "tremendous" response from state officials "across the state."

State Republican chairman Wirt Yerger announced the opening of the headquarters supporting the Republican presidential candidacy of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Yerger said "response to Sen. Goldwater's campaign has been tremendous from legislators and public officials across the state."

Meanwhile, Franklin County Sheriff Clifford Herring bolted the Democratic Party and accepted the post of county Republican chairman for Goldwater.

The 72-year-old Democrat of 50 years accused the Democratic Party of "causing the nation to now stand at the very brink of destruction and ruin."

"It is with a heavy heart that I leave the Democratic Party," Herring said, "but, I can no longer support my enemy, for if the national Democratic Party continues its present policies, and there is very reason to believe they shall, even in my lifetime, the U.S.A. would be more socialistic than communist Russia."

Jurors Refuse To Indict Man In Clerk Killing

CHICAGO (AP)—Raymond Van de Walle, 27, suburban civic leader accused of slaying a store clerk, was freed Saturday on $2,500 bond after a grand jury refused to indict him.

Van de Walle had been arrested July 9 and jailed without bond in connection with the slaying July 1 of Mrs. Alice Straka, a clerk in a cleaning shop.

Police said he had been identified by three witnesses as the man seen running fom the shop shortly after she was stabbed. It was learned that none of the witnesses was able to identify Van de Walle as the assailant during Friday's grand jury hearing.

Van de Walle, a public relations man, denied the charges and told police he had helped chase the killer of Mrs. Straka.

Rockefeller Meets Riots With Guards

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Saturday that rioting and looting, such as that in Rochester on Saturday morning and in New York City earlier in the week, "will be met by the full force of the law."

He pointed out in a statement that he had sent state police to Rochester and was prepared to use National Guard forces if needed.

The governor's statement was made as the Rochester city manager, Porter W. Homer, indicated unhappiness with a two-hour delay in meeting a request for state police assistance.

Rockefeller said also that he had been in touch with New York City's Mayor Robert F. Wagner regarding the outbreaks there "and have assured him of the full support of the state in maintaining law and order, including the deployment of National Guard troops, if necessary."

A Rockefeller aide said the governor had not ordered National Guard units mobilized for action, although he has alerted guard commanders of the possibility of intervention in Rochester.

The governor, who was at his Westchester County estate near Tarrytown, issued the statement through his Capiol office.

Commenting on the violence in Rochester and New York City, he said: "Such lawlessness, hoodlumism and extremism from whatever source or for whatever reason will be met by the full force of the law.

"There are disturbing indications that there may be organized efforts to incite or abet such disturbances."

There have been charges that Communists played a role in the New York City riots. There have been no allegations that such groups instigated the Rochester outbreak.

Rockefeller said that the overwhelming majority of people in New York and Rochester "are decent, law-abiding citizens." He said minority groups "have the most to gain from the maintenance of law and order" while "those who resort to violence, mob rule and looting not only endanger their own cause but threaten the foundations on which our society is based."

TENNESSEE AIRLINER

Fire Caused Crash, Officials Believe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fire in the forward baggage compartment could have been the cause of the Tennessee airliner crash in which 39 persons were killed July 9, some Civil Aeronautics Board investigators now believe.

Part of the cargo in the forward compartment consisted of a bundle of slate-dusted asphalt and tarpaper shingles, a check of shippers has disclosed.

Although such shingles are fire resistant up to temperatures of 500 degrees, investigators suggest they would have thrown off dense smoke under great heat, possibly enough smoke to suffocate occupants of the plane or at least to blind crew members long enough to cause a crash.

Two truckloads of wreckage of the United Air Lines Viscount recovered from the crash scene near Newport, Tenn., are painstakingly being sorted and studied in a naval research laboratory shed near Bolling Air Force Base on the outskirts of Washington.

All the fragments are small, and any piece could be lifted manually except for one section of the tail.

Ed Slattery, CAB Safety Bureau information chief, said that more than 50 items recovered from the crash scene also are in pathology laboratories and FBI laboratories, for definition of indications of soot.

Soot also was found on the hands and face of one passenger whose body was found almost two miles back from the impact site, in undergrowth around which there were no signs of fire.

Half a mile forward from the body, searchers found an escape hatch window from the airplane and this also was marked with soot.

Some of the investigators are checking carefully into the aircraft inverters which were located in the forward baggage compartment.

These devices, which convert one type of electricity to another, resemble an electric switch which could have short-circuited.

Some of the investigators have suggested that this could have been a heat source that would have made something in the cargo smoke, but not necessarily flame.

It also could cause the airplane's control mechanisms to burn through, to deprive the pilot of means of handling the plane.

Most of the 54 witnesses, among 158 persons interviewed, said they noticed the airplane first because it was flying unusually low, only 500 feet above the trees, and second because smoke was emerging from the underside.

The CAB is expected to conduct a public hearing within six to eight weeks. In accordance with its usual practice, the hearing probably will be held at Knoxville.

WOUND POLICEMAN

Two Desperados Escape Dragnets

DETROIT (UPI) — Two desperadoes with a weakness for children wounded a policeman in a wild gun battle, eluded a 300-man police dragnet and used 10 hostages to escape arrest three times Saturday.

The two men, identified by police as Robert Wyngaard, 26, and Carl Prichard, 32, both of Detroit, escaped the third time in the new model car of a business executive they held hostage with nine other persons in a plush office uilding.

The hostages were released.

Police said the two men were wanted for robbery.

One of the gunmen struck another hostage identified as Sam Cox, an executive of the Anchor Hocking Glass Corp., in the head with the barrell of a snub-nosed pistol.

'I'm sorry. I never hit a man before in my life," the gunman said, according to Louis S. Bernadotte, co-owner of the Modernistic Executive office building.

Bernadotte said three children were among the hostages were well cared for by the gunmen. They saw to it that the youngsters went to the bathroom and had soda pop to drink before herding all the hostages into a basement room and taking off.

Later, as promised, the men telephoned police to tell them that the 10 persons were barricaded in the building. The ordeal had lasted several hours. The 10 were the only persons in the building which normally has little traffic on Saturdays.

They took with them $560 in cash and $400 in travelers checks from the offices, but rejected some Canadian money of one of the hostages.

The two men were scheduled to appear in recorder's court here Friday on robbery charges. But they walked out of the courtroom and hailed a taxi before their case came up.

THAT EXTRA ROOM

MIAMI (AP) — What are people doing with their backyard bomb shelters?

About 300 were installed in the Miami area. The owners have found all kinds of uses for them. They're serving as laundries, Cub Scout dens and places for weekend campouts.

A favorite use is for storage. People keep Christmas decorations, suitcases, lumber and paint in them.

And a retired optometrist has turned his shelter into an underground laboratory where he does "a little charity work for my friends."

MATING CALL FROM ABOVE

MIAMI (AP) — The sonic boom from jet planes breaking the sound barrier gets an enthusiastic response from the bull alligators in the Everglades swamps lying outside town. The alligators roar back, in a chain reaction chorus. Naturalists speculate that the boom from the plane is on the same frequency as the alligators' mating roar; the 'gators mistake the boom for a challenging male; boom back, causing others to get into the act, and so on til the swamp is all in an uproar.

MORE BOYS THAN GIRLS IN HOSPITALS

NEW YORK (UPI) — More boys than girls are hospitalized each year, according to the Health Insurance Institute, partly because of a substantially higher rate of accidential injuries among boys.

Analysis of U.S. National Health Survey data, the Institute said, showed that at least 63 out of 1,000 children of both sexes under the age of 15 are hospitalized each year. But the rate for boys is nearly 14 per cent higher than the rate for girls.

Navy Jet Plane Slams House; Killing Women

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP)—A Navy jet attack plane crashed into a house Saturday killing its pilot and two women who were inside the house.

A third woman was burned critically.

Police identified the dead women as two sisters, Miss I. V. Cassidy, 61, and Miss Ostella Cassidy, 58. The burned woman, who was visiting the house at the time of the crash, is Miss Idell Pickens, 58.

The pilot was not identified pending notification of his next of kin.

A Navy spokesman said the single-seat plane, a Marine F1E Fury jet, was making its final landing approach to the naval air station when the crash occurred about one mile from the west end of the runway.

Both the plane and the house were demolished.

The pilot was a member of Marine Reserve Fighter Squadron 351, based at the Atlanta Naval Air Station, the spokesman said.

Mrs. Darrell Thompson, who was visiting in the neighborhood, saw the crash.

"The planes usually come over real close when they are landing, but this one looked lower than usual," she said.

"It suddenly got quiet as the motor stopped and then it sounded as if the plane was trying to start again. It gave a sputter and then it fell through the roof of the house and knocked it flat," she said.

DID YOU EVER SEE A SUNSET ON THE BAYOU?

"Did you ever see a sunset on the Bayou? It's a thing of matchless beauty. For more than a quarter of a century, the sight has given me joy, a sense of serenity and of uplift all at the same time - just as much so now as in the beginning. In years gone by, we have enjoyed swimming and fishing in our own back yard. When the boys were younger, they thrilled us (and sometimes scared us a little) by their boating and skiing exhibitions. Bayou parties, sometimes the older set and sometimes just the youngsters, but more often a comingling of old youngsters and young oldsters, have been an important part of living. No place on earth could have set the scene for or contributed more to the Good Life. And always at eventide, the undiminished glory of that sunset reflected in the calm waters." R. M. T.

This stately home on Point Drive offers a superior vantage point from which to get the fullest enjoyment from Beautiful Bayou DeSiard. Priced at $79,-500. Please call for an appointment.

Harlem Riot Against Police

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Harlem, which has given its name to Negro ghettoes everywhere, has been wracked for a week with violence. The shooting of a 15-year old boy touched off the violence, smoldering for decades behind rundown buildings and crippling poverty. Following is a penetrating look at what has occurred and what is behind the Harlem outbreak.

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP) — The rioting that turned Harlem into a battlefield night after night is the fruit of decades of frustration, mistrust and brewing racism.

In the rioting the Negro area singled out what it considers its greatest enemy: The police.

It rose up in the wake of a single event, the fatal shooting of a 15-year-old Negro boy by an off-duty white police lieutenant.

Negroes demanded the officer's scalp. And in the spreading hatred, it became a cry for all police scalps. Take the white police out, they demanded.

From the rooftops and from the cellars, bottles, bricks, stones, garbage rained upon the police. Pistols and make-shift arms were triggered. Molotov cocktails thrown, clubs wielded. Gangs, mostly of tough strong boys, raced the streets, fighting police hand-to-hand. Store after store was looted. The air crackled with police pistols firing.

There was no apparent civil rights goal in the rioting. There was nothing that could relate it to the violence that arose in Cambridge, Md., when Negroes tried to enter restaurants, or in St. Augustine, Fla., when they tried to integrate the beaches, or at Oxford, Miss., when James Meredith became the first Negro to enter the University of Mississippi.

The civil rights cause-as espoused by the Rev. Martin Luther King, Whitney Young, James Farmer, Roy Wilkins-never seemed to have excited the Harlem masses. Though much of Harlem's trouble was rooted in similar prejudices, discrimination and segregation as that being attacked in the traditional civil rights movements, Harlem greeted King with rotten eggs and made catcalls and boos when the names of the others were mentioned.

"They are black puppets in the hands of white masters," says Paul Boutelle, chairman of a Freedom Now party committee. He is one of the young men whose voice brings a surge of people into the street.

There are many differences and divisions among Negroes in Harlem, with some dedicated to the integration aims of King and others following the militant nationalism of Malcolm X. But the white man quickly observes that there is one thing about which most agree. That is in their deep-seated, generations-old distrust of the police.

The charges against the police are ancient: If a man is black and he gets into police hands, he'll have his head cracked; police ignore Negro crime as "one Nigger stealing from another"; the Negro wandering from Harlem is almost sure to be stopped, searched or insulted.

The police uniformly deny such charges. They point to steps taken to safeguard the public, to provide hearing of grievances, to train patrolmen in impartial handling of mobs. In the repeated rioting this week, police recite a litany of abuse and hostile action by the mob. High officers say lawlessness cannot be condoned or the city will become a jungle.

But the anti-cop feeling is there, and it lies at the heart of Harlem's revolt. In such an atmosphere, the extremist can and does flourish.

"We are going to organize block-by-block in a self-protection council," said Jesse Gray, a onetime seaman who has a bruised eye as the result of the first night of rioting last Saturday. "The Constitution says you have the right to form a militia. And there ain't no law against owning a shotgun."

Gray is connected with the Harlem Defense Council and is head of the militant rent strike Council.

Willia Epton, New York chairman of the Progressive Labor Movement, says:

"This is a Communist organization. I am a Communist. Since the rioting and our call for help, we've had maybe 300 volunteers. We'll work with any group in Harlem, black nationalists, black Muslims or anybody else where we agree on issues."

The involvement of extremists, especially the Communists, reportedly led to President Johnson's decision to put some 200 FBI men into Harlem to investigate the cause of the rioting. Mayor Robert Wagner, who abruptly ended a European vacation to return to the city, also voiced concern about Communists.

But many Negroes say that to zero in on Communist agitation as the principal cause of rioting would be to ignore long festering grievances.

"The roots of Harlem's problems are the same as those involving civil rights," says the Rev. Richard A. Hildebrand of the New York branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. "The seething resentment arises from a general pattern of de facto segregation in housing, employment, education."

Wildcat Strike On Sabine River Set To Continue

MANY, La. (AP)—The wildcat strike at the Toledo Bend dam on the Sabine River apparently will continue at least until Monday. A meeting is scheduled at the Vernon Parish courthouse Monday to discuss the walk-out and the picketing.

Highways on the Texas and Louisiana sides of the project are blocked by about 50 men who say they are a citizens committee and heavy-equipment operators. The committee has complained the firm favors hiring what it termed "Kansas Yankees" instead of local labor.

Among those to attend the Monday meeting are Louisiana state Reps. Bert Adam of Vernon Parish and Willie Williams of Sabine Parish and Sheriffs T. M. Phillips of Sabine Parish and John Craft of Vernon Parish.

New Wilcox Oil Producer Is Assured

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Another new Wilcox sand oil field was assured Saturday in southwest Mississippi at Calto Oil Co. and G. W. Gulmon's No. 1, U.S.A. Sec. 10-3n-1e, Wilkinson County wildcat.

The centure pumped 110 barrels of oil per day from perforations in the casing at 6,973-77 feet. The new field is in the northeastern part of the county near Crosby.

Pan American Petroleum Corp. is reported drilling at its Scott County wildcat, the U.S. Bell No. 1, sec. 18-5n-8e, after cementing seven-inch casing to 14,677 feet. The wildcat has created high interest since open hole drill stem test was run in the Smackover lime formation at 14,551-66 feet with operators releasing no information on the well. It was reported about 4,000 feet of high gravity oil was recovered on the test, which if correct indicates a new discovery. The wildcat is seven miles southwest of Forest and 12 miles northwest of the Bienville Forest Field of Smith County which is productive of oil from the Smackover. A large amount of lease and royalty buying has been underway in the area for the past week.

Love Petroleum Co. and Tidewater Oil Co. ran production tests at their potential new field find in Wayne County, the U.S.A. No. 1, sec. 25-6n-7e. Production casing was set at 12,207 feet with a number of oil shows of undetermined commercial worth logged below 11,700 feet. Operators perforated a Rodessa sand at 12,070-80 feet and prepared to acidize the zone. The wildcat is about 15 miles southeast of the Thompson's Creek oil field near the Greene County line.

Pan American is reported testing shallow oil shows in its Wilkinson County wildcat, the Brandon No. 2, sec. 20-1n-4w, in the Pickneyville area. Production casing was set to 4,516 feet with operators testing a zone at 3,973-82 feet.

In Franklin County, Hamilton Brothers tested their wildcat, Lowry 1, sec. 17-5n-1e, from perforations in the Wilcox sand at 6,344-45 feet. The wildcat is reported swabbing an unestimated amount of oil and water.

Triad Oil and Gas Co. is drilling below 12,600 feet in its Rankin County wildcat, the Dawsey No. 1, sec. 32-3n-5e, south of Puckett.

In Yazoo County, California Co. drilled below 11,890 feet in its wildcat, the Hart No. 1, sec. 1-8n-4w, near Phoenix. The venture is to be drilled to 12,400 feet.

Callon Petroleum Co. completed its Junkin No. 1, Sec. 2-8n-3w, in the Quitman Bayou field of Adams County. The well flowed at the rate of 83 barrels of oil per day from perforations in the Wilcox sand at 3,950-53 feet.

Cotton Futures Get Sharp Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — After holding to a narrow trading range during the early part of the week, prices of cotton futures in the domestic market registered a relatively sharp improvement this week.

At the close of trading Friday, active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange were up $1.80 to $2.45. In the previous week the market was off 15 cents to 1.10.

The improvement of the market was credited to an influx of trade and commission house covering. The buying was attributed in some quarters to the belief that there might be a scarcity of cotton in trade channels early in the new season, since it was felt that loan entries may be fairly pronounced.

Ashley County's 'Escape Artist' Captured Again

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — Ashley County's escape artist, Charles McMillan, 24-year-old Negro, has been picked up on a forgery charge in Chicago, Ill., according to Ashley County Deputy Sheriff E. G. Sparks.

McMillan, who twice escaped jail in the county last year, was being held in Chicago, but Officer Sparks said he would be returned to Ashley County "as soon as they are through with him up there."

McMillan was being held in the Ashley County jail in Hamburg last September on a forgery charge when he escaped the first time. He stole the sheriff's car and several guns for his escape. An air and ground search finally turned up the car which had been abandoned in a remote wooded road, eight miles east of Hamburg.

One of the sheriff's pistols was reportedly pawned in Monroe. McMillan was later apprehended in Mineral Wells, Okla. and he was returned to Ashley County.

He then awaited trial in the more modern Crossett jail, but escaped that institution also, but under "very mysterious circumstances," according to investigating officers. The officers said that the inner door to his cell was found unlocked after his departure.

Officers said that McMillan had "received inside help from someone who had keys to the cell blocks."

Since the time of his last escape there had been no word on the escapee until his apprehension in the Illinois City.

Libraries Will Close Earlier

Starting Monday, all Ouachita Parish libraries will close at 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, during the month of August, Frances Flanders, parish librarian, announced Saturday. The libraries will close at 5 p.m. on Saturday and none will be open on Sundays through August.

Miss Flanders said the reason for the new hours was because so many of the staff members are on vacation, and that since both schools and colleges are out for the summer, the demand for reference work is practically non-existent.

Ashley Election Spotlights Race For Sheriff Job

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — The highlight of Tuesday's Arkansas Democratic primary in Ashley County may be the race for sheriff.

B. A. Courson, who was sheriff for 15 years before his retirement to go into the logging business, is trying to make a comeback.

Among his opposition is Charles Herman Smith, who used to be a Courson deputy. Others in the race are Lee Brooks and E. G. Sparks.

Ashley voters also will be called on to help select a representative for the U.S. Fourth Congressional District. Rep. Oren Harris is being challenged by Dean E. Murphy.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus's opposition consists of R. D. Burrow, Joe Hubbard and Ervin Odell Dorsey. After the Democratic primary, the winner will face Republican Winthrop Rockefeller.

The state representative's race is between N. B. (Nap) Murphy and Robert Earl Cason, while Ray Brown and Norwood Riley are vying for the county and probate clerk's post.

At Hamburg, three persons are running for two aldermen posts. They are Eugene Barnes, Sawyer Goodwin and John Henry Maxwell.

And, at Carter Township, a constable will be chosen from between Floyd Hope and Kenneth Williams.

Three Persons Injured As Cars Collide In City

Three persons were injured in a two-car collision at the intersection of Adams and North 21st Street early Saturday morning.

In St. Francis Hospital suffering from a bruised knee and back is Charles R. Medaries, 20, 113 Louise Anne Ave., driver of one of the cars. Samuel Lyons, 33, driver of the other vehicle, and Elmira Lyons, 26, both Negroes of 503 N. 22nd, a passenger in the car, were taken to the hospital and later released.

According to Monroe police, Medaries was driving his Victory cab west on Adams Street around 7:45 Saturday morning when it entered the intersection and collided with the Lyons vehicle. The impact pushed the Lyons car about 21 feet and into a utility pole on the southwest corner of the intersection.

No charges have been filed in the accident.

In ward 10, Charlie Wyant beat Marshall Braddock, 71-38, to gain the post on the board formerly held by Tom Tingle, who did not run for re-election.

Lincoln Parish

RUSTON (Special) — Dr. O. Horton Brown won the Democratic nomination for the ward 1 seat on the Lincoln Parish School Board Saturday, receiving 1,377 votes to 629 for his nearest competitor.

R. W. Hudson got the 629 votes to finish second in the voting while Howard Davis received 367 and Dr. W. L. Bergeron got 291.

Incumbent William Marbury did not seek re-election.

Franklin Parish

WINNSBORO (Special) — W. Buie Scriber, one of the two incumbents in the ward 7 school board race in Franklin Parish, was re-elected Saturday while the other incumbent, Bailey Martin, will face Otis B. Hassell in a runoff.

Incumbent F. L. Chambley gained a runoff with I. L. Carr in Franklin's ward 1 race. Chambley collected 272 votes, Carr 199 and Carl D. Batey 149.

Scriber received 970 votes in ward 7. Martin had the second highest total, 841, and Hassell collected 679 to force a runoff. W. T. Lofton received 570 votes and W. B. (Bill) Perkins 475.

LaSalle Parish

JENA (Special — In LaSalle Parish, with 28 of 28 precincts reporting, Speedy Long received 3,731 votes against the incumbent, Gillis Long's 1,302 in the first democratic primary for Eighth District congressman Saturday night.

In Ward 5 Harvey Bradford, the incumbent, and Donald Cooper will be in a runoff in the second primary slated for August 29. Candidates and their votes are Cecil Allen, 99; Bradford, 156; an Cooper, 204.

Aubrey Paul with 39 votes and H. V. Deason, 48, will be in the August 29 primary in a runoff. Harvey Clark, another candidate, received 38 votes in the election.

J. Fount Price, incumbent in Ward 7, will be in the August primary against J. W. Lee. Votes are O. O. Chapman, 15; Lee, 67; and Price, 79.

Richland Parish

RAYVILLE (Special) — In the Ward 2 Democratic primary election Saturday for Richland Parish School board member, the incumbent Dallas Thomason, 925 votes, was elected over Mrs. G. D. Cain, 669 votes.

In Ward 4 Eugene Johnston, won the school board seat with 321 votes against David C. Smith, incumbent, and James W. Logan.

In Ward 7, Fred E. Douchiere Jr. won his school board seat by one vote. He received 69 votes against his opponent John S. Owens' 68 votes. The incumbent, Woodrow Stamper, did not run for re-election.

Concordia Parish

FERRIDAY (Special) — In Concordia Parish, the incumbent, W. F. Johnson, and J. Logan Sewell were elected as new school board members from Ward 5 which is Ferriday.

Other candidates and their votes are Malcolm Enlow, 282; W. H. Irons, 94; C. D. Wike, 194.

In Ward 7, Vidalia, Clyde Webber with 626 won. There will be a runoff August 29 at the second primary between Vina Pankey, 458 and Lloyd Love, 320.

The other candidates in Ward 7 are Earl Price, 114, and Lane Crews, 315.

The machines in Precinct 7, Lake St. John, registered more people than the poll commissioners had on their books as registered voters. The machines, according to the commissioners, will have to be taken apart and examined.

East Carroll

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Returns from East Carroll Parish, Ward 7, in the first democratic primary Saturday shows that the incumbent, Atlas Arledge with 72 votes beat his opponent, Lucian Noland, with 84 votes, for the office of school board member.

Winn Parish

WINNFIELD (Special) — In Winn Parish's school board race here are the results by wards:

Ward 1 — James H. Emerson 846; Dr. Henry Parker 529, and H. E. Powell Jr. 608. Possible runoff between Emerson and Powell.

Ward 4 — Murray Chandler, the incumbent and president of the board, won Democratic nomination over W. E. Higgins, obtaining 202 votes to 91 for Higgins.

Ward 5 — G. C. Bailey, 92; E. M. McGinty, incumbent, 225; and Joel W. Stroud, 107, according to unofficial returns. McGinty was the apparent winner.

Ward 6 — Richard T. Collins, with 168 votes, defeated Bunyan Smith, the incumbent, who got 119 votes.

Jackson Parish

JONESBORO (Special) — In the Ward Two school board race, Dr. A. A. Meredith, the incumbent, won by a large margin, defeating his lone opponent, Charlie Johnson by a vote of 782 to 471.

Meredith has served since 1940 and has been president of the school board most of the time. A light vote was recorded with only 1,253 of 4,000 registered Democrats casting ballots.

Morehouse Parish

BASTROP (Special) — Complete and unofficial returns of the first democratic primary held in Morehouse Parish Saturday show that Arthur Hope Baggett of Ward 10 defeated incumbent, Duke Shackleford for the post of school board member.

Baggett received 259 votes and Shackleford, 73.

Bastrop, Ward 4, will have a runoff on August 29, the second primary, between Mrs. Ann Barham and H. Levern Defee and one between Max Dollar, incumbent, and Howard H. Yates, also incumbent for school board members.

Candidates and the unofficial votes are Mrs. Ann H. Barham, 739; Merwin M. Brandon Jr., 298; H. Lavern Defee, 362; Max Dollar, 673, Edward M. Head Sr., 258; S. E. Kay, 147 and Howard H. Yates, 595.

In Ward 8 there will be a runoff between Jeff M. Fontenot Jr., incumbent and Jerd Savage. Fontenot received 58 votes; Fred W. Martin, 22; Sam R. Norsworthy, 50 and Jerd Savage, 61.

A total of 3,072 people out of a registered 4,500 voters cast ballots in the first race.

West Carroll

OAK GROVE (Special) — Alfred Rawls with 226 votes against the incumbent Ben B. Ross's 218 Saturday won election as the new school board member of Ward 2 of West Carroll Parish.

The incumbent in Ward 4, W. M. (Mac) McIntosh, was also defeated. R. C. Brown, McIntosh's opponent received 481 votes against the former's 324.

Registered voters in Ward 2 numbered 582 with 1439 registered in Ward 4. This first democratic primary was the first time this area used the permanent registration form.

Madison Parish

TALLULAH (Special) — In Ward 6, Madison Parish, Chester Morgan, beat the incumbent, Homer Pratt King, for the school board position in the first primary Saturday.

Morgan received 74 votes; King 42, and Ralph Durr another candidate, 4.

Incumbent Long Concedes Win At Alexandria

ALEXANDRIA, La. (UPI) — U. S. Rep. Gillis Long conceded defeat Saturday and said his real regret in losing to Speedy O. Long was that their campaign had "degenerated into a battle of personalities and emotionalism.

"If I have any real regrets, it is that the campaign was fought on honest issues, nut degenerated into a battle of personalities and emotionalism," said Long.

"It is not Gillis Long who loses, when the Democratic process is so distorted," Long said, "but the people who really want honest effective representation."

GETS RIGHTS

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Embassy Pictures has acquired movie rights to "The Minister and the Choir Singer," a book based on the famed Hall-Mills murder case.

AFTER PARISH VOTING

Local Candidates Issue Statements

William Norris III, Democratic winner for the Ouachita Parish School Board in Ward 5, expressed his appreciation to the people of his ward Saturday night.

The 27-year-old attorney defeated three Democratic opponents, but faces Dr. Claude Smith, a Republican, in the November 4th general election.

Norris, father of three children, said, "I'd like to thank the people of Ward 5 and especially those volunteer workers who walked the streets with me for six weeks.

"I will work just as hard in the general election as I did in the Democratic primary. The main theme of my campaign has been and will continue to be that if elected each decision I make as a school board member will be weighed conscientiously in the light of what is best for the Ouachita Parish School system and the cause of education."

Robert Rhone, who was defeated in the Ward 5 race, said he wanted "to congratulate Norris for the way he conducted his campaign. And I also wish to express appreciation for those who supported and voted for me."

In Ward 10, H. W. (Buddy) Tolson who won the Democratic nomination for one of two posts on the board, issued the following statement:

"I wish to thank my many friends and supporters for their help, for without them this would not have been possible. Also, I would like to thank my opponents for their exceptionally clean campaign. My goal for the next six years, if successful in the general election, will be to work in harmony with the other school board members for the continued improvement and betterment of our parish school system."

Fred Henry, one of two who must run off in the August 27 second Democratic primary for the second Ward 10 post, issued the statement which read: "I want to thank all of the people who helped me in this race. I certainly appreciate the vote that I received. I will continue to work hard for the second Democratic primary and ask all voters in Ward 10 to give me their consideration.

"I would appreciate those who voted for my opponents in the first primary to consider me in the election on Aug. 27."

Milton Ford, the second candidate for the ward 10 post in the Democratic primary, could not be reached for comment. Also unavailable for comment was C. E. Buckley, successful incumbent from ward 3.

Vicksburg Girl Named Queen Of Mississippi

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — Judith Marion Simino, a 20-year-old junior at Southwestern of Memphis, won the Miss Mississippi title Saturday night.

The 130-pound brown - eyed beauty from Vicksburg, the pageant's only double winner in preliminaries, will represent the state in the Miss America contest.

Miss Simino, who has light brown hair and stands 5-foot-8, competed as Miss Vicksburg. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Simono.

First alternate was Patricia Ann Puckett of Columbus, Miss University of Mississippi; second alternate was Lynda Lou Furgerson, Miss Starkville.

Sharon Ann Hales of Winona, Miss Montgomery County, was third alternate, and Elizabeth Ruth Foster, Miss Natchez, was fourth alternate.

Miss Tupelo, Helen Virginia Swartzfager, was selected as Miss Congeniality.

Winn Supports Speedy O. Long

WINNFIELD (Special) — Speedy Long, with 13 of 31 precincts reporting, defeated Rep. Gillis Long, a distant cousin, by a wide margin in Winn Parish voting in the Eighth District Congressional race, unofficial returns showed Saturday night.

Speedy Long received 3,173 votes to 1,664 for Gillis Long.

Negro Leader Supports LBJ

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleep Car Porters and one of the nation's strongest Negro leaders, has announced his support for President Johnson.

"Never before have I come out publicly for the election of a president," Randolph said in Omaha Friday night on his arrival to address the Omaha division of the union. "I now openly express my preference for President Johnson."

He said he is backing President Johnson "not only because he has forcefully expressed his conviction for civil rights, but because Sen. Goldwater is not only against civil rights, he also is against labor's rights."

FBI INVESTIGATION

Ellender Praises LBJ's N.Y. Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., praised President Johnson Saturday for his "quick action to ensure that the forces of law and order" prevail in riotous New York City.

Ellender said in a statement for broadcast over Louisiana radio stations that violence cannot be condoned wherever it occurs, either north or south.

"But I have noted a tendency on the part of many of our national leaders to ignore one side of the story," Ellender said. "Much of the national press also seems to aid and abet this tendency." He added:

"They seem to delight in deploring and condemning disturbances in one section of the country while ignoring similar situations or trying to explain them away in their own backyards. For instance, disruptions of the peace are called 'demonstrations' when they occur in the South, and become riots only when they happen in a setting such as New York City."

Ellender said he was glad to see President Johnson "displaying a more realistic attitude toward this question" by ordering an FBI investigation of the situation in Harlem.

"For too long we of the South have been subjected to public demands on the part of misguided civil rights leaders calling for intervention in our states," he said.

These persons, he declared, should turn their attention to the conditions surrounding them in the large cities of the North before attempting to "export their way of life to our southern communities."

Civil rights leaders, he said, would be much better advised to do all possible to improve the lot of their followers in areas where they are already in control. He said this would demonstrate a much greater degree of responsibility "than has heretofore been in evidence."

During the debate on the civil rights bill in the Senate, Ellender recalled, he had charged that the bill would have very little effect in the large cities of the North "where it was apparently so badly needed."

Current rioting, he said, proves validity of that view.

Viet Cong Keeps Coming On Strong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—"We trap them every day, we clean out their bases, we beat them again and again, but they keep coming back for more, stronger than ever. I just don't understand it."

The speaker was a mud-spattered American officer, just back from a field operation with a Vietnamese unit. He was talking about the strange and elusive enemy America has been fighting here for three years—the Viet Cong.

The side with the most troops and firepower is often the losing side.

U.S. military men who served in both World War II and Korea say almost none of their experience has been applicable here.

America is trying to find out what makes this new breed of enemy tick. But officials here agree they still have a lot to learn.

Ironically, the enemy has been publishing handbooks on this kind of war for two generations.

He has spelled out his techniques, and by his own lights, the war in Viet Nam is going "by the book."

The lowest-ranking commissar in the Viet Cong fighting machine knows many of these texts by heart. Thousands of battlefield manuals have been captured from dead guerrillas.

Who wrote the book and what does it say?

Manuals on Communist military know-how began to take form half a century ago under Lenin's signature. As "Socialist revolution" moved into the Far East, a new name emerged—Mao Tze-tung. The mastermind of China's Communist movement refined Lenin's tactics to fit new problems.

The success of Mao's methods, detailed in his military writings, bore fruit in 1948-9 when his army swept over China. In 1954 a Vietnamese army of poorly equipped farmers under the leadership of Ho Chi Minh overwhelmed the modern French army. This victory was a violation of classic rules of warfare.

Ho's top military deputy, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, wrote the book, both literally and figuratively, on the current war.

Giap commanded the Communist army at Dien Bien Phu, and became defense minister in Ho's North Viet Nam government.

More than any other man, Giap is the military brains behind the Viet Cong in the South.

Giap's how-to-do-it book on Communist insurgency published in 1961 by the Hanoi government, is called "People's War, People's Army."

The Vietnamese Communists believe they have developed techniques that go far beyond the early teachings of Lenin and Mao Tze-tung. In fact, "People's Army" is offered not only as a guide to the Viet Cong but for use by Communist revolutionaries throughout the underdeveloped parts of the world.

The publisher's note says: "We hope that all our friends who, like us, are still suffering from imperialist designs and threats, will find in 'People's war, People's Army,' what we ourselves have found: further reasons for confidence and hope."

Some observers see in that passage an indication of things to come, such as Hitler gave in "Mein Kampf."

On the subject of arming Communist forces in Viet Nam during the Indochina war, Giap wrote: "The sole source of supply could only be the battlefront—to take the material from the enemy to turn it against him. While carrying on the aggression against Viet Nam, the French expeditionary corps fulfilled another task: It became, unwittingly, the supplier of the Viet Nam's people's army with French, even U.S., arms."

Today U.S. intelligence officials believe 90 per cent of the Viet Cong's huge stock of weapons and ammunition is American—captured from Saigon government installations.

What about field tactics?

Giap wrote: "Is the enemy strong? One avoids him. Is he weak? One attacks him. Losses must be avoided even at the cost of losing grounds."

Today, Viet Cong units rarely engage Saigon forces unless the Communists see at least a 5-1 numerical superiority.

Giap speaks continually of "people's warfare." He means total mobilization of every man, woman and child.

"Each inhabitant is a soldier, each village a fortress, every (Communist) party cell and each village administration committee a staff," he writes.

Today, even the women and youngest children in each Viet Cong-controlled hamlet are put to work making spike traps out of concrete and heavy nails, singing patriotic Communist work songs as they labor. The Communists feel that even if the spike traps are not vital to their war efforts, the sense of participation instilled in whole communities is.

Giap hammers on the idea that politics and war cannot be separated, and that all fighting forces must be under the direct control of the Communist party to win.

Viet Cong soldiers must be continually reminded of their "class consciousness," he writes and propaganda has to be pegged to this theme.

How does it work in practice?

About 80 per cent of the Vietnamese government army, although trained in French and American weapons and having modern arms and uniforms, are of peasant stock. There are continual reminders that the government soldier is poor and in danger of death, while his bosses in Saigon are wealthy and can dance every night in cafes.

Good relations between the Communist army and the people are a prime command of the Viet Cong leaders, even though it often breaks down in practice.

How long are the Communists prepared to keep up this kind of fight?

Giap answers: "Only a long-term war could enable us to utilize to the maximum our political trump cards, to overcome our material handicap and to transform our weakness into strength. To maintain and increase our forces was the principle to which we adhered, contenting ourselves with attacking when success was certain, refusing to give battle likely to incur losses to us or to engage in hazardous actions."

Has this philosophy worked in South Viet Nam?

Three years ago when America pulled out the stops in a major drive to help the Saigon government, intelligence experts estimated Viet Cong had core strength at about 18,000. Today, tens of thousands of casualties later, the Viet Cong hard-core strength is rated at close to 30,000, most of them armed with captured American weapons.

For the Viet Cong, every fighter is a propaganda agent and organizer, and vice versa. There is no real distinction between military and civilian; all participants must follow orders from the party Central Committee.

Many observers feel a great weakness in the South Vietnamese government is that it has no such coordinating party machine. Top American officials feel the biggest problem ahead is going to be meshing the gears of the dozens of American and Vietnamese organizations that have sprung up.

Giap stresses the necessity of being as light on your feet as a boxer, swift to make decisions and always keeping politics and war in balance.

Malaysia Fears Riots Could Be Downfall Of Federation

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Throughout the Malaysian heartland, riot police loll in barracks near major population areas waiting for the call that means communal violence has flared.

"We can handle Indonesia's crush-Malaysia campaign," a government official says. "But if this country collapses, it will be because our Malays and Chinese go for each others' throats."

Indonesian President Sukarno has sworn to smash Malaysia by Jan. 1, 1965, and has launched guerrilla raids and waves of agents against Malaysia to make good his threat.

This month, meanwhile, race riots brought death, curfew and bristling communal enmity to two areas in Malaysia. Shock waves spread throughout the nation.

The government first tried to hide and then to play down the fighting which quickly brought to mind communal battles in India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

The worst riot was in Singapore, 245 miles south of here, where eight persons died during the first few hours of fighting that also injured more than 340 and brought the torch to more than a dozen buildings and scores of autos, trucks and motor scooters. Singapore is overwhelmingly Chinese.

The first clash was in Bukit Mertajam, a small predominantly Malay rural area 250 miles north of here. There two families now are without fathers and bitter hatred divides neighbors who previously got along easily if not affably.

In Bukit Mertajam a market place squabble touched off fighting. In bustling, progressive Singapore the spark was a procession by 25,000 of the Island's 240,000 Moslem Malays in honor of the Prophet Mohammed—but power politics are believed to have been a factor.

Some of UMNO's firebrands retaliated by trying to picture Singapore State Premier Lee Kuan Yew, a Chinese, as the head of a racist party. The aim obviously was to drive the Malays back to UMNO. It also fired racial passions on an island known for past communail rioting.

UMNO leaders, not including Rahman, recently went to Singapore to try to weld the Malays into a group to bargain—and fight—with Lee.

The tough, brilliant state premier charged UMNO was stirring racial passions. He also declared the party had turned for support to extremists and racists as well as a man denounced by the government as a known Indonesian agent.

There were countercharges of racism. The Singapore rioting came three days later.

Malaysia has proudly boasted it is a uniquely successful experiment in racial harmony. But some government sources and others privately say the situation, never good, is deteriorating through key areas.

Much of the agitation is among the Malays, fearful that their country may be swallowed by the Chinese who flooded the area during British colonial rule.

The Chinese, industrious, thrifty and eager for education, in many ways outstripped the easygoing Malays who form the rural population.

In the opinion of some diplomats the government has responded feebly and too slowly to extremist elements among the Malays.

Some sources believe this is because of fears that a tough stand might seriously divide Rahman's Malay party. It includes a large wing with strong convictions on what it calls the Chinese problem.

The prime minister is an outspoken liberal on the race question and is generally credited with having made the multiracial nation possible and with keeping it together. He is loved by the majority of his fellow Malays and trusted by key segments of the Chinese community.

Goaded by the virtual Chinese stranglehold on nonforeign businesses and capital, Malays seem to fear that the proud, sometimes haughty Chinese may seize the government and possibly align this nation with Peking.

A 12-year Communist revolt which ended in 1960 was virtually an all-Chinese show although only a small percentage of Chinese actually took part.

Malaysia's 10 millions include a bewildering assortment of racial groups and indiginous tribes. It is dominated by the Chinese, with 42 per cent of the population, and the Malays with 40 per cent.

Besides race and economics the two major groups are separated by language and religion.

Under the constitution left behind by Britain, Malaya—the forerunner to Malaysia—was assured of a Malay-dominated government. Malays made up 51 per cent of Malaya's population, the Chinese 37 per cent.

Racial tensions turned upward about the time the formation of Malaysia added the overwhelmingly Chinese state of Singapore and the native-dominated states of Sarawak and Sabah to the federation. Malay leaders counted on the native tribes to follow the Malay leadership. This quickly proved false and Malay fears soared.

Long-Reaching Scandal May Affect Rank Of Dead Premier

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Government investigators report they have discovered close to $20 million in state funds mixed up in the estate left by Premier Sarit Thanarat.

The scandal, described as the biggest of its kind in Thailand's history has brought expressions of concern for Thailand's good name abroad. It has triggered reports demanding that the strongman, a field marshal in the royal Thai army, be posthumously stripped of his rank, medals and other honors.

The seven-month administration of Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, once one of Sarit's top lieutenants, is face to face with an issue that can be expected to be around for a while.

Thanom, by all appearances unruffled by the disclosures, has pledged his government will try to clear up the case even though it may be an unpleasant task.

Tough, hard-living Sarit, a professional soldier who grabbed power in a bloodless coup d'etat in 1957, died of a liver ailment last December.

Throughout his five-year term Sarit showed himself an able administrator. Within the framework of a firm alliance with and aid from the West, particularly the United States, he launched his country on a quick-paced, successful development drive and proved himself a tough anti-Communist.

U.S. aid has for many years contributed substantially to economic development here as well as to military preparedness. Since the end of World War II, the United States has given Thailand about $775 million in economic and military aid and loans.

Despite the large amounts involved, there has been no indication that U.S. funds were involved in Sarit's financial dealings.

A court case arose during the 100 days preceding Buddhist cremation rites which involved Sarit's widow, Lady Vichitra, and two of his sons by an earlier marriage who demanded executive powers to the estate.

The sons claimed the estate, including cash, property and shares, was worth 2.8 billion baht, or about $140 million. Vichitra said it was not, filed a counterclaim and maintained her husband left everything to her.

The press pounced on the case. Public interest grew with claims to the estate by some of Sarit's minor wives—a polite word here for mistresses. The administration froze the estate and appointed a five-man investigation committee to check into it.

The probing committee came up with what looked like at least part of the answer: It claimed state funds were involved.

In an interim report, the committee said detailed statements from Bangkok banks, business firms and other agencies showed at least 394 million baht—about $19.7 million—in state funds were mixed up in the estate.

The committee said there was little chance of finding out what accounts Sarit had in banks outside Thailand, but it called for an investigation of asserts owned by five close Sarit relatives, including his mother-in-law.

What political repercussions the scandal might have for the Thanom government is open to guesswork.

Martial law, still in effect, seems likely to help in efforts to get to the bottom of the case.

King Leaves Mississippi After 4 Days

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP)—Integration leader Martin Luther King ended a four-day tour of racially-troubled Mississippi Saturday and left the state with a promise to return.

King had stumped Jackson, Greenwood, Vicksburg, Philadelphia and Meridian in search of voting support.

The Negro leader wanted the support to go to the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, a predominantly Negro unit seeking to unseat the regular state Democrats at the national convention.

King said he was "greatly moved by the courage of the people in Mississippi and by their willingness to work for their freedom.

"I am confident that the Freedom Democratic Party will be seated at Atlantic City next month," he said before leaving for Atlanta.

King did not say when he would return to Mississippi.

BUCKET SEATS

AKRON, Ohio. (UPI) — By 1970, a third of all cars produced will carry bucket seats, predicts the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company.

As recently as 1960, the company said, only sports models had bucket seats. The following year 10 per cent of all cars had them. The figure jumped to 15 per cent in 1962, 18 per cent last year and Goodyear expects a further rise to 21 per cent in the current model year.

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

Goldwater, Aides To Review Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater and the men who will be top hands in the Republican's bid for the presidency sit down Monday to go over organizational plans.

On hand will be Dean Burch, the young new chairman of the Republican National Committee, and Denison Kitchel, the Arizona senator's campaign director, as well as staff aides.

One of the major tasks to be decided is the filling of a dozen top staff spots within the National Committee.

"This is where you take a look at what you've done and start gluing it together," an aide to Goldwater said of the campaign-talk gathering.

More than likely, the first look also will be given to the numerous requests from state Republican chairmen and others who want Goldwater for campaign appearances.

The GOP nominee continued working today at his apartment, as he has since returning from the nominating convention at San Francisco.

It was assumed the staff appointments to be made probably will come before Goldwater leaves Thursday for a week of rest in California.

He is scheduled to fly to Bohemia Grove, north of San Francisco Thursday, then Saturday go to Newport Beach, Calif., to join Mrs. Goldwater. They have vactioned there for several years.

By the time Goldwater returns to Washington around Aug. 6, he will have less than two weeks before kicking off his campaign.

The formal kickoff for the nominee is to come at Prescott, Ariz., sometime the week of Aug. 16-22, although the exact date is still to be nailed down.

Singapore Violence Lessens

SINGAPORE (AP) — Two breaks in Singapore's daytime curfew came off peacefully Saturday and Malaysian officials said the racial violence between Chinese and Malays appeared to be tapering off.

But fears of a wave of gangsterism were heightened.

Government officials said they had reports that gangsters and numbers of illegal secret societies were trying to stir up more racial troubles in Chinese and Malay villages where tension was reported still high.

The mobsters, officials said, want to re-establish their protection rackets, snuffed out recently.

Police reported they spotted a number of so-called secret society fighters leading some of the mobs into the clashes that have left 21 persons dead and 454 injured since Tuesday. Nearly 1,600 persons have been arrested.

Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew said the over-all racial picture seemed to be "calming down" but that "it will take some time before things will return to normal."

The daylight curfew imposed when the rioting began Tuesday will be eased another half hour Sunday, giving residents a total of eight free daylight hours. A night curfew continues.

Government teams, one of them led by Lee, spanned out into Singapore's 51 districts to establish peace committees. The biggest effort was being made in the 15 key districts where rioting has been most frequent or most threatening.

Chinese sources in close touch with the situation said "things are still tense" in these villages. Government officials appeared to share this view.

Singapore's population of 1.7 million is nearly 80 per cent Chinese. The Malay minority charges the Chinese have a stranglehold on the island's retail trade.

The racial clashes broke out during a parade in honor of the birthday of the prophet Mohammed Tuesday. The government said the fighting began after "a mischief maker" threw a bottle into the crowd.

The two-man Project Apollo rocket is 362 feet high, or nearly two-thirds the height of the Washington Monument.

ROCHESTER DISTURBANCE

Fierceness Of Riot Comes As Surprise

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Racial rioting in Rochester was preceded by signs of Negro unrest but the fierceness of the outbreak appeared in sharp contrast to earlier orderly contention over alleged police brutality and school segregation.

Rochester has a reputation as a serene city with high employment at good pay and a community of home owners living in quiet and contented respectability along shady streets.

The abrupt shattering of this placid scene thus descended with largely unexpected force. The loud and boisterous release of pent-up Negro hostility came as a surprise to many although there had been warnings.

Negro unhappiness received official notice in February 1963 when it was asserted that a Negro, hospitalized after his arrest on traffic and assault charges had been beaten by four policemen.

The complaint was withdrawn in March, but the City Council would not agree to the request of the National Association for the advancement of Colored People for creation of a citizens' review board to hear charges against the police.

A little earlier police had arrested 15 Black Muslims at a meeting of this organization. The officers claimed they were attacked when they sought to investigate a report that a man in the meeting place was carrying a gun.

Charges against two of the 15 were dismissed amid claims by the Black Muslims that the police had broken into a closed religious meeting. The other 13 were convicted of third-degree assault and unlawful assembly but they were placed on probation along with their two fellows.

Parents of white children also have taken legal action in opposition to an open enrollment program inaugurated by the Board of Education.

They claimed that the plan, advocated by the board to combat "overcrowding in the schools" actually was intended to end racial imbalance. Parents also contended the scheme was unconstitutional because it altered a neighborhood school pattern. The case still is in the courts.

In the face of such white opposition and Negro complaints violence has been at a minimum until police, Friday night, arrested a young Negro they said had become drunk and disorderly near a block dance in the Negro district. Youngsters at the dance came to his defense and wholesale rioting and looting began.

The violence was in strange contrast to the normal sober Rochester scene in which more than 300,000 persons, including about 25,000 Negroes, live and work.

Well known both as a cultural and manufacturing center, most citizens appear to be especially law-abiding. Downtown empties rapidly at the close of day as most of the workers swarm toward their comfortable homes and peaceful streets.

The city, settled in 1812 by New England folk under the leadership of Nathan Rochester, first gained industrial recognition as a flour milling center utilizing the resources of three falls in the Genesee River, which divides the downtown section.

Later, a relatively small group of industrialists, including the late George Eastman, sparked important manufacturing expansion.

Eastman founded the Eastman Kodak Co., a pioneer photographic concern, now one of the city's principal employers. Otherwise, Rochester's 800 manufacturing plants turn out quantities of optical goods, men's clothing, shoes, electrical equipment and other products.

There has been relatively little labor unrest in Rochester. Income of workers is high, with average annual family earnings in the metropolitan area of $8,300. Individual per capita income is $6,200, and currently there are only about 6,000 unemployed.

Rochester folk are proud of their culture. The Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra is world famous. The city has many schools and colleges, including the highly endowed Rochester University.

MILLER AND GOLDWATER

Voting Records Show Similar Conservatism

WASHINGTON — The Congressional voting record of Rep. William E. Miller, the GOP Vice Presidential candidate, is only a shade less conservative than the record established by Barry Goldwater in the Senate.

The retiring New York Congressman may bring balance to the Goldwater - led ticket in terms of section and religion, but a detailed analysis of the public record reveals little divergence in the philosophy and outlook of the two Republican nominees.

On some key issues, Miller and Goldwater have taken opposite stands on final votes. But in many of these cases, Miller had first voted for amendments designed to cripple or kill the bill.

While Sen. Goldwater's entire political career has been based on his championing of an unabashed conservatism in domestic policy and a minimum of foreign commitments for the U.S., Miller has expressed the complementary view that the mission of government should be "tax reform, reduced spending, balanced budgets, less bureaucracy, and stronger defense."

JOINS COALITION

Miller has acted on this concept of government by generally voting in accord with the conservative coalition of Southern Democrats and conservative Republicans. In House roll calls on which the coalition formed in 1959-60, Miller was part of this coalition 50 percent of the time and never voted against it. In 1961-62, he supported the coalition 64 percent of the time and opposed it on 18 percent of the votes. (Failure to vote lowers both support and opposition scores).

Goldwater's comparable record in the Senate was 67 percent coalition support for 1959-60 and 61 percent for 1961-62. He opposed the coalition on 3 percent of the roll calls in both the 86th and 87th Congresses.

The conservative organization, Americans for Constitutional Action, favorably cited Miller's voting record in presenting him with the 1963 ACA distinguished service award for acting "to preserve the integrity of the Constitution." Miller's ACA voting index score was 81 percent. Goldwater, who was also a recipient of the 1963 award, was credited with supporting the ACA position on 100 percent of the record votes in the Senate.

EISENHOWER, KENNEDY SUPPORT

Miller was slightly less consistent than Goldwater his his support of President Eisenhower's legislative positions. A CQ survey shows that the New Yorker voted with his President 56.6 percent of the time from 1952 to 1960. The Arizona Senator backed Eisenhower 59.5 percent of the time.

On the other hand, Miller has proved a little more willing than Goldwater to go along with Presidents Kennedy and Johnson. Miller's Presidential support scores were 33 percent in 1961-62 and 15 percent in 1963. The corresponding Goldwater figures are 18 and 14 percent, and his Kennedy-Opposition scores were consistently higher than Miller's.

In one respect Goldwater's and Miller's 1963 voting records were strikingly similar. Goldwater failed to vote on more roll calls (29 percent) than any other Republican Senator, while Miller failed to vote on more roll calks (51 percent) than any GOP Representative except ailing Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R. Mass.).

During his 1960 Presidential campaign, then-Senator John F. Kennedy cast no vote on 65 percent of the session's roll - call votes, an attendance record sharply criticized by his opponents.

KEY ISSUE DIFFERENCES

Since Goldwater's first election to the Senate in 1952, the two GOP standard bearers have occasionally taken different stands on key legislative issues: civil rights, foreign economic aid, income tax reduction, foreign trade, United Nations financing, manpower retraining, and medical care for the aged.

Even on these rare occasions of disagreement, however, Miller has usually registered partial adherence to the Goldwater position — by supporting a motion to recommit, or kill, a measure and then, if the motion failed, voting for the bill.

Following is a rundown of key votes on which Miller has indicated some disagreement with the Republican Presidential candidate:

—In 1960 Miller supported the Kerr-Mills bill, providing federal grants to states for medical care programs for the indigent aged. Goldwater voted against the measure, but later termed the Kerr-Mills Act "A pretty good law."

—In 1962 Miller voted for the Kennedy Administration's Trade Expansion Act, after he had supported a motion to recommit (kill) the bill Goldwater was one of seven Senate Republicans who voted against the measure.

Designer Heeds Topless Bans

PARIS (AP) — Paris fashion designer Louis Feraud heeded Saturday an official ban on topless attire for women in public and withdrew a revealing gown from his fall-winter collection.

The gown, a goldlame for eveningwear, features an open front that plunges to midbosom. Worn by Shapely Feraud model Madeleine Lerch of Montreal, the gown was photographed in advance of this week's Paris fashion showings.

Feraud showed it off to the public after announcing that he was withdrawing it from his collection to comply with an order issued Thursday by Interior Minister Roger Frey forbidding topless attire in public throughout France.

DESERT STUDY

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Thirty - one years of study of 119,370 square miles of desert in four U.S. states and Mexico is represented in "Vegetation and Flora of the Sonoran Desert," 1,740-page, two volume work recently published by Stanford University Press.

The author - surveyors are Stanford Prof. Ira L. Wiggins and the late Dr. Forrest Shreve of the Carneigie Institution's Desert Laboratory.

DISCLOSURE RESOLUTION SET

Lawyers To Study Senate Police Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Lawyers were directed Saturday to study Senate plans for a bipartisan committee on ethics to determine what impact the committee might have on anoher proposal to require senators to disclose their financial interests.

Action on the disclosure resolution was scheduled for Monday. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield put the Senate legal staff to work this weekend to see whether the new committee might change the need for the proposed disclosure plan.

Both were the outgrowth of the seven - month Robert G. (Bobby) Baker investigation into possible conflict-of-interest in the outside business dealings of the former secretary to Senate Democrats.

The result was two resolutions offered by the Senate Rules Committee, one asking that it be empowered to investigate and recommend penalties for senators, thir officers and staffs found guilty of wrongdoing.

In a surprise move Friday, the Senate voted to give this power to a new committee of three Democrats and three Republicans.

Mansfield said Saturday that the special panel's creation "changes the face of the entire situation." He said he wanted to make sure of the panel's relation to the proposed disclosure machinery.

He said he would confer Monday with Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., a firm foe of the disclosure plan. The entire question also will be discussed at a conference of all Democratic senators before the Senate meets at noon EDT.

The disclosure plan would require all senators and employes earning more than $10,000 a year to make public any outside business holdings amounting to 50 per cent or more of their annual congressional pay.

Meanwhile, five House Republicans announced they had invited Baker to appear before their own investigation of the Baker affair as it touched on House members and associates.

Others invited include Matthew M. McCloskey, former U.S. ambassador to Ireland and leading money-raiser for the Democratic party, and William N. McLeod, former chief clerk of the House District Committee.

Rep John B. Anderson, R-Ill., one of the investigators, said the group was "disturbed by the fact that the House has not acted to look into matters concerning the House and its employes which came out of the (Senate) Baker hearings."

The group planned to meet Monday to lay down guidelines for interviewing witnesses, with the first possibly appearing on Wednesday.

TRY STILTS OVER WATER

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Which is the southernmost home in continential United States?

The distinction had long been claimed by Hilario Ramos, Key West businessman.

Then Mrs. Mary de Forest Geary, formerly of Philadelphia, called for a measurement. Her home was given the nod by seven inches.

Now Ramos has built a beach house adjoining his to the south. A question to be decided is whether this counts for southernmost honors.

Workers End Sugar Strike

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—The 5½-month-old strike of British Guiana's sugar industry workers was called off Saturday by the Guiana Agricultural Workers Union—the trade union arm of the ruling Peoples Progressive party. It ordered members back to work Monday.

The union, in calling the strike, demanded recognition by the Sugar Producers' Association.

The strikers apparently did not get what they wanted, although a paragraph in the back to work order said "while it (the union) would continue to struggle for justice and recognition of workers, it is necessary in the new situation that has arisen to change tactics and advise a return to work."

Since the stoppage began millions of dollars worth of sugar cane has been burned. The strike also sparked racial violence between East Indians and Negroes. More than 150 have been killed.

Syria will build new highways from Damascus to Aleppo, 225 miles, then 100 miles farther, from Aleppo to Raqqah.

Program Details On Wood School Clinic Reported

RUSTON (Special) — Program details for a wood school clinic in the Student Center at Louisiana Tech at 7 p.m. Tuesday have been announced here by O. L. Fitzgerald, associate professor of forest utilization, who is in charge of local arrangements for the meeting.

The Tech forestry department and the Southern Pine Assn. are sponsoring the clinic.

Dr. Virgil Orr, dean of the college at Tech, is scheduled to welcome the visitors. Moderator at the session will be Lloyd P. Blackwell, head of the Tech forestry department.

The following talks are on the program:

"An Engineer Looks at Wood Schools," Jim Brown, chief engineer at Unit Structures, Magnolia, Ark.; "The El Dorado High School Story," Garland Stubblefield, superintendent of the El Dorado school system; "The Modern Wood School," Morris Smith, architect, Little Rock; and "Insurance and Other Considerations," C. A. Casteel, New Orleans, technical representative of the Southern Pine Assn.

At the meeting, emphasis will be placed on the increasing use of wood as a building material for school construction, Fitzgerald said. Improvements in the design of wood components and charges in insurance rates on wooden structrues also will be discussed.

Special invitations to attend the clinic have been sent to school board members and superintendents as well as architects in several north Louisiana parishes.

ABLE CAR THEFT

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin police are seeking a man about 30 who neatly stole a police car from the force's main garage but proved to be a bust as a bank bandit.

A bank clerk, on seeing the man pull a pistol, shouted a warning to his coworkers and the man fled the bank, driving off in the missing police car.

=BELL-RINGERS=

Bells cast by a foundry in Holland are sounding out pleasing melodies under the skillful handling of residents at St. Joseph's Home for the Aged in Monroe. Here is a report on how this tuneful art found expression there.

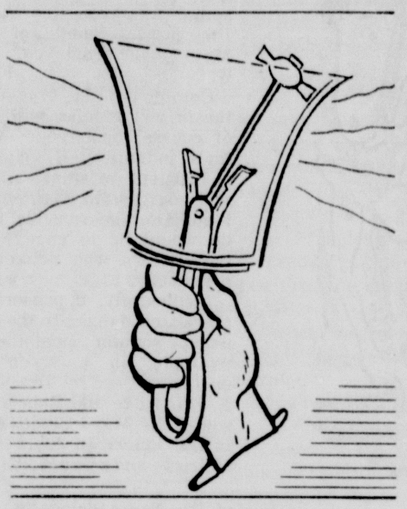
Bell ringing, a form of musical entertainment popular during the vaudeville period and again on the upswing in America, has some very enthusiastic exponents at St. Joseph's Home for the Aged in Monroe.

Sister M. Cecile, a staff member at the home, organized the bell-ringing group in the fall of 1962. Several visits from other bell choirs helped give the members the boost they needed to get started, Sister Cecile said, and the group has been progressing since then.

The number of bell choir participants at St. Joseph's grew so large that they were separated into two groups, Sister Cecile explained. Until they hit upon the name they consider "just right" for the units, they are designated as the "morning bells" and the "evening bells."



RINGING A HANDBELL is considerably more complicated than ringing an ordinary bell. These bells have a specially-constructed spring at the base of the clapper to enable the player to obtain just one distinct tone. The other (striking) end of the clapper has two small pieces of hard leather on either side, tipped with bits of felt, for the actual contact with the bell. A certain snap of the wrist is necessary to produce the correct sound from the bell.

TWO CONCERTS

Two concerts for persons and the home and guests are already on the record of the St. Joseph's bell choir. They made their first public appearance last Christmas with a program of holiday music. A second concert on May 24 was the last session before the group paused for a summer vacation.

"The art of playing handbells is commonly referred to as Swiss bell ringing, which is a misnomer," Sister Cecile said. "This form of music actually began in England with the huge bells in the church towers," she explained.

"The church bells became such a familiar sound around the English countryside that the bell ringers began experimenting and joining together to make more beautiful music. When it became apparent that the large bells in the towers were quite inconvenient for any length of practicing, they devised a type of hand bell that could be easily used.

"The activity grew rapidly in popularity and was one of the main forms of entertainment by 1800, with many organized groups touring the country and giving performances.

"They were so popular that they impressed the great American showman, P. T. Barnum, when he was touring England in 1847. He immediately hired the top group of the day, the Lancashire Bell Ringers, for an American tour.

"In the contract was a stipulation that the group dress in Swiss costume, grow long mustaches and be billed as the "Swiss Bell Ringers." Thus came the mistaken public idea that bell ringing was originated in Switzerland."

Bell choirs were the rage during the era of traveling shows and vaudeville performances in the United States, but sharply declined with the coming of motion pictures. Television variety programs and community amateur musical groups have helped bring bell choirs back into the limelight during the past several years.

In tracing the history of her own group, Sister Cecile said the idea for a bell choir came to her while she was in a local music store one day. "I happened to see a set of eight melody bells," she said, "and the thought occurred to me that our people might enjoy bell ringing."

"The original idea concerned the theraputic value of bell ringing, as well as the enjoyment they would get from it," she continued. "We purchased the bells, called for volunteers and were on our way."

"Our first difficulty was encountered with the type of music we used. Most bell choirs use individual sheet music for each member, so we tried that method. All the players sat around a table with the music on the table, but we soon realized the shortcomings of this procedure."

CHART METHOD

"Then in January, I discovered the chart method that we are presently using," she said. "All the music is transposed into numbers instead of notes, and the numbers are printed on one large chart that all can see."

Sister Cecile directs the group by pointing to the numbers in the desired tempo. Different colored numbers are used to distinguish between octaves. Red and black were chosen for their marked contrast, with black for the higher register, and red for the lower notes.

Each bell is exactly tuned to a certain pitch. Sister Cecile assigns a number to each bell, then uses this number to designate that particular note on the chart. Each player is permanently given a bell and number, and learns to sound her bell when her number comes up in the music.

ARRANGER

Sister Cecile explained that she had to do arrangements, as well as draw up the charts, on each number the group plays. "We use melodies from hymns and folk songs, plus familiar classical themes," she pointed out. Sister Cecile also composed tunes for the choir, including one entitled "The Bells of St. Joseph." The Sister said that the choir has about 30 pieces in its repertoire.

The set of 12 bells now being used by the choir was received in October of 1963. The bells were ordered from Petit-Fritzen Foundry in Holland after the home received a special donation from a local citizen for this purpose.

Known in the profession as tuned handbells, the instruments are cast of a special bronze alloy, called bell metal, which is 77 per cent copper and 23 per cent tin. They have firm leather loops for handles and a leather end on the clapper with felt tips on each side to strike the bell. The clapper is mounted on a spring to cause a clear, sharp tone when the bell is rung properly.

SPECIAL CHARTS for the bell choir were made by Sister M. Cecile, organizer of the group. She is St. Joseph's pharmacist, as well as activities coordinator. Since she is a registered music therapist, Sister Cecile decided on the bell-ringing as a likely project at the home.

WEAR GLOVES

"We always wear gloves when we play the bells," Sister Cecile pointed out, "to prevent tarnishing. This would not only detract from the appearance of the bells, but would also affect the pitch."

She added that most authorities on handbells recommend the use of toothpaste to clean them.

Bell choir members usually are volunteers. Sister Cecile said. "Once in a while I see someone that I believe would make a good bell ringer and I go after him," she added. "All the people really enjoy taking part in this activity and look forward to practice each week,'" she continued.

Current members of the organization are Mrs. Fannie Ackel, Mrs. Susie Batte, Mrs. Beatrice Bernard, Miss Eleanor Blanks, Mrs. Wood Brown, Mrs. Christine Heller, Mrs. Julia Hodge, Mrs. Carlotta Loeb, Mrs. Dolly McNair, Mrs. Mary Milner, Miss Jessie Roberson, Miss Marie Vigus and Mrs. Lee R. White.

Sister Cecile stressed the benefits that the ladies have received from the bell choir. "But I do wish we could talk some men into taking part in this activity also," she said.

"Many of the bell ringers have developed added strength in their arms and are able to use them in doing things that they could not accomplish before starting this program," she said. "Also, those with respiratory ailments have noticed an improvement."

In this activity they are learning a new technique, and learning the coordination with a group," she added. "Besides that, it is very good for their morale because they all enjoy it so much."

The ladies expressed their fondness for the bell choir, joking and laughing about different incidents during their stay in the group. One participant made a statement, however, which received the immediate and unanimous agreement of the entire group.

She said, "The credit for all of this belongs to Sister Cecile."

New Political Types Are Molded By Changing World

By JAMES A. FARLEY
Written For The Associated Press

Former U.S. postmaster general, James A. Farley, who started his political career as a town clerk more than half a century ago, writes of the new politicians molded by a changing world. Now 76, he is board chairman of a large soft drink export corporation.

As the presidential election season gets under way, several important factors are obvious.

For one thing, the new breed of politician is far superior to its predecessors. The reason is patently simple. The country has improved immeasurably, has become far more complex, and hence requires far more able men to run it.

The American people have made great advances in the past few decades, and the men they have placed in public office reflect that change.

The fact that the quality of public officers has improved reflects more than the improved standards which the American people seek and indeed demand. It reflects also and obviously, the improved quality of party leadership. To make sure of the future strength and well-being of our country, we need more of this new breed in our political life.

There are very few representatives of either major party who are not aware of the great changes which have taken place, and even more importantly, of the greater changes which are evolving.

The party which gives the best expression to this expanding life of the American people will be the party they select to implement their progress.

Since a political leader's first duty is to get his party elected, he—more than anyone in the community—should be aware of the changes. As an example of change, in this one year our college graduated more students than the total of college graduates in our nation in 1864.

Once higher education was a privilege of wealth; now it is an absolute necessity for any aspiring youth. Educated people are highly cognizant of the fact that public business is the most important business in the country, and that the life of every citizen is intimately bound up with it.

Times have changed. The old-fashioned ward leaders who relied on the May-waltz, the clambake and the Thanksgiving turkey are as quaintly moribund as the old harness shop. The modern district leader has to have the answers on new school financing, public health policies and proposed zoning changes. Once he was the political broker, the protecting hand for the illiterate immigrant in a strange land.

That kind of immigrant has passed into history. The public school system, which is the real heat under the melting pot, has fused his children and his neighbors' children into a new breed of Americans.

Not only is the American public more open-minded. The modern means of communication—newspapers, radio, magazines and television—have provided the average citizen with a continuing and instantaneous account of public matters, a coverage which allows the candidate to appeal directly to the people.

There may or may not have been the legendary "few men in a smoke-filled room" who handpicked the top candidates. But if such still exist, you can bet they will not gain a victory merely by concentratimg on their personal whims.

Today's political leaders must use every bit of common sense and "know-how" and intuition to pick a winner. They are much more interested in what the average citizen is likely to think than they are in what they personally like or dislike.

GREAT FALLACY

These concepts have given rise to what in my opinion is a great fallacy.

There are those who refer to the present crop of public servants as "glamor-age politicians." I do not hold with this view at all. A man has to prove a great more than "glamor" to hold his own in politics these days. In that respect, television has been called the greatest lie detector in history. I tend to agree.

The deficiencies of a man who is unqualified are beyond the power of any makeup artist. I further cannot bring myself to believe that the most adept of cosmeticians can place upon the face of any candidate the leadership he lacks in his heart.

It may well be that the extreme good looks of our late President John F. Kennedy misled the unanalytical into believing that appearance was his principal asset. It was not. His enthusiasm, his idealism and his leadership were ornamented by his good looks; but his appeal was built on his character.

In terms of our own history, I cannot conceive of much fundamental change, had the present means of communications been available to us since 1776. Indeed, for the true greats of our past, they might have made things easier.

The granite character of George Washington, which in my opinion is the cornerstone in our republic's founding, would have been illuminated, not diminished by television. I cannot imagine klieg lights dimming the fire in Andrew Jackson's eye, nor the fiercest artificial lights obliterating the majestic composure of Abraham Lincoln's mighty spirit.

President Theodore Roosevelt's tremendous energy would have been more than a match for any electric machine, and Woodrow Wilson's austere purity would have been conveyed as stemming from the pulse of the deeply human heart beneath it.

I think the old-time stem-winding stump orators wouldn't last five minutes today. People today want facts and decisions in a terse half-hour, nor a four hour exercise in metaphors and similies.

In my own time, Franklin Delano Roosevelt changed all that with his radio Fireside Chats. The voice was great, to be sure, but the public sensed that behind it was an even greater heart.

I believe that our age is meeting this new challenge. As one who believes in the two party system, I am convinced that both parties have brought forth splendid and superior men in our times.

The fact that I was not a particular admirer of the policies of the Republican party when I was chairman of the Democratic National Committee did not blind me to the fact that it possessed, in such leaders as Sen. Robert L. Taft of Ohio, Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan and Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, men of highest integrity and ability.

Indeed, I found former President Herbert H. Hoover to be the noblest of opponents.

Out-Jumping Johnson

Recent pictures of President Johnson are beginning to resemble those of Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, that were taken after the California presidential primary, during the Republican national convention and since that time. People used to say that when Rockefeller smiled he showed a row of piano keys. Well, those keys haven't been in sight lately. Johnson now is looking equally grim and with apparent good reason. In a frog-hopping contest, Johnson's Republican opponent for the presidency, Senator Barry Goldwater, is out-jumping him so far people are beginning to open their eyes in wonderment.

Take Goldwater's recent proposal to keep the integration issue out of the election campaign. Johnson would like to do just that because, with racial rioting getting out of hand in many places, he knows the heat that is on him is worse than a hot Texas branding iron. He also knows Goldwater will profit more than he will by letting the integration issue come to a head. It has been predicted Johnson would accede to the Goldwater proposal. But, how could he do that? It would look as if he were letting Goldwater run his campaign for him.

Also, take the communist issue. Johnson has been soft - peddling on that and has been playing up to Russia because he thinks that is what the so - called liberals in this country want.

Now Johnson advisers are having nightmares over that. They say private polls are showing shifts of 10 to 20 per cent to the Goldwater camp among Polish - American voters in the big Eastern and Midwestern cities. Warnings have been issued by Senator Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., Speaker John McCormack, Mass., and Chicago Mayor Richard Dailey.

They warned the President that he must publicly support a stronger stand against continued communist expansion and control over the Eastern European satellites.

In one White House meeting, Senator Dodd, a long - time political ally, frankly told the President that if the administration's policy of seeking "accommodations" with Russia isn't shelved, it could cost him the election.

"Goldwater's charge that the administration is seeking peace with Russia at the expense of the people in Eastern Europe is having as much impact on the nationality groups as the backlash from civil rights," Dodd asserted.

President Johnson was reported to have admitted the shift in sentiment toward Goldwater but was said to be afraid of offending the "liberals" by a rough policy toward Russia. Nevertheless, with his swift ability to change, he is expected to adopt a tougher policy toward Russia for the duration of the campaign only.

In both of these issues, Johnson is caught between the devil and the deep blue sea. On the matters of segregation and Russian policy, the people are turning against him but he is still afraid of offending the so - called liberals and says he doesn't dare desert the policy of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Goldwater, with his ability to thrust with the rapier where it is felt most, is expected to give Johnson plenty of additional problems. Johnson knows that and that is the reason it has now become as hard for him to smile as for Governor Rockefeller to do so.

279.5 Million Trees

People are so accustomed to the profligate spending of money that they can read about millions and even many billions of dollars without batting an eye. When we talk of hundreds of millions of trees, however, it is a different thing. Trees grow to be mighty big and 279.5 million of them could take up a lot of space.

But that is only a small part of the total — just the planting in the Southland for one year, and not even all of that. Pulp and paper companies and pulpwood suppliers were responsible for planting more than 279.5 million pine seedlings in the South during the 1963-64 planting season, according to a report by the Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association of Atlanta, Ga. In addition, vast numbers of pine seedlings were supplied to farmers by various states, with the cooperation of the United States Department of Agriculture. There were also large plantings of hardwood trees.

Counting the number of trees planted in previous years in the South alone, the number now runs well into the billions. Of course, in other parts of the country, there have also been huge plantings.

H. J. Malsberger, general manager of S.P.C.A., explained that the plantings were part of the industry's sustained program to convert idle lands into productivity. They included 23.7 million trees given to individual landowners.

In addition, he said, 56,767 acres of land in the area were directly seeded in pines, showing a slight gain over the 53,402 acres directely seeded last year.

When we consider that trees now can be counted in many billions, and that an adequate supply of timber for at least 100 more years seems assured, if the program is carried on and that both lumber and pulpwood bring excellent prices, we get some idea of what a vast industry tree - growing has become.

Many Against 'Rights'

There's nothing like perverting the meaning of a word to make people turn against it. When the word "rights" is used to persistently to mean something that is wrong, something that actually deprives most people of their individual and constitutional rights, the word itself becomes distasteful, if not actually revolting.

This was innocently proved recently when two junior high school boys in suburban Kensington, Md., near Washington, took their own survey of the state of the nation and learned an unhappy lesson.

The two boys, 12 and 13 years old, typed out the Bill of Rights — the first 10 amendments to the Constitution of the United States — on a plain sheet of paper. On Independence Day, July 4, they took the paper around in their neighborhood as a "petition" and asked people to sign it.

More than half of the 101 persons confronted with the petition refused to sign it. There was a time most people would sign a petition for almost anything without reading it. They thought if it was worth petitioning for it must be good. Now most people wouldn't be willing to sign a petition for a stay of their own execution without reading it carefully. People have learned a petition can be a trap and they are rightly suspicious.

The boys said only 22 — less than one-fourth of those requested to sign — recognized the paper as a copy of the Bill of Rights, and seven of them still refused to sign.

Some of those approached lost their tempers and some confused the paper with the so- called "civil rights" bill. After all, the names "civil rights" and "Bill of Rights" sound a good deal alike.

The trouble is, the so - called "civil rights" bill takes away some of the rights guaranteed in the Bill of Rights. It is too bad more people don't know about the Bill of Rights but there is small wonder that they are becoming wary — and that they don't like the "civil rights" bill.

A Western Roundup? How Uncouth!

Views Of Our Readers

Views Of Youth

Jennings, La.

To the Editor:

I am writing to every Adult, U. S. A.

I am hoping this letter will be printed for I believe, as a college student, I write the views of the majority of the youth of our nation.

Our forefathers worked for many years to hand to you a free nation, but what have you done with this freedom that should rightfully be passed on to us?

You, as American citizens, have allowed our country to be infiltrated with communism, crime, disease, and filth. You have sat back and watched while our servicemen were, and still are, being killed for no reason. You have allowed crimes to pass unrevealed to the public eye because they might endanger the reputation of our highest official. You have mostly ignored the fact that our individual rights are being taken away from us. You have allowed public demonstrations that show the whole world the disunity within our nation. Oh, yes, you argue and talk about it but what do you actually do?

You have taught the youth of today to worship the almighty dollar, you have given us new cars which soon grow old and money which slips through our fingers. This is not what we want! Youth desires the thrilling of heart when "Old Glory" is seen waving in the wind and pride bubbling through our voices in singing the national anthem. You have educated us to freedom, then taken it away.

And why? How are you guilty? Because you do not exercise your rights as a free citizen. On election day you're too tired to cast your vote, or you feel that your one small vote wouldn't make any difference. Do you realize that all those "one small votes" can mean a landslide victory for the right candidate? Too many of you vote "party" instead of "man." Can't you for once forget whether you are a Democrat or Republican and vote in November for the man as an individual?

We, as a nation, are in desperate need of a man like Sen. Goldwater, who stands straight and proud for what he believes. He is a man containing love for God, his fellowman, and freedom and most of you seem to forget that God is an important part of this nation. If you do not elect a man of his caliber, we, the youth, will be standing with our hands outstretched to receive nothing but the tiny dribbles left of our democracy when it is our turn to be the leaders. Senator Goldwater is the only available man who can help America repair the broken, crumbling walls of our democracy. Won't you please help us to retain our rightful inheritance?

DIANE ROBERTS

Meaning Of Democracy

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Now seems to be the time for all good men to refer to the dictionary. According to mine, "democracy is government by the people; government in which the supreme power is retained by the people and exercised either directly or indirectly."

"I am a conservative; therefore a democrat. The Democratic party as it is today should change its name because it is no longer the party of the people.

Possibly it was "extremism" for my forebears to come to America in 1730, possibly it was "extremism" for them to be part of the delegation from North Carolina that drafted the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence. Captain James Jack took "extreme measures" when he carried said document to Philadelphia on horseback. He did so at the extreme risk of losing his life.

Possibly it was "extremism" for them to fight against the Crown during the American Revolution.

Possibly it was "extremism" for them to fight at the Alamo. One went to such extremes as to lose his life.

It was claimed by an NBC commentator that the people who support Goldwater are looking at the past and not the future. That is a lie. The fact that we are for him proves that we are looking toward the future but a much better one than the present. He interviewed some English statesmen who were opposed to Goldwater. Frankly, I do not see why it matters what they think. We don't interfere in their politics; why should they have a say in ours? If I respected their views, or my forebears had, we would still be the Western Ireland. The American money is welcome there. They tell us to "go home Yankee" but not until they have stripped us of our good American dollars. If there is any more tea to be dumped in Boston harbor, I would like to be a participant, and I'll take mine with lemon, please, not cream.

Therefore, I go along with the Puritans, Patrick Henry, Custer and others and will proudly remain an extremist.

Insofar as Senator Keating, Nelson Rockefeller, et al, were concerned, they were just waiting for an excuse to take umbrage at one of Goldwater's remarks. They are poor losers and come November, we will determine just who is the minority in our country.

My dictionary also says that the word "moderate" has been applied to "people who hold liberal or lax views on questions." It gives us synonyms: "to lower or lessen."

Here is what I think Goldwater meant to imply:

"I would remind you that doing our utmost in the defense of liberty is no vice, and let me remind you that laxness in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

I think the reason he chose those words was because they were so twisted around by the liberals of the party.

Nelson Rockefeller should understand by now that instead of being a VIP the country hopes he will RIP (rest in peace.) Politically, he is dead. There are some things money can't buy.

I hope the voters of Louisiana will think on these things. Now is the day of salvation. Let us do our utmost and not be lax in the pursuit of our duty.

MRS. ROGER WHITE

Those Lovely Children

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Those lovely children sent to Mississippi by the National Council of Churches are the children my Methodist Church helps to send to Mississippi, my home state, to cause trouble between my family and friends and their colored friends.

Robert White, the editor of the Oxford Ohio Press, Oxford Ohio is quoted as saying, "Wester College for Women in his home town was, as the whole nation must know by now, chief training ground for the summer volunteers en route to civil rights work in the Project. As a result, the editor, the mayor, the police chief and other townspeople got numerous letters of complaint from the South about Oxford's role.

Intent on pointing out that Oxford really didn't have any role, Mr. White wrote an editorial in which he pointed out that tremendous coverates with "Oxford, Ohio' datelines has placed responsibility NOT WITH THE NATIONAL COUNCIL OF CHURCHES or with Wester College, where it might more rightly belong, but with the entire community.

"In truth, the citizens of Oxford, or even the state of Ohio, are no more responsible for the young men and women who went forth from here . . . than the people of Dallas or the state of Texas are responsible for Lee Harvey Oswald."

Mr. White then mentioned several incidences involving the volunteers which did them no credit. THERE WAS HARASSMENT OF A WEDDING PARTY AT A CAMPUS CHAPEL, SWEARING A WEDDING GUEST, CAR ROCKING INCIDENTS and the yard of the CAMPUS HALL LITTERED WITH WHISKY AND BEER BOTTLES. (These are those lovely children the National Council of Churches put $250,000.00 on of our money.)

"It would be unfair," Mr. White wrote, "to condemn all trainees and 'faculty' for the bad manners of a few, but TO THE EXTENT WHICH THIS CHIP ON SHOULDER, ILLKEMPT ELEMENT IS TYPICAL OF THOSE attending the conference session . . . LORD HELP MISSISSIPPI!" These are Mr. White's words, from Oxford, Ohio.

He also placed blame on the NATIONAL COUNCIL OF CHURCHES and said it was obvious it did not recruit delegates from among church youth leaders, "Instead they sought to prepare boys and girls whose previous avowals had indicated they are headed South anyway.

Yes, these are those lovely children the national press is talking about, only they do not sound like the same ones.

C. G. DRENNAN

GOP Convention

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

After watching the Republican convention, I have reached several conclusions, one of which concerns the platform committee. I was especially interested in the workings of this group, as I had written Congressman Mel Laird in criticism of his statement. (Washington, D.C. AP) of 21 May, that he had suggested that "any candidate who disagrees with the 1964 platform should be rejected by the convention delegates.

After reading this article I wrote Mr. Laird telling him such a statement was "rank nonsense." and that the platform should be built around the man chosen. I also enclosed a cartoon from this paper, showing the Senator walking erect—with five knives, an arrow and an axe in his back, placed there by the ADA, the liberal gang-up, the labor bosses, liberal smears by magazines, commentators and such others as New York's governor and the recently returned ambassador from Viet Nam. I have his reply here.

Regardless of this, that committee really went all out with Mr. Goldwater, and it was good to see this same Mr. Laird standing behind the Senator, clapping his hands when the Liberals aimed their shots — which fell short.

The action of opposing delegates, and others who, by the very brainlessness of their demonstrations, only added to the total vote for the man from Arizona, was such as to almost make a well man sick, really shows to what ends the opposition will go. Talk about extremism!! It was shown in the actions of the New York section, the Scranton letter, the CORE sit-downs and the action of the Negro delegates.

That Barry Goldwater, a Conservative, received such a wonderful, outstanding vote of confidence shows where the work and file of Americans stand — where, in spite of all the ranting of the liberals, radicals, do-gooders and such, there really IS a great reaction of political doings of the last few years. I feel that America is coming into her own!!

Of course, it is possible the movement is somewhat late. There are so many who will vote for the present administration because they neither know nor care for the future of this country, as long as they get theirs, but I still feel that the average voter has a sense of decency, a belief that he is a part of America and by holding such views, he can and will show his strength on election day.

By his voting against the civil rights bill, and for his statement to "hold him responsible for such action" he really gave the nation, and the world a view of the strength of his belief, his decency and above all his Americanism.

This Convention will go down in history.

John E. Zufall

For Goldwater

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor,

It would be amusing, if it were not so tragic to the American people, to listen to the reaction of foreign countries to whom 100 billion dollars of the taxpayers money has been passed out. They predict dire things will happen, not only to the U. S. A. but also to the free world, if Senator Barry Goldwater is elected President.

We have been told time and again that we do not understand these foreign countries and their problems. I think it is time for them to understand our problems, and also what we think of them. They should understand and consider the burden of our people for the past 20 years, the staggering debt we owe. Yet, our government loans money to countries who have not paid their past bills to the United Nations, and who can not pay unless some nations refuse to do. As if this were not enough, our government paid the back dues for some of these nations without our knowledge or consent.

The American people have written to the Congress and the Senate year after year protesting, and yet we get more of the same each year. Considering these things, I think the foreign nations should be willing to pay up and pay their fair share to keep freedom at home and abroad, and to ease the burden of the American people who have carried it so long.

And there is the matter of discrimination here at home. The President signed the so-called civil rights bill, whether constitutional or not, but he has not acted to clear up the discrimination of the tidelands oil deal. Florida and Texas have 10.35 miles of oil rights in the Gulf. Why not allow Alabama, Louisiana, and Mississippi 10.35 miles into the Gulf. I think President Johnson was going to use this to bargain with these three states, or as a club to makes these states accept full desegregation, but it looks as though he is going to miss the boat this time, if Barry Goldwater is elected. I refer to the telegram from Goldwater's organization stating that he was in favor of granting this 10.35 miles of oil rights to these three states. We can now tell the President that we have had a previous offer.

All of the things I have mentioned above are reason enough, not counting the many reasons that I did not mention, for the American people to turn to Senator Goldwater, who has proven his courage by standing firm on issues that were not popular, but that he considered to be right. They have faith in his honesty and integrity, and believe that he will consider our people first and will deal fairly but firmly with our friend and foe alike.

Woman Wants To Pick Anesthesia

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I am going to have a child by Caesarian operation in a few months. On my visit to the doctor yesterday I learned that he wants to give me a spinal when time for the operation. I have had two other children in the past six years. For my first Caesarian I was given sodium pentothol and for my second I was given gas. When I told my doctor I wanted sodium pentothol and was afraid of having a spinal his reply was that a spinal was safer for the baby. I'm just a bundle of nerves. May I hear from you? — Mrs. G.

Comment: The type of anesthesia you receive will depend, of course, upon your own doctor's judgment. If your doctor is insistent on spinal anesthesia and you remain frightened of it, I suppose the sensible thing to do would be to engage one of the doctors who delivered you previously.

Incidentally, if properly used, there's no danger to the baby in using sodium pentothol. For example, in a recent paper on the subject by Drs. Virginia B. Hartridge and Robert B. Wilson of the Mayo Clinic, reported in the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, they say that unhurried delivery is possible when balanced general anesthesia is used for Caesarian section. They begin the anesthesia by using a single dose of thiopental sodium. Then they use nitrous oxide and oxygen. The fact that the infant is delivered 12 to 15 minutes after anesthesia has taken hold, lessens any likelihood that the infant will have any difficulty in respiration because of the thipental sodium.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I have a heart block. Occasionally my pulse gets down to the low 40's at which time I get dizzy and faint. I'm told nothing can be done for it. Is this true?—Mrs. Mc.

Comment: I don't know who had been doing the telling but don't you believe it. Much can be done for heart block. Fairly recent operations have changed the outlook. Scientific, electronic gadgets can be installed which will keep the heart beating normally. Better make an appointment with some recognized cardiologist for a complete evaluation of your heart. If you need such surgery, he will refer you to a competent heart surgeon.

Writes To Hatfield

Rayville, La.

To the Editor:

Please print the following letter.

Governor Mark O. Hatfield
Oregon State Capitol
Salem, Oregon

Sir:

It was hard to tell from your keynote address, a part of which I heard on televison, what vote you were playing for or whom you were trying to appease. I refer to your statement picking out the John Birch Society to blast as bigots along with the Communist party.

Now from your position in government you should be a well read man. From your geographical location you should know what goes on in California. But apparently you do not. Did you know the California Senate had an investigation made which not only pronounced the John Birch Society not subversive but a patriotic organization?

Apparently you have joined a group in government who want to use the John Birch Society as a whipping boy to get votes from the red tinged.

The John Birch Society is an extremist in that it is 100 per cent in opposition to communism and the Communist Party. With the position which communism headed by Russia takes of destroying the United States of America any acceptance of communism, any compromise with communism is just that much anti-American and that much aiding and abetting the enemy — treason is the dictionary word. And this goes for those persons, no matter how high, who would place the United States into international socialism, Fabianism, sovereignty surrender to the Red controlled United Nations organization or any other anti-American group or ideology.

Your former leader who once termed himself "sap" and who said this country did not need any Super Patriots was wrong. We need one Super Patriot — to be in the position of President of the United States of America. Let us hope we will get him before it is too late. Otherwise Super Patriot is redundant, one is a patriot or he isn't.

And pray tell me what is so wrong with being Right?

Yours with hope for an American America.

Some Poison Plants

Monroe, La.

Some time ago, some one, through your paper, seemed disturbed because oleander is poisonous. The leaves are; so are many other plants in common use. Many of the most poisonous ones, when wisely used, are valued as medicines.

Many people have Datura or Angel's Trumpet. It belongs to the nightshade family and is fatal in all parts of the plant.

Other poisonous plants are: primrose, Euphobias (Snow of the Mountain), dog fennel, boxwood, fruit of dogwood, foxglove, holly leaves and berries, larkspurs foilage and root, polkweek root, fig leaves and so on. There is really an endless list.

What may not affect one person in some plants may be poisonous to others. I know people who cannot get near lantana. African violets, heliotrope, gerranium, verbena, mulberry, etc.

THE WORLD IN FOCUS

By John Cale

Dixie Lateral

WITH THE nation still surprised at the strength of the conservative pulse as set in motion at the San Francisco GOP convention last week, many in the South were equally reassured over Alabama Governor George C. Wallace's announcement early this week that he would step aside in the presidential campaigning.

In making his announcement, Wallace said he felt he had already served the nation as an "instrument of conservatism" through his showing in primaries and write-in campaigns across the nation.

GOV. WALLACE

But he did not say he was backing either major party or candidate. Instead, he put both groups on notice and said no one can be elected who makes a "whipping boy" out of the South.

IN THE various southern states, opinions were mixed as to what would happen to the free elector movement which had looked to Wallace as a standard bearer in November. Tom I. Davis, executive secretary of North Carolina's Democratic Party said "Wallace has let a lot of people down."

In Louisiana, State Senator Harold Montgomery of Doyline — who pitched himself a tent on the capitol grounds in Baton Rouge rather than sleep in an integrated hotel during the last week of the Legislature's session — also held out for the free elector movement. He said he didn't think the GOP platform was "conservative enough," but hastened to add that, speaking for himself, "I'll durn sure not go for Lyndon Johnson."

Boost For GOP

BUT IN most cases, it appeared the Alabama Governor's action would serve to boost the growing power of the Goldwater lineup in the South and possibly elsewhere. Roy V. Harris of Augusta, Georgia, said he was going to call his Wallace-for-President group together and ask it to form an organization of Democrats for Goldwater.

Also former Governor Marvin Griffin of Georgia, a close ally of Wallace, said he would vote for Goldwater. "I have not left the Democratic Party," he said. "It has left me."

Apparently, for the first time in many years, the liberal and conservative factions over the United States are fairly well identified behind Democratic and Republican banners, respectively.

Rough Edges

WHILE GOVERNOR Wallace, a Democrat, was willing enough to step aside in the name of conservatism, several of the more moderate Republicans said this week they could not support GOP nominee Barry Goldwater for the presidency — as of now.

New York State took the lead, with Senators Kenneth B. Keating and Jacob Javits — both of whom wore long faces during the Arizona Senator's acceptance speech — most outspoken.

New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller has said he would support the GOP ticket. But he sharply criticized the statement on "extremism" Goldwater made in his speech accepting the presidential nomination. Since then Rockefeller has made no further statement.

ONE PROMINENT New York Republican, State Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, said he expected that "all Republicans will be able to support the Goldwater-Miller ticket as the campaign unfolds."

Other Republicans said they are holding off support of Goldwater. They included Governor John H. Reed of Maine, Representative Silvio O. Conte of Massachusetts, State Senate Majority Leader William E. Ozzard of New Jersey, Senator J. Glenn Beall of Maryland, Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin of Baltimore, a former governor; and Representative James G. Fulton of Pennsylvania.

FULTON SAID he felt more akin to President Johnson than to Goldwater but might write in a vote for Scranton.

MEANWHILE — William E. Miller, the Republican vice presidential nominee, said the Goldwater-Miller ticket hopes to get the support of Republican moderates and liberals, "but failing to get it won't be fatal."

MILLER SAID that he didn't believe New York's Sen. Kenneth Keating would bolt the party. He said Governor William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, Goldwater's chief contender, had said he would support the ticket.

Applied Theory

FOR ALL that might have been said at the Republican Convention relating to conservatism and the Constitution, the Johnson forces got busy late this week to push the $947.5 million antipoverty bill through the Senate by a vote of 62-33.

This was part of a whole series of bills which might become hot issues in the pre-November campaigning period. Senators Goldwater and Tower — Republican member of Congress from the President's home state — tagged the antipoverty measure as "politically inspired" and called its approaches to the problems of poverty "worthless and misleading."

Most Republican senators joined Goldwater and Tower in voting against passage of the antipoverty bill. It still faces action by the House.

Medicare

ANOTHER ISSUE apt to receive a more thorough airing as the campaign shapes up is the matter of medical care for elderly persons financed through Social Security.

Democrats on a Senate subcommittee called this week for quick action to finance health insurance for the aged through Social Security taxes. The group's Republican minority, including Senator Barry Goldwater, urged "aggressive extension of voluntary health insurance."

"It is quite clear that the Congress has the responsibility and the obligation to act, and act quickly," the eight Democratic majority members of the sub-committee on health of the elderly said in its 75-page report.

Their study criticized present voluntary health and hospital insurance plans by commercial insurance companies and the broader nationwide Blue Cross plans.

Differing with these findings and recommendations was a sharply worded minority report by Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee, and Republican Senators Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Frank Carlson of Kansas.

The other GOP minority member, Senator Hiram L. Fong of Hawaii, filed an individual dissent from the majority report.

THE MINORITY report by Goldwater, Dirksen and Carlson urged "aggressive extention of voluntary health insurance, which is the choice of most Americans, and more effective use of federal-state programs for persons in need of help."

In his dissent Fong charged that majority with bias and distortion of the hearing record.

"Social Security financing of medical care for the aged is grossly unfair," Fong said. He contended it would put heavy burdens on the younger workers and those in the lower income brackets.

Rights And Riots

OPINIONS RELATING to the week's outbreak of racial violence in the New York Harlem district ranged all the way from statements upholding civil rights to open denunciation of the rioting.

President Johnson called on Congress for more than $13 million to set up bureaus which would enforce the new civil rights law. The Senate confirmed former Governor Leroy Collins, who visited this state and others on a recent flying tour, as director of the program's Community Relations Service.

AT THE same time, Harlem's seething racial situation came to a boil which had not subsided by the week's end. And it was obvious that such a bureau as Collins', the name of which recalls the titles of so many of the "new deal" home service organizations of the 1930's, was in no position to deal with rioting of any sort.

NEW YORK MAYOR Robert F. Wagner cut short a European trip and returned to the racially troubled city Tuesday. Meanwhile, FBI agents, acting under orders from President Johnson, were probing the bloody rioting.

R. F. WAGNOR

The mayor immediately went into a closed door huddle with Acting Mayor Paul Screvane and other officials to discuss developments in one of the city's most tense racial situations in its history.

The mayor's arrival came only hours after President Johnson directed the FBI to conduct a full investigation of the violence that has taken one life and brought injury to more than 100 persons.

Wagner welcomed the federal cooperation, but added that he had "complete faith" in city Police Commissioner Michael Murphy.

SENATOR BARRY Goldwater said the racial disorders that have torn New York's Harlem district are "something I've been afraid of." He said other big cities of the North-Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia among them- are headed for trouble too "if they can't control these crowds on both sides of the fence."

"Tensions are tight already," the senator said.

Goldwater said he stands by his acceptance speech criticism of moderation "in the pursuit of justice" and his defense of extremism in the cause of liberty.

"I didn't talk about political philosophies," he said, "I talked about the defense of freedom."

FARTHER SOUTH, Former Mississippi Governor Ross Barnett said in a Houston, Texas, address that current racial strife in Harlem may show Northern residents "what we in the South are up against."

Speaking to a meeting of the Citizens Council of America Barnett critized President Johnson for sending troops to Southern cities but not to Harlem to quell the disturbance there.

He also criticized President Johnson as "The man who has been rightly described as 'the greatest faker in the United States'," and lashed at "those bearded beatniks from the North and West," who have gone to Mississippi and the South to aid the Negroes.

Red Influence

CHARGES OF communist agitation in southern riots have been brushed aside in the past. But the Harlem riots, occurring as they have in a more sensitive area of the nation, have brought out such charges again, this time with names and statements.

Although these charges were clouded to some extent by counter-charges that "right-wing extremist" money was flowing into Harlem hate groups, there was no direct evidence of this.

BUT WILLIAM Epton, chairman of the Harlem Defense Council said: "This is a Communist organization. I am a Communist. Since the rioting and our call for help, we've had maybe 300 volunteers. We'll work with any group in Harlem, black nationalists, Muslims, or anybody else where we agree on issues."

"Hate groups" in New York are among those responsible for the riots, said the Rev. Richard A. Hildebrand, branch president for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"The Communists have been working on these hate groups and black nationalists because they think they are the wildest and most extreme and, through them, they can promote the most unrest."

Battle Line

BETWEEN THE two great World Wars, we somehow got the idea that America's first line of defense was the Rhine River, the historic boundary between France and Germany.

With the advent of the "cold war," however, the battle line can no longer fit into so compact a package. Soviet strategy may be said to operate on a broad front extending south of the Equator all the way from South America and Cuba across the Atlantic to Africa thence eastward over the Indian Ocean to Laos and Vietnam. North of this line, which pretty well encircles the globe except for the Pacific Ocean, there are the periodic hot spots in Berlin and Korea.

DURING THE past week, U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk called on the conference of inter-American ministers to vote for a diplomatic and trade quarantine on Castro Cuba.

SEC. RUSK

ALL SIX foreign ministers who addressed the conference supported Venezuela's demand for a stiff penalty on the Fidel Castro regime for subversion in Venezuela.

Mexico and Chile are expected to oppose the mandatory break in relations, but they are given little chance to change the indicated position of most of the conferees.

BRAZIL continued efforts to find a compromise solution to avoid a split with Mexico and Chile while satisfying most other member nations.

In the opposing camp, Soviet Premier Khrushchev, visiting in Warsaw, told communist governments in the iron curtain countries to "clean our weapons, always keep our vigilance and stay on full alert."

Khrushchev spoke at the celebration of Poland's 20th anniversary as a Communist nation after the U.S. and British ambassadors walked out in protest against attacks on U.S. policy by Polish Communist party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka.

Assailing the U.S. Republican platform as warlike, Khrushchev said it was adopted in San Francisco "in an atmosphere reminiscent of the fascist Nazi gatherings in Nuernberg."

New Viewpoint

SPEAKING FROM Paris, French President Charles De Gaulle repeated his position that the United States is no longer the undisputed leader of the Free World's strategy. He stressed the importance of the United States and the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance. But he also called for a more independent stand on the part of western Europe:

"EUROPE IS going to take up its part of the responsibilities in alliance affairs."

De Gaulle added that this was in the American interest because the complexity of current problems is beyond the "means and the capacity" of the United States.

De Gaulle reiterated that a future unified Europe should be able to stand on its own feet and run its own affairs.

One To Watch

NEGRO LEADER Martin Luther King, touring Mississippi last week, noted he was pressing for a new "Freedom Democratic Party" in the state which he would like to see seated at the party's national convention in Atlantic City next month.

If credentials committees among Democrats prove as flexible as those at the 1952 GOP convention when pro-Eisenhower delegations displaced those committed to Senator Robert Taft, King's movement could be one for the political experts to watch.

The Great War

Time Of Innocence

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP) — Their rifles garlanded with flowers, the German troops marched through Brandenburg Gate to the battlefields of World war I just 50 years ago this summer.

Taking the salute, the German emperor, Kaiser Wilhelm II, told them: "You'll be back before the leaves fall."

British troop trains carried the slogan: "Home for Christmas."

But it was more than four years before the survivors of the holocaust came home, to poverty, revolutions, strikes and mass unemployment.

It was a far different world from the civilized gaiety of pre-1914.

Gone was "La Belle Epoque," as the French called it, the "Gute Alte Zeit"—Gold Old Time—of the Germans and the complacent security of Edwardian Britain.

FIRST DECADE

In the first decade of the 20th century the world basked in apparent security. Life was gay and exciting, the future fascinating and the summers always seemed hot and long.

Britain, rich from the industrial revolution and her far-flung empire, felt secure behind the shield of a navy that ruled the seven seas.

Germany, united by Bismarck, had a powerful army and an orderly life under the Kaiser.

The kings were on their thrones all over Europe and all seemed serene.

Science was beginning to transform the world, but life was still lived at the comfortable pace of the horse-drawn carriage.

The possibility of war seemed remote.

Britain had the painful Boer war in South Africa a few years earlier.

Japan shocked the great European powers by defeating Russia in 1904. That happened comfortably far away on the other side of the world.

True, there was trouble and bloodshed in the Balkans. But there was always trouble in the Balkans.

No wind of change was blowing in sleeping America. The powers collected colonies like postage stamps and swapped them among themselves as casually as schoolboy philatelists.

It was a new century of exploration, invention and scientific research. It brought the airplane, the 90 m.p.h automobile and the ice cream cone.

The North Pole was reached by Americans in 1906 and the South Pole by Norwegians six years later.

In Europe life had an outward lushness, gaiety and elegance such as the world had never seen before.

But the glittering social structure—a complicated ladder of rank and position—was rotten with privilege and injustice.

For the privileged few there was a sweet life that rivals anything seen before or since.

For the masses, gradually awakening through the spread of education, there was little but back-breaking toil for sweated wages under unhealthy conditions.

While the grand dukes of Russia rode in plush special trains to Monte Carlo to gamble and flirt, the exiled Lenin plotted revolution.

King Edward VII visited his nephew the Kaiser for lunch in a German resort. It was a private visit—but 15,000 troops were pulled off maneuvers to line the route.

THE DANCING and the gaiety continued right up to the start of World War I just 50 years ago. But underneath the gaiety at the top were poverty and stirrings among the underprivileged. At the same time science was on the edge of fast-moving developments. The drawing shows the panorama of Europe before the Great War. When it ended four years later, a new era, minus the pomp and the parades, was in the making. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

So vast were the Silesian estates of the prince of Pless and his English wife, Princess Daisy, that they used their own train to commute between their castles, built on a rich foundation of coal.

REVOLTS ABUNDANT

Servants were abundant. Footmen were a commonplace of the big houses. Butlers, coachmen, cooks, maids swarmed around in the master's colors. Even a modest lower middle class doctor or lawyer could afford two or three servants.

English society, revolving around the court, followed a regular program year after year. Yachting at Cowes, shooting in Scotland, racing at Ascot, rowing at Henley—there was a time and place for everything and "everybody" was there.

Luxury hotels were built all over Europe to cater to the footloose rich. The name of Cesar Ritz, founder of a chain of hotels, became a superlative in the English language. Superb service and superb cuisine were to be had for those who did not count the cost.

Marconi sent his first radio message across the Atlantic in 1901. There was no broadcast entertainment until 25 years later.

Maurice Chevalier began his long career on the Paris music hall stages. Charlie Chaplin was a comic in the East End of London until he left for Hollywood in 1910.

The scientific ace was on the move. Electricity provided light and power, replacing gaslights. Streetcars took over from horse-drawn busses.

FIRST FLIGHT

The Wright brothers made the first sustained airplane flight in 1903. Six years later French Col. Louis Bleriot flew the English Channel for the first time.

A rich Brazilian, Albert Santos-Dumont, delighted Parisians by landing an airship in a boulevard so he could go to lunch.

Germany's Count Zeppelin made the first rigid airship flight in 1902. Some years later Zeppelins bombed London.

Though still a toy for the rich, the automobile developed rapidly. By World War I speeds had topped 100 m.p.h.

Underneath the outwardly gay and brilliant social structure of Europe, radicals exploited social unrest, the assassins prepared their bombs. For the unprivileged life was hard.

Women demanded the right to vote, granted to them only in New Zealand. The franchise for men in many countries was limited or weighted in favor of the property owners.

In Britain suffragettes chained themselves to railings and starved in prison. One gave her life by flinging herself under the hooves of the horses in the Derby.

But the family car was something for the future.

Russia's revolution in 1905 forced the czar to concede a Parliament and a constitution. In a counter-revolution the next year Nicholas II dissolved Parliament and tore up the constitution.

There was unrest from Ireland's bogs to the Balkans.

The tide of disgruntled Europeans seeking a new life in freedom in America reached its peak. Between 1901 and 1910 over eight million emigrants departed. A quarter of them were from the oppressed nations of the Austro-Hungarian empire.

In Portugal in 1910 workers deposed the king. There was armed rebellion in Northern Ireland. France was swept by sporadic revolts, with barricades and death in the streets. Italy neared revolution with the Red flag hoisted in northern cities and the army fighting pitched battles with workers.

National pride and the rivalry of the big powers inhibited settlements of quarrels.

Germany, Russia and Austria had ambitions they were prepared to achieve by threats—or even force.

As Winston Churchill wrote of this period: "The vials of wrath were full."

In July, 1914—it was a wonderful summer—the society of Europe gathered at Kiel, on the German Baltic coast, for the annual regatta.

A German warship gave a gay party for the officers of a visiting British squadron. As they danced came the ominous news of the assassination of Austrian Crown Prince Ferdinand at Sarajevu.

Five weeks later the deck where the dance was held ran with the blood of German sailors killed by British gunfire.

Beauty Queen Hit By Measles

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—German measles struck the Costa Rican entry in the Miss Universe beauty pageant Saturday and aroused fears that the disease might spread to other girls who had been exposed.

Dora Sola, 21, beauty queen from San Jose, woke up in her hotel room Friday morning with "red spots all over," reported her roommate, Sandy Bawol of Missouri.

Hours later, the pageant medical committee finally confirmed that Miss Sola has German measles, will be isolated for 10 days and eliminated from the competition.

Since the incubation period for the disease is 10 to 14 days, Miss Sola contracted it before leaving her homeland. She flew to Miami Beach on Tuesday night with several other contestants from the Caribbean area.

Doctors said that she would have been contagious for the past two days. During that period, she worked with many other girls in the pageant during processing.

MOUNTAIN VIEW'S NEW INDUSTRY

Monument To Be Built To Folk Music

By JOHN R. STARR

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark. (AP)—Since World War I, things have been steadily going downhill in this community in the Ozarks foothills.

The young folks set out for the big city and new opportunity and now Stone County has only 6,200 people, mostly farmers, retired persons and welfare clients.

It has no industry and little chance of gettiny any because it can't promise raw materials, trained labor or proximity to markets.

But Mountain View is determined not to die. It has decided to offer to America a place where the art of folk singing and folk culture will be preserved and nurtured. It is counting on its native culture to bring new life.

Mountain View, with a population of 863, is the county seat. It also is the home of folk singer Jimmy Driftwood.

Driftwood came home a few years ago, dismayed over the "commercialization" of folk music—that is, songs written by barefoot boys who never wandered far off thick carpeting in Manhattan apartments.

"There's nothing wrong with commercial folk music as such," says Driftwood. "It just isn't the real thing."

The real thing, or "genuine," as the natives describe it, was performed by Driftwood and his friends on the Capitol steps in Washington.

The idea was to interest the Area Redevelopment Administration in helping Mountain View establish a national folklore and native crafts center. The ARA can allocate funds to depressed areas where it thinks the money will create jobs.

"This project is unique in two respects," says John Optiz, Arkansas ARA director. "This is the first time an area has banked on its culture, rather than some scenic attraction, to draw tourists. And it's the first time the government has considered helping in such a project."

Plans are ambitious. A 2,000-seat auditorium would be built for folk singing and folk drama presentations. Around it would be classrooms for instruction in folk music, folk art, folk dancing and folklore.

There would be an arts and crafts center where craftsmen would demonstrate and sell the works. In nearby buildings visitors would be taught how to make things.

Cost is estimated at $1.8 million. Most of this would be government money, with revenue from the facility going to repay loans.

Will the entire project collapse if ARA decides not to back it financially?

"Definitely not," says Glen Hinkle, a Mountain View utility executive who heads the Stone County Development Council. "We'll build what we can when we can. This project is the economic salvation of the county and we don't intend to drop it."

The only opposition to the proposed folk center comes from a few who believe the influx of tourists will change their town.

"But there aren't many of these," Driftwood says. "I was talking to one of them the other day, and, after he cussed for a while, I walked him up on a nearby hill and said:

" 'John, I remember standing here with you 20 years ago and those power lines weren't over there on that rise, and that highway down there was dusty gravel and you didn't see two cars on it every hour.'

" 'By George, Jimmy,' John answered. 'It's changed on us already.' "

THE FOUNDER of the Arkansas Folk Festival, nationally known folksinger Jimmy Driftwood (front,) keeps watch over the show in Mountain View. The idea of making Mountain View (population 863) a folk culture center started with Driftwood's feeling that folksinging has become too commercial. Federal funds are a possibility to try to turn the depressed Ozark area into the folk culture capital of America and a tourist attraction. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

THE LOVE OF his Korean patients has replaced the cheers of his football fans for Dr. William McColl. Here the American doctor examines young patients at the leprosarium near Taegu, where he is finishing two years as a missinary doctor at the Presbyterian Hospital. Ex-Pro Football Player Works In Korea

Missionary Doctor

By ROBERT EUNSON

TAEGU, Korea (AP)—"Emergency!"

An American doctor, towering six feet five inches in his long white coat, heard the call, turned from the much smaller Koreans with him in the hallway of the hospital and strode into the crowded cubicle where a child was stretched out on a table.

"He's stopped breathing," the Korean nurse said.

Swiftly the American doctor bent over, placing his mouth over the boy's lips, gently the big doctor began to breathe.

There was a jerk in the boy's frail limbs, one agonizing gasp, followed by another, another—

The doctor stood up. White-coated assistants started an electric motor, to which was attached a tube. The doctor ran the red rubber tube into the boy's throat and nose, drawing out sputum and clots of blood which had nearly choked off the young life.

CONCUSSION

After talking to the boy's older sister, who had carried the patient in on her back, the doctor diagnozed the case as concussion, suffered in a fall from a highbar in the playground near the hospital.

"He'll get well," said Dr. William McColl turning to leave. "We hope."

A half dozen and more years ago Bill McColl was a pass-catching end for the Chicago Bears professional football team. Before that he was a star athlete at Herbert Hoover High School in San Diego, Calif., and then at Stanford University.

Now he was completing two years as a missionar ydoctor at the Presbyterian Hospital in Taegu.

WORLD VISION

It is a World Vision establishment, one of about 75 in Korea which Pastor Bob Pierce of Pasadena, Calif., founded. McColl's interest here is that about 45 per cent of the children need orthopedic care.

In addition to the Presbyterian Hospital's orthopedic wing and the orphanage, Bill McColl has a third interest, the leprosarium.

"We treat leprosy with respect," McColl said, "but not very much. We wash our hands after a round visiting patients and that's all."

The Presbyterian Hospital in Taegu has more than 130 beds and treats about 100,000 patients a year. It charges the same fee as local clinics, about a dollar a day. Most of the operational costs come from donations.

It costs $17,500 to bring McColl and his family to Korea for two years because there are eight of them: Barbara, Bill and six children—Duncan 8; twins Bonnie and Carrie, 7; John, 6; Milton, 4, and Jennie aged 2.

The Presbyterian church in Oak Park, Ill., sponsored Bill's missionary appointment and raised a goodly share, as did friends in his hometown of San Diego. Then George Halas, owner and coach of the Chicago Bears, came through with a sizeable amount and the McColl's were on their way to Taegu, a dusty bustling town of 800,000 persons.

Barbara and Bill have been living in a two-story brick house on the Presbyterian Hospital compound. The water supply is an uncertainty. Cold air leaks in every window and door all winter long.

The McColls met in music appreciation class at Stanford. They still start off every day singing hymns at the breakfast table with their children.

Barbara's parents were Mormons. Bill's were Presbyterians.

The McColls were married Dec. 27, 1953, after Bill's first year with the Chicago Bears.

"Professional football was good to us," Barbara said. "It meant that we could go ahead and have our family while Bill was still going to medical school."

PROBLEMS

Barbara's problems the past two years are similar to those faced by other American wives overseas. "No supermarkets and the language barrier," she summed things up simply.

Barbara gave time to the hospital, too. She made curtains and ran a curio store which provided enough profit to buy a power cleaner for the hospital.

Bill McColl turned his back on the more remunerative possibilities of orthopedic surgery to become a missionary in Korea.

"I was planning to go to California and open an office for private practice," Bill said. "Then I began asking myself is this what God really wants me to do." Barbara and Bill prayed for divine guidance. The idea of contributing at least two years of their lives as missionaries came to them after the prayer.

At 34, Bill isn't sure about immediate plans. "Right now I have to concentrate on getting ready for the general orthopedic board examinations, January 5 in New York. I'm not thinking past that."

What have been the rewards of his stay in Korea?

"Well, I'll tell you. There's Bill Wade's little boy. Bill Wade is the Bear's quarterback and you may not know this, but he's a religious man. Well, one day I was out with a mobile health unit here and this farmer came up and said his wife was pregnant and she'd had a convulsion. That could mean toxic poisoning. So, I filled my pockets with medicine and drove for two and a half hours over the dusty trail to this farmer's house. When I got there, I found that she hadn't had convulsions, but was going into labor. I told the farmer simply that his baby was about to be born and that I'd be happy to assist.

"The farmer was horrified. Men mustn't stand around and watch when women are having babies. He'd send for a 'baby catcher', which is the Korean term for midwife. So, I figured God didn't want me there anymore and I left.

"On the way back to the mobile unit a man came towards me carrying a small boy who had an eyeball popping out of his head. He was suffering from retinoblastoma. That's a malignant tumor of the eye. The eyeball swells to about the size of two baseballs. He didn't have any money to pay for hospital care or for an operation, so I decided to take the boy in and figure out how we'd get the money later.

"If God didn't want me to assist that woman he must have wanted me to find this little boy. I put the kid in the hospital and went home and there was a letter from Bill Wade containing a check for a hundred dollars. Billy had made a speech to a church and raised the money. So we're going to remove the boy's eye and hope we can stop it from spreading with treatment. That's the story of Billy Wade's boy.

"Then there's Roy Hardy's little girl. She has a leg that needs straightening and has to be hospitalized quite awhile. The Hardys live in Rockford, Ill., and read a story about me in a newspaper. They sent the money and the four Hardy children are raising part of it themselves, doing neighborhood chores. The little girl, Un Hee Kim, may be able to straighten her leg by the time I leave here."

There have been failures, too. One time, Bill recalled, "I picked up a kid on the road. He'd been badly injured. His breathing had stopped, like that kid today. I gave him mouth to mouth rescusitation and got his lungs working so I brought him into the hospital. Just as I was carrying him through the door he died.

"I figured God meant it to be that way. That's what you have to believe. You keep doing the best you can. Winning or losing doesn't matter."

Numerous Greeks To Leave Turkey

By HAL MCCLURE

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—They impatiently wait each morning for the doors of the old Greek consulate to open. They crowd into the vaulted anteroom, quietly talking, arguing or occasionally crying.

They are Greek citizens ordered to leave Turkey.

Many of them were born in Turkey. Many have never even visited Greece.

So far, Turkey has ordered more than 800 of Istanbul's estimated 9,000 Greek nationals to pack up and leave. The Greek community believes all will be forced to go eventually.

The deportation, which began last March, has sent shock waves through the estimated 50,000 Turkish citizens of Greek descent residing in the greater Istanbul area.

They fear some kind of reprisals against them also. The Turkish government denies this, saying that as Turkish citizens they enjoy full citizenship rights and protection under the constitution.

The Turkish government denies that the Cyprus conflict has any direct connection with the evacuation orders. The expelled Greeks have been engaging in activities detrimental to national interests, the Turks charge.

Greek officials laugh at this. Sources close to the Greek consulate say the first lists of 409 included nine persons over 80 years old, 92 over 70 and five deceased.

The Greek national usually has a week to settle his affairs and depart. He is permitted to take his clothing, 200 Turkish lira —about $22—plus his transportation ticket.

He must leave his home, his furniture, his business. His bank accounts are blocked, his safe deposit vaults are sealed. He must pay his 1964 income tax.

The trouble is, say the Greeks, no one wants to buy their businesses. Or if they do, the price offered is ridiculous. The government, in effect, assumes control.

Most of the Greek community waits anxiously for each new list of deportees to be published. Those listed visit the police and sign a statement saying they "have been deported." Then they are fingerprinted, photographed and given a police escort until they leave, the Greeks say.

"This anti-Greek policy is suicide for Turkey," says one high-placed Greek who declined use of his name. "Turkey needs financial aid from the rest of the world now. She needs new investment. But who would want to invest money in Turkey if she continues to follow this antibusiness, Xenophobic policy?"

A Turkish government spokesman said this charge was baseless.

"On the contrary," he said, "the Turkish economy incurred great losses through fortunes smuggled out of Turkey by Greek nationals through unlawful channels."

Greeks admit many have sent money out of Turkey, to Athens, to numbered accounts in Switzerland.

"We did the same thing in Athens when the Greek economy seemed in danger," a Greek says. "The Greeks would keep their money here if it had a chance to make a profit."

MORE MORE

The Greeks say the Turks also have been harassing the community in many ways, including newspaper attacks, breaking windows in some Greek homes and schools, anti-Greek signs chalked on walls, threatening letters, and measures taken against the Eastern Orthodox patriarchate and Greek private schools.

Two Orthodox prelates and four priests have been expelled and the patriarchate's printing establishment has been closed, the Greeks charge. The Turks also seized movies of the meeting of Pope Paul VI with Orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras I in Jerusalem last January during the Pope's Holy Land pilgrimage.

The government's latest get-tough policy started last March with the announcement that the 1930 agreement granting special residence, trade and shipping privileges to Greek nations in Turkey would be abrogated Sept. 15.

This was followed by the temporary suspension of the 1955 visa agreement with Greece. That agreement granted unrestricted travel facilities to nationals of both countries.

The Turks then began to crack down on Greek nationals engaging in professions and businesses forbidden foreigners under Law 2007. These include doctors, nurses, dentists, barbers, printers, laborers, servants, cabaret artists and signers, stock brokers, interpreters and guides.

Many Greek nationals soon found themselves out of work and falling back on their savings or aid from relatives and friends.

The Turks say they have rights under the 1930 treaty to expel anyone engaged in harmful activities. After fighting broke out on Cyprus last December it was obvious, the Turks allege, that the large Greek community in Istanbul threatened the internal and external security of the Turkish state.

"The Greek government has unconditionally supported the regime of Cyprus President Makarios in its policy of annihilating the Turks of Cyprus," a spokesman said.

The Greek nationals have many friends among the Turks who express sympathy for their predicament. But the Turks claim the Greeks have been trying to get the best of both worlds—living in Istanbul, which is cheaper than Athens, and avoiding military service of both countries.

Story Of Presidents Recalled

EDITOR'S NOTE — Long before there was such a thing as a presidential news conference, reporter Gould Lincoln was on the Washington scene as a discerning newsman. This veteran knew 11 presidents — from Theodore Roosevelt to Lyndon Johnson. Here he tells of the manner in which he met ohem and contributes insight about them that won t be found in a history book.

By GOULD LINCOLN
Washington Star Political Columnist

WASHINGTON (AP)—From the days of Theodore Roosevelt, advocate of the strenuous life, to those of Lyndon Johnson, another prime exponent of the strenuous, 62 years have run their course and 11 presidents have occupied the White House.

At various times I have covered all these presidents as a Washington newspaper reporter —the last 55 years for the Washington Evening Star. Six were Republicans and five Democrats. One thing they had in common was a desire to do their best for the American people and their government.

These 11 presidents were the nation's chief executives during a period of tremendous growth, when the United States turned from isolationism to become the greatest power among the nations of the world.

I was a very young reporter when Theodore Roosevelt took office. I never rated a private interview that, in those days, was as close as they came to a presidential press conference.

I did meet the president, however. One quiet afternoon—and they were quiet in Washington in the early 1900s—I went to the entrance of the west wing of the White House—constructed at TR's insistence to provide office space for the chief executive.

No guard was at the door. I had no card of identification nor was one required. I went in. No receptionist was at the desk inside.

I walked into the secretary's office, and it was empty. On through the Cabinet room and the president's office. I was almost to the White House itself when I came to a small stairway leading up from the basement.

Peering up at me was a sweater-clad, barrel-chested man, bespectacled, with a tennis racket in his hand. It was the president. As he reached the top of the stairs he grinned and asked: "What do you want?"

I explained that I had come to find his secretary on a minor matter of local news. He told me what to do.

LOOK BACK

As I look back on the incident, I realize how simple were those days at the White House. If I tried any such maneuver today without a special pass I would not get in the White House grounds.

President Taft came to the White House in a blizzard. I covered his inauguration, a ceremony moved inside the Capitol. My beat then was the Capitol—as it was for many years—and my personal contacts with President Taft and the White House were few and far between. I was there, however, at one or more of his infrequent talks with some of the press. He held no press conferences.

Woodrow Wilson was a bird of another color. He was no Theodore Roosevelt. But he took over and carried forward a program of progressive measures which TR would have demanded had he been re-elected in place of Taft.

President Wilson, in his contacts with Congress and with the press, established important precedents.

He came to the Capitol to deliver in person his annual messages on the state of the union. No president since George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, who were infuriated by the treatment they received at the hands of Congress, had taken such a step.

And to Wilson, the press owes the establishment of the White House press conference. Soon after he came to Washington, Wilson was asked if he would like to meet the Washington correspondents. Having opened up White House relations with Capitol Hill, Wilson saw no reason why he should not do the same with the press.

There began a long series of informal meetings, sometimes twice a week, at which Wilson talked with the correspondents. What he said at these meetings was not for quotation or attribution, but could be used for "background."

VISITING

While he was in the White House, he made a practice of visiting—all alone—the Capitol, calling senators and representatives from the floor or their offices to discuss legislation or appointments in which he was interested. I saw him on many of these occasions. I remember he did not like hypothetical questions, questions which FDR later called "iffy," for he told me so.

An incident that involved Wilson, though he was not present, and which threw some light on his unsuccessful fight to have the senate ratify the Versailles Treaty and League of Nations covenant, occurred in early 1919 after the armistice. I went to the office of Sen. Thomas S. Martin of Virginia, Democratic leader of the Senate.

Martin, who as a student at Virginia Military Institute fought in the Civil War, was silver haired and erect as a ramrod. I entered his big room. He was walking around the center table, his hands clasped behind him under his long blacktailed coat, talking to himself. I heard him say: "The —— fool, the blankety - blank fool."

"What's happened?" I asked.

He stopped and stared at me and said, "I have just come from the White House, and do you know what that man told me? He said 'Martin, I am the only man who can make the peace; I am going to Europe. I urged him to stay in this country, but he said he was going anyway. The d - - - - - fool!"

I knew President Warren G. Harding as a senator and I liked him.

GENIAL

Harding was a genial, handsome and friendly man.

Although a former newspaperman, Harding's news conferences produced comparatively little. I remember one during the Washington Arms Conference in the winter of 1921-22, at which he pulled a boner that brought Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes scurrying to the White House to tell the president to correct his mistake. The president had misinterpreted the extent of an agreement on some mandated islands in the Pacific.

Calvin Coolidge, a dour man, moved into the White House when Harding died. Never was there a greater contrast in personalities.

Coolidge has a reputation for terseness and a "silence is golden" practice.

Once I caught him off guard. It was soon after he had taken office as vice president and vice presidents are expected to be silent. I was looking for a story on his impressions of the capital city. To my surprise, he launched into a general patter, covering Washington and his attempts to take up golf.

He had recently been presented with a new set of clubs.

Twice I though Coolidge had run down vocally and twice I rose to leave and twice he asked me to sit down.

In the White House, however, Coolidge was anything but communicative at his press conferences. The questions had to be written—and if he didn't like any of them, he pushed them aside and never read or answered them.

Herbert Hoover, successor to the presidency, inherited the full burden which followed Coolidge's do-nothing policies. My first contacts with Hoover came when he was secretary of commerce in the Coolidge administration.

REPUTATION

He had won for himself, and rightly so, a great reputation as an administrator and humanitarian. His analyses were right to the point and made sense.

I was never a member of President Hoover's so-called "medicine ball cabinet," but I saw Hoover frequently when he was in the White House, as a reporter and as a guest. He was a delightful host.

I first saw FDR when he was assistant secretary of the Navy. He was nominated for vice president on the Cox-Roosevelt ticket in 1920. I had no contact with him again until he made his courageous and tremendously impressive comeback from a crippling attack of polio.

I have a vivid recollection of him lying half-clothed on a Washington hotel bed when he was campaigning for the presidential nomination in early 1932. No one was with him at the moment except Mrs. Roosevelt. She was in an adjoining room. He made it clear he was in the fight to the finish. Having watched him struggle to the platform in the Democratic national convention to deliver his famous "happy warrior" speech for Al Smith, I had no doubt he meant what he said.

As a host in the White House —his home for 12 years—FDR was gracious whether he agreed with you or not. At two Gridiron Club dinners, where he was our guest of honor, I sat beside him.

This was in 1937—the year of his demand that the Supreme Court be increased in number to make possible decision upholding the constitutionality of New Deal acts. Many of the skits presented by the club members were caustic. He never let it ruffle him, and he invariably was brilliant and witty when he responded to the club's only toast, to the President of the United States.

Harry S. Truman, I am confident, never expected to be president, although he must have thought of it after he was nominated for vice president in 1944. FDR was in poor physical condition. He got through the campaign, but his running mate must have seen the handwriting on the wall, or suspected it. The rise of Truman was one of the miracles of politics.

I met Truman on his arrival at the Democratic national convention.

"Senator", I said, "you're going to be nominated for vice president." Truman laughed off my statement, declaring he had promised his friend, former senator Jimmy Byrnes of South Carolina, war activities administrator, that he would place him in nomination for vice president.

It didn't work out that way, although Byrnes believed he had been promised the nomination by FDR—as did others. Among them were Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic leader of the Senate.

THE RANKS

Truman had come up through the ranks of the party organization in Kansas City when he was nominated and elected senator from Missouri. I saw him often after he came to Washington in 1935. It wasn't hard to like him at all. He never turned his back on a friend, good, bad or indifferent.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower I never knew until he came to Washington from his European assignment as head of NATO in 1952. A candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in absentia, he had gathered up a considerable number of delegates to the party's July national convention. Thereafter I was to see quite a lot of him. He was of a different breed of candidates; politics wasn't running out of his ears.

Although not assigned to the White House, I attended nearly all of Eisenhower's press conferences. I put an end to his first such conference with a question he did not relish, calling his attention to a statement by his old opponent Adlai Stevenson to the effect the new president would have a pro-big-business cabinet and administration.

He flushed, turned and asked me: "What do you think?" I wasn't interested in what I thought, nor, I think, was he. He calmed down and made a good answer, saying that he would run a good and efficient government for the people, and intended to put the ablest men in office he could find.

President Eisenhower was most kind to me when I had a heart attack—he had suffered one himself two years before—and sent me some mighty good advice: "Do what your doctor tells you to do."

He was a good news source, and played no favorites among the newsmen. His press conferences, sometimes few and far between, were productive.

The late President John F. Kennedy came to Washington as a new and young member of the 80th Congress. He was fresh out of the war. Because of work I was doing with the Boston Globe, I went to see Kennedy quickly.

KENNEDY YEARS

About three years before Kennedy became president he was named chairman of a special committee to select the five all-time greats of the Senate.

He had won a Pulitzer Prize for his "Profiles of Courage" book dealing with senators who had made what he considered outstanding decisions and crusades during their service. He was a natural to head the committee. He and his committee sought advice and were assailed with it from many quarters.

Because of my half century membership in the Senate press gallery, Kennedy asked for an opinion. I urged him, if a progressive Republican were to be selected for such honor, to include Sen. Robert ("Fighting Bob") M. La Follette of Wisconsin.

It was almost a certainty that conservative Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio would be in the group of five "greats." Kennedy said he was inclined to favor Sen. George Norris of Nebraska —also a progressive Republican and one of his heroes in "Profiles of Courage." The committee eventually gave the nod to La Follette.

I have known President Johnson longer and more closely than any other chief executive. He came to Washington more than 30 years ago as a secretary to a congressman.

Engraved on my memory is a conversation I had with Johnson the morning it was rumored he had been chosen by presidential nominee John F. Kennedy to be his running-mate. No announcement had been made.

Sitting on a bed, with no one else present, we talked about the situation. Johnson had been runner-up in the contest for the presidential nomination—he had never in any way indicated an interest in the vice presidency.

He occupied a position of great power as majority leader of the Senate. He could continue to be elected senator from Texas as long as he desired.

Striding about the room, he told me that he intended to do everything "in my power" to help elect Kennedy president. And he said that Kennedy was in for a rough, hard fight. It didn't take much putting one and one together to make two—and a national Democratic ticket. I was convinced he was going to accept a vice presidential nomination.

In all my experience I have never been in contact with a man who could do so many things so quickly, or remember to do them, and to prevail upon others to help.

Dedication At Center Scheduled

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—The first section of a $15-million communications center, heralded as "the world's largest and most advanced," will be dedicated here Aug. 5 by President Johnson.

The President also will be awarded an honorary degree of doctor of laws at a new five-story School of Journalism building on the Syracuse University campus.

PRECAST

The building, a precast concrete structure of cruciform design, is the first of a three-building communications complex to be created on an eight-acre site. The entire $15-million cost will be paid by Samuel I. Newhouse, publisher-broadcaster, personally and through the Newhouse Foundation.

About 1,000 students are expected to occupy the journalism building, two stories of which are underground, this year. The complete complex, to be known as the Newhouse Communications Center, is scheduled for completion in 1966.

Newhouse, 68, owns 19 newspapers, plus radio and television stations and magazines in various parts of the country. His holdings include two papers and a radio and television station in Syracuse.

Enrollment at Syracuse University, which totals about 13,000, is expected to increase through creation of the communications center. The university's School of Journalism, founded in 1934, has a current enrollment of about 130 students.

FRED HANSEN, pole vaulter from Texas, clears 17-4 Saturday to break the listed pole vault record of 16-10 held by John Pennel, while Dallas Long (right), the dental student from Phoenix, Ariz., pushed the shot 67 feet 10 inches to shatter all shot put records by more than a foot. Both world recording breaking performances occurred during the U.S.-Russian track meet in Los Angeles. (AP Wirephoto)

U.S. SHOWS STRENGTH

Hansen, Long Shatter Marks Against Russia

By TED SMITS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dallas Long and Fred Hansen set world records Saturday to spark the United States to an amazing show of strength against Russia in the first day of their two-day track and field dual.

Long hit 67 feet 10 inches in the shot to erase his own world mark of 65-10½ and his pending mark of 66-3½.

Hansen vaulted 17 feet 4 inches, eclipsing his pending record of 17-2.

But probably the mightiest roar of the crowd of 50,519 in Memorial Coliseum was raised for Gerry Lindgren, an 18-year-old high school student from Spokane, Wash., who ran two Russian veterans into the ground in the 10,000 meters, winning in 29:17.6.

Lindgren did it with a blistering lap of approximately 60 seconds a little over halfway through the race that brought him from 10 yards behind his Russian rivals to 10 yards in front. He kept lengthening the lead with every lap, winning by 120 yards over Leonid Ivanov.

At the end of the first day the American men led Russia 61-46.

The meet was widely heralded as a preview of the Olympics, since Russia and the United States are the two great powers of the track world.

It was a day of surprises and probably the biggest came in the women's events, where the United States scored one-two slams in the 100 meters and high jump and won the 400 meter relay to wind up the day leading 27-25 in points.

Short of a calamity, the United States will win the men's side of the competition by a wide margin, stay fairly close in the women's events, and probably achieve for the first time in the history of the meet an over-all triumph.

There was one bitter disappointment for the American team. Ralph Boston, the Olympic champion in the broad jump was beaten by one quarter of an inch by Leonid Barkovisky of Russia, who did 8.03 meters or 26-4¼ inches. Boston did 26-4, 8.02 meters.

Four of Long's puts in the shot exceeded his own world mark of 65-10½ and his pending mark of 66-3½. Despite the fact the giant from Phoenix, Ariz., has complained he has not practiced as much as he should.

His mighty throws went like this: Foul, 65-6¼, 66-9¼, 67-10, 67-1, and 66-5½.

Henry Carr from Detroit, a last-minute substitute, led an American slam of the 100 meters, winning in 10.3. Ralph Moon was second.

Two girls from Tennessee State, Edith McGuire of Atlanta, Ga., and Wyomia Tyus of Griffin, Ga., finished one-two in the women's 100, with Miss McGuire timed in 11.5.

Blaine Lindgren of Salt Lake City scored a surprise by beating the veteran Hayes Jones of Detroit by inches in 13.6 in the 110 meter hurdles.

Eleanor Montgomery of Cleveland, another 18-year-old, amazed by taking the high jump at 5-7¼, and her teammate, Terrezene Brown of Los Angeles, grabbed second with fewer misses on the way up than her Russian rivals.

'Firey' Putter Paves Way In 4 And 3 Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Combing booming drives with torrid putting Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La. defeated Patti Shook of Saginaw, Mich. 4 and 3 Saturday to win the 6th Women's Western Amateur Golf Championship.

Miss White, a 23 - year - old blonde, soared 4-up after the morning 18 on the 4,384-yard, par 37-36—73 Oak Park Country Club course.

She kept expanding it during the afternoon 18 and was 7 up after 24 holes. Then her game seemed to go sour and Miss Shook, 21, a Valparaiso University senior who won the national collegiate crown this year, captured the next four holes with two pars and two birdies.

Miss White again went 4 up on the 30th by dropping a 33-foot birdie three putt. From then on, her game was as hot as it was all week long.

They halved the 31st, Miss Shook missing an eight-foot putt.

The 32nd also was halved with Miss White dropping a six-footer for a par four.

On the decisive 160-yard 33rd hole bath were on with their tee shots. Miss Shook stuck a five-iron shot five feet from the pin. Miss White two-putted from 30 feet. When Miss Shook missed her five-foot putt, they halved the hole and the match ended.

Miss Shook had a difficult time putting her game together in the morning round as she carded a 39-43—83 against her foe's 36-39—75, winning only one hole—the 18th when Miss White three-putted.

The two daughters of golf pros halved the first five holes. Miss White went ahead to stay on the 475-yard sixth by planting a seven-iron approach four feet from the cup and holding for a birdie four.

She won the eighth and ninth with a par and birdie.

Water cost Miss Shook a horrendous eight on the 512-yard 10th and Miss White was conceded a birdie four. Miss White went five up on the 14th with regulation four when her opponent missed the green and took five.

Mary Mills In 2nd Round Lead At Cosmopolitan

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—Mary Mills of Gulf Hills, Miss. took the second round lead in the $8,500 Cosmopolitan Women's Golf Open Saturday with her second straight 69.

Miss Mills had four birdies and one bogey in her three-under-par round which placed her two strokes ahead of Clifford Ann Creed of Alexandria, Va.

The final round is scheduled today.

Marilyn Smith, who had an opening round 74 Friday, came in with the top score of 68 Saturday to move into contention with a 142, good for a tie for fourth place.

Kathy Whitworth of Jal, N.M., the opening round leader with a 68, slumped to a 73 and fell back into third place one stroke behind Miss Creed, who tacked a 71 to her opening round 69 for 140.

Defending champion Ruth Jessen had a 70 after a 74 Friday but remained well off the pace in a tie for ninth.

The leaders:

Mary Mills	69-69—138
Clifford Ann Creed	69-71—140
Kathy Whitworth	68-73—141
Sandra Spuzich	70-72—142

DIXIE BOYS MEET

West Monroe Takes Tourney

West Monroe scored two runs in the third inning after a single tally in the second and went on to defeat Northside Monroe, 3-1, in the finals of the District West Monroe Boys Tournament held at Confederate Park in West Monroe Saturday night.

Richard Martin held the Northside to only four hits, their only run coming on a homer by Tom Brown in the sixth, and took his second win of the week. He previously beat Richland Parish 10-2 Tuesday night.

West Monroe, who has yet to lose a game in 11 playoff tilts in Louisiana, in two years, will travel to Pineville Monday to represent the western district of Dixie Boys Baseball from this state.

The local crew won the state championship that was held in Monroe last year by defeating the Northside 1-0, on a home run by Pete Laws.

The winner of the state tournament will represent Louisiana in the Dixie Boys World Series to be held in Hattiesburg, Mississippi.

West Monroe's run in the second came on two singles and an error. Randy Russell singled and scored after Troy Nappier singled and the throw to third was wild.

In the third Rob Smith led off with a single to right and took second on a wild pitch. Dusty Rhodes followed with a single to center to plate Smith. Rhodes then scored on the shortstop's error.

Dennis Ralston Faces McKinley In Title Match

HAVERFORD, Pa. (AP)—Dennis Ralston, the No. 2 ranking U. S. player, advanced to the finals of the men's singles in the Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis Tournament Saturday by defeating No. 3 ranked Frank Froehling 6-3, 5-7, 6-4.

Ralston, of Bakersfield, Calif., will meet No. 1 ranked Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., the defending champion, in today's title match.

McKinely defeated Eugene Scott of St. James, N.Y. 6-4, 8-1, 7-5, 6-4 in a semifinal match Friday.

In the women's singles, Mrs. Clark Graebner of Shaker Heights, Ohio, the No. 4 ranking player and top-seeded in the tournament, and Justica Bricka of St. Louis, 13th ranked, reached the finals. They also will meet for the title today.

Mississippi State Completes Staff With Carmondy

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State's football coaching staff was completed Saturday with the hiring of Jim Carmody from the University of Kentucky as defensive line coach.

State also elevated end coach Vic Spooner to head up the defense. His title will remain end coach but he will have overall charge of the defense.

Carmody, who served at Tulane in 1961-62 before going to Kentucky, replaces Ken Donahue, who recently resigned to join the Alabama coaching staff.

Dixie Seniors Tourney Slated For Delhi Park

DELHI (Special) — The Northeast district Dixie Seniors tournament will get underway Monday night and run through Thursday.

Three all-star teams are competing in the meet with the winner earning a berth in the state tournament slated at Metairie during the first week in August.

Clubs entered are the Monroe all-stars, the Tri-Parish all-stars, composed of boys from Franklin, Concordia and Tensas Parishes, and the Northeast all-stars from Richland, East Carroll, West Carroll and Madison Parishes.

The initial contest Monday night at 7:30 pits Monroe against the Tri-Parish team. Tuesday night Northeast takes on the loser of the Monday contest.

Prices for the tourney are $1 for adults and 35 cents for students.

Coach Gene Woodling of the Baltimore Orioles broke in with Mansfield in the Ohio State League at age 17 in 1940.

Kasko's Double Sparks Houston To 5-3 Triumph

HOUSTON (AP) — Eddie Kasko rifled a double in the eighth inning Saturday night, driving in two runs and giving Houston a 5-3 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Kasko's double off Bob Buhl with two out knocked in Joe Gaines, who started the inning with a single, and Walt Bond, who sacrificed but reached first on a fielder's choice.

The Colts scored three runs in the fourth when Mike White doubled in two runs and came home on Kasko's single.

The Cubs tied the game 3-3 in the sixth on doubles by Billy Cowan and Ron Santo and Ernie Banks' single. Santo homered in the second for the Cubs' first run.

Don Larsen picked up his first victory with Houston after three losses. He relieved starter Bob Bruce in the eighth after Joe Amalfitano walked and Billy Williams singled. Larsen retired the next three Cubs.

KTVE Knocks Davis Food Out Of Second, 5-1

KTVE knocked Davis Food from second place by scoring four runs in the top of the seventh to win, 5-1, in an Amateur League game at Legion Stadium Saturday night.

The loss lowered Davis Food into a tie for third with Rivers Ford, both with 8-6 slates, while it vaulted Piggly Wiggly into second with a 9-6 record. Falstaff is still comfortably holding first with a 13-2 mark.

The All-Stars take on Ouachita Bank today at 2 p.m.

Davis Food's lone tally came in the first inning after two were out. Mel Jordan tripled and then scored on an error.

The game was nip and tuck for five innings until KTVE tied it up in the sixth. Jerry Aulds walked, was sacrificed to second, and scored on Jerry Lovett's single.

Then KTVE lowered the boom in the top of the seventh with four big runs on a grand slam homer by Howard Baily.

Lovett got the win, giving up only three hits, one walk and striking out three. It was a heartbreaker for Lynn Causey to lose. The lefthander gave up four hits, walked three and fanned seven.

HIGH SCHOOL AFFAIR

Forty Entries In For Bowling Meet

Forty entries have already been received for Northeast State's high school invitational bowling tournament scheduled at the College Union lanes July 31 and Aug. 1.

Jack Rowan, director of rallies at the college, announced the 40 entries Saturday.

"All of the entries are from south Louisiana," Rowan said. "We're hoping to have an even bigger rush of entries in from north Louisiana next week."

Thirty-two of the entries are from New Orleans, four boys teams and four girls teams. Rowan said the teams are from high school leagues that cross school lines and therefore he does not know the schools the entries represent.

First to enter a four - man team in the tournament was Sulphur High and a four-man team from LaGrange High of Lake Charles also entered.

Concerning the girls teams, Rowan said if four more girls teams would join from New Orleans, "we'd have a good girls tournament already."

Entry fee for the tournament, believed to be the first of its kind held in Louisiana, is $5 per person which covers everything — housing, meals and all bowling fees.

Trophies will be awarded to singles, doubles and team champions.

Entries should be sent to Rowan or reservations can be made by telephoning him at Northeast. Call FA 5-6361 and ask for the Health and Physical Education Department.

West Monroe Dixie Youth

The Giants defeated the Colt 45', 5-2, in the first of three West Monroe Boys Club Dixie Youth contests Saturday.

Yankees Unleash Heavy Artillery

DETROIT (AP)—Bobby Richardson stroked four hits and Joe Pepitone drove in four runs as the New York Yankees buried Detroit 14-2 Saturday under a 20-hit assault.

The Yankees remained one game behind first-place Baltimore in the American League race. The Orioles beat Washington 5-4 in a night game.

New York knocked out starter Dave Wickersham in a four-run first inning and tattooed two Tiger relief pitchers for eight runs and eight hits in the second before rain halted play for 48 minutes.

Pepitone singled home two runs in the first and doubled in a pair in the second. Richardson and Tony Kubek each singled and doubled in the second, when the Yankees sent 12 men to the plate.

The 20 hits, biggest AL output of the season, enabled Jim Bouton to coast to his 10th victory against eight defeats.

Richardson, Mickey Mantle, John Blanchard and Clete Boyer each drove in two runs.

Al Kaline singled home the Tigers' first run in the fifth inning and scored the other after tripling in the ninth.

Dodgers Defeat San Francisco Behind Miller

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bob Miller, making only his second start of the season, beat San Francisco for the first time in his career Saturday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Giants 7-4.

Miller pitched a three-hitter through eight innings but needed relief help from Ron Perranoski and Phil Ortega in the ninth when the Giants rallied for all their runs.

Frank Howard drove in three runs for the Dodgers with his 20th homer—and fifth against San Francisco this year—and Willie Davis knocked in two with a pair of singles.

The victory before a drowd of 52,975, was the first for the Dodgers in their last six games with San Francisco and only their third in a dozen games with the Giants this year. It kept second-place San Francisco two games behind the National League-leading Philadelphia Phillies, who also lost.

Powder Puff Go Holds Spotlight At Track Today

A powder puff race featuring women drivers highlights the West Monroe Speedway program today.

Fourteen racers of the female variety are slated to run in the first women's race held in the Twin-Cities in several years.

In addition to the distaff go, Floyd Cook will be back to defend his status as the Speedway's top male driver. Cook's No. 15 has been the top money winner of this summer's campaign.

Roy Smith, Speedway president, said he expects five or six new cars to show today.

Time trials will begin at 1:30 p.m. and the first race will get under way at 2:00.

Red Wolves In Louisiana

With Sam Hanna

Canadian Biologist Reports

A young man from Canada with a keen interest in wildlife has been spending some interesting evenings in the wilds of our area for the past week or so.

He's down here on a study of the red wolf and after a couple of conversations with him we learned something about Louisiana that we didn't know before.

"They were positively red wolves," said Paul Joslin after spending a night on the Terzia Refuge in Morehouse Parish. "I heard three howling."

It must have been a good scene with Paul Joslin standing there in the brush calling up the wolves as Louisiana biologist Jerry Farrar nervously fingering his pistol.

"When the wolves started howling, Jerry went for his pistol," said Paul Joslin in a soft, Canadian accent.

Paul is a 23-year-old graduate student from the University of Toronto. When he set out to do graduate work on the red wolf, he selected Louisiana simply because he says Louisiana has the only red wolves left in the world.

"The red wolf is almost extinct," said Paul.

After spending the week at Terzia, the young Canadian packed his gear into his old trusty automobile and headed out to the Chicago Mill Game Management Area to listen for some more wolves.

He's studying under a program sponsored by the World Wildlife Fund under the supervision of Dr. D. H. Pimlott, a professor at the University of Toronto.

Dr. Pimlott has been down in the Grassy Lake area around Marksville where there's talk of red wolves in the Cajun backcountry.

During his brief visit in Monroe, Paul got first hand experience with what may pan out to be part red wolf. A couple of wild looking critters were trapped by the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission in Union Parish.

Paul's small, but he didn't waste any time in walking into a pen where the two animals were kept. He said he though they were part dog and part wolf.

Lots of times, Paul noted, people get the wolf mixed up with the coyote. In all probability, he said, there are more coyotes around this part of Louisiana than wolves.

At any rate, the animals from Union Parish are being shipped to New Hampshire where a man-and-wife team of biologists will include them in a study of the wolf family.

Paul's an interesting fellow. He gets a bang out of playing his tape recorder of errie wolf howls.

But he said he called up the the three red wolves on Terzia not far from the Bastrop city limits without the tape recorder. He mouth-called them like the crafty Cajun with geese overhead.

Paul Joslin, the Canadian, must be good. Jerry Farrar, the Louisianian, went for his pistol.

Boeuf River Project

The Department of Public Works still hasn't approved the funds for the construction of two dams on Boeuf River at the request of the police juries of Richland and Caldwell.

With practically all property owners satisfied, the two dam projects apparently have been held up in the change of administrations in Baton Rouge.

Purpose of the program is to hold water in the river for improved fishing and also for a water impoundment. One day would be located about five miles below U.S. 80 on the river with the other at Dave's Bayou.

This sounds like an awfully good project, since Richland, especially, could use some improved fresh water fishing.

But with state finances on the short end, it may be sometime before the program can be carried out. It needs the support of all public officials in the two parishes.

D'Arbonne Lake Commission

Gov. John J. McKeithen has give the D'Arbonne Lake Commission a clear mandate to operate the new lake at Farmerville as it sees fit.

In announcing his appointments to the commission, McKeithen rescinded his own executive order, which closed the gates to the lake after they had been opened by the commission.

The governor also said said the commission should use its own judgement regarding the water level of D'Arbonne Lake. This is as it should be.

McKeithen reappointed Thomas Brady, Farmerville, and Earl Sears and J. W. Reeves of Ruston. L. C. Allen of Farmerville and Donald Lindsey of Bernice were named to succeed Armand Rabun and Alvin Y. Green Sr.

With the air cleared on the future of the commission, the commission, can now go to work in the development of the lake without, we hope, the influence of political pressure.

There is still much to be done at D'Arbonne. With swimmers and skiers crowding the same areas at D'Arbonne, the commission needs to act quickly to designate different areas for the conflicting sports. If it doesn't, a tragedy could occurr.

But above all else, the new commission should listen to the advise of the technicians who recommend the fluctation of the lake or else D'Arbonne will become too weedy for anybody's use.

Armand Rabun and Alvin Green have done a good job. Now it's time for the commission to go to work and continue the devedopment of a beautiful body of water that has great possibilities.

Little Man's Corner

It was hot, but the fish were biting and the little men made news afield.

Locally, Black Bayou has been a hot spot. Frank and Louis Savanah landed 106 bream and even Bill Hogue got 35. Luke Lesotta caught 63 and P. A. Poag Jr. got 72.

Catching a combination of bream and specs, Ervin Bates and James Parker landed 98 specs and 29 bream. Mrs. John Elmendorff caught 76 white perch and Dalton Ables got 46.

Bass fishing has been good out there too. Mrs. Harry Preston caught one that weighed 4½ pounds and another that went 5½ pounds. Sam Danna landed a bass that weighed slightly over five pounds and 2-oz. Mrs. Bob Grenlee snaranother one that weighed 6-lb. 2-oz. Mrs. Bob Greenlee snared a bass weighing five and three-quarter pounds.

F. H. Summers also caught two healthy bass in Black Bayou — 3½ and 4½ pounds.

Meantime, gunsmith Dude Rogers found a 1930 hunting license in the stock of a gun he was working on. It was interesting to read the seasons and bag limits.

For instance, the duck season ran from November 1 to January 31st and the daily bag was 25 and 300 for the season. Dove hunters also could get 25 per day.

Apparently the deer season was much the same in those days and the quail season wasn't much different either. You could kill five turkeys for the season and there wasn't a bag limit on rabbits.

Out at Eros, a large wolf that has been trying to break into a broiler house owned by Fred Capps met his doom one afternoon recently. Wolf hunter Harward Hightower dropped the big animal with six shots from a .22-Magnum pistol.

The wolf weighed 50 pounds.

And out at Russell Sage, taxidermist Bobby Walker is busy constructing a new shop on property he purchased next to the public hunting area. Bobby's place should be an asset for area sportsmen who like to keep their prize catches and kills.

From Vidalia, John and Jimmy Atkins caught the limit of bream at Deer Park. Hy Standiford and his wife landed the limit of specs at Fairview below there while John Lishman was getting the limit of bream. Hubert Pevey got the limit at Old River on crickets.

Fishing Lake Concordia, Willie and Ben Goss landed the limit of bass. Alex Dunigan and Bill Parker of Ferriday had a good day with the bass at Lake Concordia too.

Bob Craft and Milton Holmes of Vidalia caught some bass in Lake Concordia while Russell and J. D. Tompkins landed a good string of bream in Lake St. Johnson.

From Monroe, Mrs. James Fulton and Mrs. Ella Fulton caught bream in Old River Lake.

CANADIAN BIOLOGIST Paul Joslin from the University of Toronto exhibits two wild animals snared in Union Parish as he conducts a study of the red wolf in the Monroe area. Joslin believes the animals are a cross between a dog and a wolf, but they will be positively identified in New Hampshire where an extensive study of wolves is being made. The young Canadian reports he heard three red wolves in the Terzia Refuge in Morehouse Parish a few nights ago. (Staff photo by Ben Bradford)

Cards Hang On To Down Phils

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mikelified the hitting of the Cardi-Cuellar's relief pitching and anals' Ken Boyer, who clouted key double play snuffed out atwo homers, including his secninth-inning Philadelphia rallyond grand slam of the season. after seven runs had scored, Curt Simmons, a former Phil-and St. Louis escaped with a 10-lie, went into the ninth with a 9 victory Saturday. 10-2 lead. But Philadelphia filled The fantastic rally almost nul-the bases on a single by Gus Triandos and walks to Bobby Wine and pinch hitter Wes Covington. Cookie Rojas and Johnny Callison each singled in a run, and Glen Hobbie replaced Simmons with the bases still loaded.

Hobbie walked pinch hitter Tony Gonzalez for another run, and he hit for Bob Taylor with a 2-0 count on Richie Allen. Taylor completed the walk to Allen and gave up a two-run single to Alex Johnson, playing his first major league game.

2-0 count on RichieAllen. Taylor

Cuellar then came on and got pinch hitter John Herrnstein to loft a fly to center fielder Curt Flood. Allen scored from third, but Johnson tried to go to second and was out, Flood to Gerry Buchek. Triandos then popped up for the final out.

Simmons thus won his 15th game against the Phillies since they cut him loose in 1960. He has lost to them only twice. His season record is 10-8.

Boyer clouted the seventh grand slam of his career in the fifth inning. He followed with a solo blast in the seventh, giving him 15 homers and 72 runs batted in.

The Cardinals scored two runs in the ninth that turned out to be vital. Bill White led off with a single, continued to second on an error by Wine and scored on Mike Shannon's single to center. Shannon moved to third on Bob Uecker's single and came home on a single by Simmons.

Baltimore Rallies To Top Senators

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jerry Adair's un-scoring single capped a four-run rally in the eighth inning that vaulted Baltimore to a 5-4 victory over Washington Saturday night.

The triumph kept the first-place Orioles one game ahead of New York in the American League race.

Sam Bowens delivered a key single in the uprising, driving in two runs with two out and the bases loaded. His hit came off Ron Kline, who had just relieved starter Bennie Daniels. The Orioles loaded the bases on singles by Earl Robinson, Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson.

Following Bowens' hit, Charley Lau beat out a slow roller along the first base line, sending Brooks Robinson home with the tying run. Then came Adair's winning single to left field.

The Senators scored two runs in the first with the help of errors by Lau and Earl Robinson and a Steve Barber wild pitch. The only hit in the inning was John Kennedy's single. Kennedy walked in the fourth before Don Leppert homered.

Tech Schedule Has Five Home Games Slated

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech's footballers will play three of their five home contests this fall against teams that defeated them last season — McNeese State, Tennessee Tech, and Southeastern Louisiana College.

The Techsters had a 6-3 record last year and will face only one new foe, East Texas State, this season. Other home games will be against East Texas and Arlington State.

Tech's homecoming will be against Southeastern Nov. 7, the only day game on the Bulldog slate.

The Schedule:

Sept. 19 — Louisiana College at Pineville at 8 p.m.
Sept. 26 — McNeese State at Ruston at 8 p.m.
Oct. 3 — East Texas State at Ruston at 8 p.m.
Oct. 10 — USL at Lafayette at 8 p.m.
Oct. 17 — Arlington State at Ruston at 8 p.m.
Oct. 24 — Northwestern La. at Shreveport at 8 p.m.
Oct. 31 — Tenn. Tech at Ruston at 8 p.m.
Nov. 7 — Southeastern La. at Ruston at 2 p.m.
Nov. 14 — So. Miss at Hattiesburg at 8 p.m.
Nov. 21 — Northeast State at Monroe at 8 p.m.

DOUBLE RECORD

BOSTON (UPI) — Frank Malzone of the Boston Red Sox led American League third baseman in double plays for five seasons from 1957 through 1961.

Ken Venturi Fires 69, In Tie With Besselink

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi and Al Besselink shot identical 69s Saturday to remain in a tie after 54 holes in the $50,000 Insurance City Open Golf Tournament.

Their three-round total of 202 was 11 under par at the Wethersfield Country Club par 35-36—71 layout and set the stage for what could be a dramatic climax Sunday.

The 33-year-old Venturi has put together rounds of 70-63-69. The 40-year-old Besselink has 66-67-69 rounds.

Challenging the leader were Sam Carmichael with 203 and Jack Rule and Bert Yancey with 204s.

Besselink, back on the pro tour after a three-year absence because of illness, fought it out with Venturi under partially-clouded skies over the 6,569-yard course. A crowd of about 14,000 watched.

Venturi collected three birdies and one bogey in his 34-35 round and took 28 putts. Besselink picked up four birdies and two bogies in his round.

Yancey suffered from putting trouble at crucial moments, especially at the 17th hole, where he missed a five-footer for a bogey.

"I played my best round today," said Besselink, who has promised the press a case of wine if he wins on Sunday. Tony Lema started the custom by buying champagne after all his victories. Besselink said he couldn't afford the bubbly stuff.

Besselink said he found it "tough to putt because of the spike marks."

"I three-putted the 15th hole from 10 feet because I wanted to give it a charge," he said. "I hit 16 greens and I think that's pretty good golf."

One of Venturi's most exciting shots came on the par four 371-yard seventh hole, where he chipped in for a birdie from 40 feet with his pitching wedge.

When someone asked him how he slept with a convention at the same hotel, Venturi said:

"Some always seemed to be pounding on my door last night. I always thought this was a quiet little town but this morning they had a stabbing, the hotel fire alarm, fire engines and police cars."

"They sell insurance here," said a newsman.

"They need it," said Venturi.

Two players were disqualified because they signed the wrong scores. They were Pete Cooper, who posted a 212, and Dee Refram.

Rex Baxter turned in the best third-round card—a 63, which is only three strokes above the tournament course record of 60 registered by Tommy Bolt 10 years ago.

Other scores included a 209 by Bobby Nichols, the PGA champion; Sam Snead and Billy Casper, the 1963 ICO winner. Julius Boros shot a 211.

Chisox Rally In 13th, Win From Twins

CHICAGO (AP)—Mike Hershberger singled across two runs in the 13th inning, boosting the Chicago White Sox to a 6-5 triumph over Minnesota in a see-saw battle Saturday.

Hershberger's single off Dick Stigman came after the White Sox loaded the bases on three walks. Gerry Fosnow walked J. C. Martin and Tom McCraw and Stigman came in and walked Floyd Robinson.

Stigman was the Twins' ninth pitcher in the game. That tied the major league record for the number of pitchers used by one team.

The two-run rally overcame a one-run lead the Twins took in their half of the 13th. Jerry Zimmerman's single knocked in the run.

Zoilo Versalles homered off Hoyt Wilhalm in the top of the 12th, but the White Sox came back in their half of the inning for a run when Bill Skowron singled in Pete Ward from second.

Ron Hansen sent the game into overtime, leading off the White Sox ninth with a home run. It came off Jim Perry, who had held Chicago scoreless since relieving starter Jim Roland in the fourth.

The White Sox scored twice without a hit in that inning. Two walks and Harmon Killebrew's error filled the bases. Don Buford and Bill Skowron then scored on two wild pitches by Roland.

Five consecutive singles gave the Twins three runs in the third.

BARNES, KREITLING

Chicago Bears Pass Game Is Given Boost

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Watch for the Chicago Bears to start tossing that football a little more this year. With Gary Barnes and Rich Kreitling added to the receiving corps, Bill Wade has some new targets.

Not that George Halas is going to abandon the ball-control game that won the National Football League title last year. The same ball-hungry defensive unit is back to haunt opposing passers.

Halas was impressed by what he saw of Barnes, former Dallas Cowboy, and Kreitling, ex-Cleveland Brown, in the early days of training camp for the Aug. 7 game with the College All-Stars.

Incidentally, the fastest man in the Bear camp over the half-mile route was Dick Evey, the rookie tackle from Tennessee, who was clocked in 2:41.

Under the Halas system, all linemen must run a half in 3:15 and all backs and ends must do the Halas mile in 6:30.

When Mel Profit left the Los Angeles Rams' camp to report to the College All-Stars he told the writers, "All I want to do is watch Mike Ditka."

Ditka is the Chicago Bears' tight end. Profit, a 6-foot-5, 215-pounder at UCLA, has built himself up to 230 pounds by a weight-lifting program. When he came to camp, he learned he was to try out as a tight end.

"At UCLA about 90 per cent of our attack consisted of running," said Profit. "So I blocked and blocked. My speed is nothing exceptional but I have pretty good power and I can hold the ball."

With Bart Starr and Zeke Bratkowski in front of him, Dennis Claridge knows he isn't going to be the No. 1 quarterback at Green Bay so he is ready to try for a running back job.

"I have two goals," said the former Nebraska star. "First, I want to make the club. Second, I want to find some place where I can start eventually."

Running back jobs aren't exactly wide open at Green Bay either, with Paul Hornung, Tom Moore and Elijah Pitts around.

Vince Lombardi was so high on Claridge that he drafted him No. 4 as a "future" in 1962. Lombardi wants to look at him both ways. The young man decided to defer his dental study until the off season.

Abner Haynes has been moved to flanker back at Kansasa City after leading the American Football League as a runner in 1960 and scoring 35 touchdowns rushing and gaining 3,177 yards in four years.

Coach Hank Stram figures on a big back combination from Curt McClinton, Jack Spikes, Bert Coan and Jerrel Wilson. Z. Coan can do the job if he gains confidence," said Stram.

Frank Jackson who toiled behind Haynes as a runner until he moved to flanker, now will have to contend with Haynes at another position.

Bill McPeak is happy about the deal that brought Sam Huff to the Washington Redskins. Dick Shiner, the Redskins' rookie quarterback from Maryland, also impressed the staff. The Skins reportedly have a deal with Dick Drummond, rookie halfback from George Washington, to let him know if he'll make the club before the fall medical school classes begin.

The Packer-Bear game Aug. 22 at Mliwaukee's County Stadium has been a 44,682 sellout for a month. Everybody wants to see what happens the first time Paul Hornung runs up against the Bears' defense.

The New York Jets have sold 14,000 season tickets and already have $300,000 in the till, as much as the club took in all last year.

Carl Eller, the Vikings' big rookie defensive end from Minnesota, shook the earth in his first camp collision with Hal Bedsole of Southern Cal.

West Monroe, Springhill To Meet Monday

The Northside All Stars of West Monroe and Springhill kick off the 4th District Tournament of Dixie Youth Baseball on Monday at 7 P.M.

This best of three series will open at the Seventh Street Park in West Monroe, the second game will be played Tuesday at Springhill with the site of the third game being determined by the flip of a coin.

The winner of the series will represent the 4th District in the 9th Annual Louisiana State Tournament for Dixie Youth Baseball which begins August 3rd at Alexandria.

Both ball clubs are undefeated in Bi-district play, with Springhill defeating the Ruston All Stars in its final game by a score of 7-6. Other teams in the Springhill tourney included Farmerville, El Dorado, and two all star squads from Ruston.

The Northsiders also finished its Bi-District play undefeated with two victories over the East Side All Stars and one win over the Caldwell Parish champions.

West Monroe was also represented by All Star teams from the South and West Leagues in the Bi-District tourney that was concluded last Thursday when the North Siders eliminted the East League All Stars by a score of 5-4.

The West Monroe Bi-district winners are managed by Ron Despeaux and Ray Hebert. The sixteen allstars who make up the North Side champs are as follows: Ricky Gates,

CEREMONIES MONDAY

Baseball's 'Hall Of Fame' Adds Seven New Members

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Seven new members of the Baseball Hall of Fame will be inducted Monday on the site where the institution was dedicated 25 years ago.

Those receiving their plaques will be Luke Appling, Urban Faber, Burleigh Grimes and Heinie Manush. John Montgomery Ward, Tim Keefe and Miller Huggins will be inducted posthumously.

Appling a brilliant shortstop with the Chicago White Sox from 1930 to 1950, was elected by the Baseball Writers' Association of America last Feb. 20. The others were appointed by the 12-man Veterans' Committee on Feb. 22.

One of the features of the silver anniversary celebration will be a clash between the Washington Senators and New York Mets in the annual Hall of Fame game at 1 p.m., EST, on Doubleday Field.

Commissioner Ford Frick will preside at the ceremonies to be staged on the porch of the Hall of Fame. League presidents Joe Cronin of the American and Warren Giles of the National, will participate. Former American League president Will Harridge, who officiated at the original dedication on June 12, 1939, also will be there.

Hall of Famers back for a reunion will be George Sisler, Dizzy Dean, Frankie Frisch, Charlie Gehringer, Bill Terry, Elmer Flick, Ted Lyons, Joe McCarthy, Bill McKechnie, Sam Rice, Ray Schalk and Cronin. Baseball officials attending will include Boston Red Sox President Tom Yawkey, Mets' president George Weiss, Washington general manager George Selkirk, and International League president Tommy Richardson.

Mrs. Christy Mathewson, Mrs. Eddie Collins, Mrs. Babe Ruth and Mrs. Melvin Ott, widows of Hall of Fame members, have accepted invitations to attend. Members of the families of Ward and Keefe, who played before 1900, will be there.

The induction of the select seven swells the Hall of Fame membership to 101. Faber, like Appling, spent his entire major league career with the White Sox. A right-handed pitcher, he won 253 and lost 211 from 1914 through 1944.

Grimes, an aggressive campaigner from 1916 to 1934, worked for seven clubs, almost entirely in the National League. His record was 270 victories and 212 defeats. Like Faber, he was a spitball pitcher.

Huggins, who managed the New York Yankees to six pennants in an eight-year period, from 1921 through 1928, was named for his skill at holding the reins. He joins such other illustrious diamond strategists as Joe McCarthy, John McGraw, Connie Mack, Hughie Jennings, Bill McKechnie and Harry Wright.

Keefe pitched 19 straight victories for the New York Giants in 1888 and won 345 games in his career. Ward, who played from 1878 to 1894 was a great shortstop and an outstanding pitcher. He also played second base and outfield. As a batter, he collected over 2,000 hits. As a pitcher, he won 160 games, including a perfect, no-man-reach-first performance for Providence against Buffalo, June 17, 1880.

Manush, a strapping outfielder, compiled a .330 batting average in 17 years in the majors. He led the American League in hitting in 1937 with a .378 batting average. Appling, with a .310 lifetime batting average, paced the American League twice, with .388 in 1936 and .328 in 1943.

Smith Has Five Hits In Victory Over Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Willie Smith lashed five hits and drove in three runs and Bob Perry knocked in four as the Los Angeles Angels unleashed a 19-hit attack and annihiliated Kansas City 18-2 Saturday.

Joe Adcock and Bobb Knoop also batted in three runs apiece in support of Bo Belinsky's five-hit pitching. Belinsky increased his record to

Local Wildlife Unit Schedules Meeting Tuesday

The Ouachita Wildlife Unit will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the West Monroe Boys Club where W. T. Carpenter of Bastrop will show Wild Cargo films in color.

Club president J. B. Thoman said the club would meet at the Boys Club in an effort to "bring the conservation message to our youngsters."

Carpenter produced the Wild Cargo films for television.

Also on the program will be live animal demonstrations by Kit Beecher, director of the Monroe zoo. Snakes and animals will be used.

Judge John McCormack, president of the Boys Club, will make a short talk. Thoman said the public was invited.

DIMAGGIOS EVERYWHERE

BOSTON (UPI) — In the early 1940's the borthers DiMaggio were playing with these major league clubs: Joe, Yankees; Dominic, Red Sox, and Vincent, Pirates.

BERRA WORRIED

Ford Troubled With Bad Hip

DETROIT (AP)—Whitey Ford's hip is hurting, and the pitching coach of the New York Yankees is worried.

The pitching coach, of course, is Whitey, which raises another problem for Yankee manager Yogi Berra.

"Really, all a pitching coach is for is to tell your troubles to," Ford said Saturday. "But I have to tell my troubles to Yogi."

There is plenty to tell. Ford had to leave after two ineffectual innings in the second game against the Detroit Tigers Friday night, and will miss at least one turn before he pitches again.

The Yankees finally won the game, and got a split on the day. But they are in second place behind the Baltimore Orioles, and without Ford, the great left-hander who has carried them all year, they might just stay there.

Ford, now 35, is 12-3 on the year, but the hip has been getting steadily worse. His career record is 211-81.

"I took an extra day's rest," Whitey said. "I did nothing after pitching last Sunday, didn't run or pick up a ball. I just took the diathermy and ultra-sound treatment.

"I really babied it, and I thought it would be fine tonight. But it started hurting while I was warming up. That's earlier than usual. It's been getting to me about the seventh inning."

Ford said he thought it best to skip his next turn, which would come against Los Angeles next week.

Berra agreed, and said he would hold Ford out until the last game in Minnesota, on Aug. 2.

"Then I'll have him ready for the first one against Baltimore on Aug. 7," the manager said.

Ford was looking ahead to the Orioles, too.

"We play nobody but Baltimore and the White Sox for 15 straight games in August," the pitcher said. The White Sox are in third place.

"I'll rest the hip, and hope it gets better like it did before," Ford said. "My arm feels fine."

Whitey's troubles in the right hip apparently started on opening day, when the mound at Yankee Stadium was too high. It has come and gone all season.

Ford had little difficulty building up a 10-game winning streak even though the hip gave him trouble in the late innings of several games. But it took five tries to win his 11th.

Then the hip straightened out, and Ford pitched a shutout against Baltimore. But the next start, against Cleveland, the pain came in the fifth inning.

Catcher Elston Howard said he could see with the first pitch against Detroit Friday night that Ford was in pain. "He couldn't follow through," Howard said. "And every time he tried he'd give in to his hip. This was the worst I'd seen it."

Bressoud Slams Boston Red Sox Past Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ed Bressoud slammed a home run in the ninth inning, giving Boston a 4-3 victory over Cleveland Saturday.

Bressoud connected off reliever Don McMahon with two out. His 10th homer sailed over the left field fence.

Dick Stuart earlier clouted two homers for the Red Sox, his 25th and 26th.

The Indians took the lead in the first inning on Leon Wagner's solo homer, but Stuart's second-inning homer off southpaw Jack Kralick tied the score.

Bob Chance put the Indians ahead again in the third with a bases-loaded sacrifice fly, scoring Dick Howser, but two runs put the Red Sox back in front in the sixth.

Carl Yastrzemski's double scored Tony Conigliaro, who had reached first on Larry Brown's error. Yastrzemski was tagged out after he rounded second, so the bases were empty when Stuart rapped his second homer, this time off Sonny Siebert.

The Indians tied it again in the seventh when Howser singled, stole second and scored on Vic Davalillo's single.

Bastrop Plays Rayville 9 Today

BASTROP (Special) — Independent baseball clubs from Bastrop and Rayville will tangle in Mer Rouge this afternoon at 2:30.

The teams played last week with Rayville grabbing a 11-3 victory.

Either Aubrey Quimby or Bill Duncan will be on the mound for Rayville while Bastrop is expected to throw either Rickey Head or Ellis Rushing.

10-0 VICTORY

New York Mets Bombard Braves

NEW YORK (AP)—The last place New York Mets exploded for a 10-0 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Saturday that featured four straight hits by Tim Harkness and homers by Joe Christopher and George Altman.

Tracy Stallard pitched a three-hitter for the Mets, and made his record 6-13. It was Stallard's first major league shutout.

Harkness singled in the first and scored when Christopher hit his 10th homer, and singled again in the sixth in front of Altman's fourth homer. The Mets also got six runs in the fifth after two were out.

Harkness doubled one run in, Altman and Jesse Gonder each singled in two and Roy McMillan drove the last run over.

An old-timers game, played by members of the squads in the 1939 All-Star Game at Yankee Stadium, preceeded the regular game. The score was 0-0, in the two inning contest.

George Case singled and Bill Dickey doubled for the American League. Ducky Medwick and Frank McCormick each singled for the National. Bob Feller and Lefty Gomez each pitched and inning for the Americans, and Johnny Vander Meer and Whitlow Wyatt split the National League pitching chores.

Leslie Sets Novel In Northern India

THE ROPE BRIDGE. By Cecile Leslie. Doubleday, $3.95.

Rather odd story, this. Both its setting and its subject take the reader on a journey into unfamiliar territory.

Most of the action takes place on the northern frontier of India, and the heroine is 15-year-old Liza Drexler, whose mother is an unusual, game-hunting type.

Liza is glad to welcome an Indian boy, Raji, back from England, for she has an adolescent crush on him.

But the simultaneous arrival of a Mr. and Mrs. Tanner upsets her, for it seems to India-loving Liza that they represent the worst traits of a stuffy, provincial-English middle class.

Then it develops that Mrs. Tanner had been the widow of a British colonel named Henson, and has returned to India to find their "lost" daughter Caroline. The search leads directly to Liza Drexler and her mother.

There is an act of violence as the plot approaches its climax, and finally Liza is confronted with a choice about her future life.

The narrative is saturated with local color—at the beginning the dialogue and descriptive passages are a little hard to follow for this reason; but the color has an authentic ring.

Miss Leslie has presented her characters, particularly the young heroine, with psychological skill and understanding. The result is a stirring story.

HANLEY'S PLAYS

NEW YORK (AP) — Three plays by William Hanley are being considered by assorted sponsors for early Broadway presentation.

Hanley, who attracted attention initially off-broadway with "Mrs. Dally Has a Lover," has expanded that short script into full-length form as one of the prospects. The others are "Conversations in the Dark," which was withdrawn for revision by the Theater Guild during tryout last season, and "Slow Dance on the Killing Ground."

Waugh's History Of Indies

A FAMILY OF ISLANDS. By Alec Waugh. Doubleday, $5.95.

From Christopher Columbus to the Spanish-American War, this is a history of the West Indies. Waugh says he feels about these many islands as he would about individual members of a family.

It is a story of Spanish, British, French and Dutch exploration, exploitation and eventual recession. It records the discovery and commercial rise in the New World of coffee, tea and cocoa; the development of the slave trade, which served as the basis for a new economy in sugar; and finally the gradual decline of plantation colonialism.

Waugh follows all the many changes of sovereignty throughout the islands, and the reader cannot help being impressed by how the European cockpit of war provided many delayed reactions in the West Indies.

The author makes use of many historical sources, but he also flavors his account with modern observations of the territory's geography, scenery and personalities.

The latter part of the book, filled with details that are less than dymatic, may be of interest mainly to history buffs. The early pages are the best.

Waugh is most effective when he is telling about the Spanish exploration; the privateers Hawkins and Drake; Morgan and other pirates of the Spanish Main; the jungle fights for Panama and for control of the route sailed by the gold and silver convoys. He adds some exotic details about the Brethren of the Coast, scavengers of the pirate world.

Rosa Lewis Biography Lacks Zest

THE DUCHESS OF JERMYN STREET. By Daphne Fielding. Little, Brown. $4.95.

Rosa Lewis started, in 1879, at age 12, as a general servant, learned to cook and evenutally was in demand as cook for parties attended by lords, ladies and royalty. Her reputation as a top cook secure, in 1902 she bought the Canvendish Hotel on Jermyn Street, London, and ran it until her death in 1952.

But Rosa Lewis was cherished less for her table and her hotel than for being personally Quite A Character. She could hobhob with the nobs, swear like a dock hand, carry on a feud against the Royal Yacht Squadron and all writers and, as if she were renting rooms in Sherwood Forest, add the bills of the poor to the bills of the rich.

Unfortunately, although Mrs. Fielding has strung together many anecdotes, the Rosa Lewis of the biography never achieves the zing that the reader is sure she did possess in life.

Part of the problem is Mrs. Fielding's style. She often is condescending and banal. "The ancestor had that blessed gift of being able to mix with ordinary people, making them feel perfectly natural and at ease with him, for he neveh lost the common touch."

Mrs. Fielding is writing as a member of one of the titled families of Rosa Lewis' acquaintance. She lets us know, for instance, that Rosa preferred the yacht of the author's grandmother's second husband to that of Kaiser William III. However, the tone of the writing seems to be aimed less toward others of her own social set than to the scullery maids who peruse the Sunday tabloids for accounts of scandalous carryings on above stairs and the dropping of some lordships' names, the more the better.

Schweitzer And Work Depreciated

VERDICT ON SCHWEITZER. By Gerald McKnight. John Day. $4.95.

McKnight, a British free lance writer, has made no equal balance of pro and con in his study of Albert Schweitzer.

He starts with the premise that the jungle doctor is a legendary figure, and says "legend is rarely true to its subject even in the most inspiring cases." Then he proceeds to examine all aspects of the Schweitzer career from a very skeptical viewpoint. And while he concedes his subject has many virtues, he devotes most of his text to the techniques of debunking.

He questions Schweitzer's theology and philosophy. He questions the importance of the doctor's books in those fields, as well as his writings on Bach, organs and other subjects. He challenges the doctor's motives in establishing the hospital at Lambarene, and repeats what critics and detractors have said about the lack of progress there. He casts doubt on the doctor's attitude toward his wife and daughter. He asserts "the benign dictator" gives little credit to his staff, and devotes a chapter to the theme that Schweitzer allows wealthy, but untrained, women to clutter up the hospital.

McKnight's methods are far from superficial. He cites many passages from Schweitzer's books and from books about the doctor. He visited Lambarene himself, and quotes many individuals who have worked with the doctor. He does knock down a few of the rumors about inefficiency in the hospital's operation, and gives rebuttal to some of the criticisms made by others.

But the whole trend of the book leads to a final chapter that is anything but favorable. It is a doubt-raising, image-breaking book.

Fascinating Report Of A Major Flight

LIKE A HOMESICK ANGEL. By John Bainbridge. Houghton Mifflin. $3.95.

Told in almost minute-by-minute sequence, this is the story of a commercial jet flight from New York to Paris and Rome.

It is keyed to the pilot, Harold F. Blackburn, who at 59 is approaching compulsory retirement after a career that dates back to memories of the early barnstorming days.

It starts with Blackburn's departure from his Pennsylvania farm, goes behind the scenes at Kennedy International Airport, and describes in meticulous detail all the operational details of takeoff, navigation, communications, flight planning and other aspects of fast international flight.

There are personal glimpses of the crew, anecdotes about other flights and notes on Blackburn's layover in Rome.

Because of Blackburn's long experience, he is an appropriate narrator on two main themes — the beginnings of commercial aviation and the contrast between the trans - Atlantic operations of recent piston-engine planes and the new jets.

This small book, illustrated by Rudolph Janu's phootgraphs, is first - class reporting, and makes engrossing reading for everyone — whether or not they are accustomed to international airline travel.

AUTOMATIC SUNGLASS

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —Two Pittsburgh scientists have developed an automatic sunglass at Mellon Institute. The glass darkens in sunlight and slowly returns to its clear state when the light is removed.

Officials said the glass might be used in space exploration, automobile windshields and prescription eyeglasses. It was developed by Dr. Alvin J. Cohen, professor of geochemistry at the University of Pittsburgh in cooperation with H. L. Smith.

PARIS AIRPORT

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new airport for Paris, 13 miles outside the city, is being planned to handle supersonic flights in 1972, according to Pan American World Airways. Foundation work is expected to begin in 1967 and estimates for construction run to $200 million. A third of the cost will be covered by the sale of land at Le Bourget Airport, which will be non-operational in 1976.

COURT DAY UPDATED

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — There was a time when Court Day was a popular place to meet friends and sell or swap anything from a knife to a mule.

When the Chamber of Commerce revived the custom in Maysville, officials found it had gone modern.

One of the items traded was a set of hair curlers for a Beatle Wig.

MRS. PHILLIP LEONARD CANDELLA

Candella-Bruscato Vows Read In St. Matthew's

Miss Phyllis Jean Bruscato, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene John Bruscato, 709 Arkansas Ave., became the bride of Phillip Leonard Candella, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wess Candella of Shreveport in a double ring ceremony Monday, July 20.

The Nuptial mass was celebrated in St. Matthew's Church at 10 a.m. with the Rev. Richard Fale officiating. Serving as altar boys were Jerry Spatafora and Andy Varino. Traditional nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Louise Lasuzzo, organist and Mrs. Waymon Etier, soloist.

Large arrangements of white gladioli with gold foliage were placed on the altars, and flanking the main altar were tall white baskets of gladioli and the golden foliage.

Mr. Bruscato gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of white peau de soie was styled with full skirt and fitted bodice, featuring a yoke of Chantilly lace, etched with pearls. Long sleeves tapered to lily points over the hands. A voluminous overskirt of the peau de soie which terminated in a chapel train, was lavishly embellished with appliques of the lace and pearls. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a double crown of pearls and her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of tuberoses and Frenched carnations with a removable orchid corsage.

Miss Toni Candella, Shreveport, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and Mrs. Beatrice Marsala, New Orleans, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Andria Reno of Alexandria; Miss Phyllis Jo Monaco, Miss Carmen Shambro and Miss Linda Battistone.

The attendants wore floor length gowns of gold peau de soie with attached trains. Their wide-brimmed picture hats were of gold horsehair braid, trimmed with small white flowers and pearls. They wore white gloves and carried bouquets of white carnations, edged with gold leaves.

Flower girls, Lisa Sills and Angela Bruscato, also dressed in gold peau de soie, carried baskets of white pompon chrysanthemums.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom was Carl Roppollo Jr. of Shreveport. Groomsmen-ushers were Frank Nicholas Bruscato, Wess Candella Jr., Frank Eugene Bruscato, Joseph Fertitta of Shreveport; Joe G. Bruscato, Charles Marsala, C. J. Fulco and Sam Gurisco, Shreveport. Ring bearer was Charles Eugene Marsala.

Mrs. Bruscato, mother of the bride, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over pink satin with pink accessories and a purple orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a gown of blue lace with blue accessories and a purple orchid.

The Paragon Club was scene of the reception which followed the exchange of vows. An arch of magnolias formed a background for the bride's cake table. The round table was covered with a floor length net cloth over satin and garlanded with smilax and clusters of stephanotis. White flowers and gold leaves enhanced the all white wedding cake. A tall memory candle encircled with white pompons decorated the guest book table, which was also draped in white net over satin. Providing the central decor for the refreshment table which held the silver coffee service and punch bowl, was an arrangement of white gladioli in a crystal prism bowl, flanked by matching candelabra. Champagne was served from a silver sprinkling fountain. White stock and majestic daisies formed the centerpiece for the buffet table.

Miss Cecila White registered guests at the entrance of the reception room. Mrs. John Tropea served coffee and Mrs. Lorethia Monaco poured punch and serving the cake were Mrs. Ethel Fulco and Mrs. E. F. Kenny. Also assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. V. L. Battistone and Mrs. J. B. Cascio. Background music for the reception hours was provided by the Les Winslow trio.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Dallas, Texas, the bride was wearing a yellow linen suit with beige accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return they will be at home at 1214 N. Second, West Monroe.

Mrs. Candella was graduated from St. Matthew's high school and attended Northeast. A graduate of St. John's high school in Shreveport, Mr. Candella attended Louisiana Tech at Ruston and is now employed in Monroe.

Frances De'Lane Cooper, Neville Coach Are Wed

Arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums against a background of Southern smilax and fern trees formed a setting in Central Baptist Church for the wedding Saturday, July 25 of Miss Frances De'Lane Cooper and Jesse Benjamin Hollis, both of this city.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cooper, 1711 South 6th, Monroe and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Aylmer Hollis of Bernice.

White tapers in branched candelabra and aisle candles completed the setting for the double ring ceremony performed at 7:30 p.m. by Rev. John W. Green, uncle of the groom. Mrs. Ronnie Stephens, organist, presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied Ronnie Stephens and Rev. Charles Littleton, who sang.

Wearing a formal gown of silk peau de soie, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The gown featured a moulded bodice with yoke of Alencon lace and three-quarter sleeves, banded with scalloped lace. The A-line skirt was topped with a detachable train ending in a slight split, trimmed in matching lace and a self fabric bow. Her veil of illusion drifted fingertip length from a cap headdress of lace and pearls. She carried a white Bible, crested with a bouquet, comprising miniature white carnations and lily of the valley encircling a white orchid.

Mrs. C. L. Hinton Jr. sister of the bride, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Patti Williams, Miss Connie Nolen, niece of the groom; Miss Sandra Vigg, and Miss Priscilla Thompson. They wore identical sheath gowns of blue peau de soie overlaid with bodices and full skirts of blue chiffon. Cummerbunds of the peau de soie encircled the waists. Short blue veils were attached to their wedding band headdresses and each wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the bride. The attendants wore blue shoes, white gloves and carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums interspersed with blue net. Kim Magee was flower girl.

Mr. Hollis attended his son as best man and groomsmen were C. L. Hinton Jr., Joe Green, Paul Salley and Larry Reeves. Mark McConaughey served as ring bearer.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a deep blue sheath of silk and cotton with lace-trimmed jacket. Her accessories were pink and she wore a pink carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother was wearing a pastel pink sheath with matching lace trim, white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social room where white gladioli, chrysanthemums, southern Smilax and fern trees formed a background for the receiving line. Centering the bride's table was an arrangement of stock and chrysanthemums in a cut glass bowl. A table at the entrance held the bride's book and a memory candle, where Miss Pat Pate registered guests.

Mrs. J. J. David had charge of the reception and assisting in the courtesies were Misses Jean and Famy Colvin, Mrs. Walter Gates, Mrs. George Douglas, Miss Bonnie Cobb and Miss Joy Sterling. Blue net rice bags were presented guests by Misses Joyce Miller and Molly Nolen.

For a wedding trip to Galveston, Texas the bride changed into a white cotton lace suit with blue patent accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home at 1617 Dawnview, Monroe.

A graduate of Ouachita Parish high school Mrs. Hollis is a senior at Northeast Louisiana State College, majoring in elementary education. Mr. Hollis was graduated from Bernice high school and from Northeast and is basketball coach and on the faculty at Neville high school.

MRS. THOMAS EDWIN TRAVIS

Travis-Rice Nuptials Solemnized In Crossett

Miss Dorothy Cheryl Rice became the bride of Thomas Edwin Travis Saturday, July 25 in a ceremony at 6:30 p.m. in the First Methodist Church of Crossett. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Howard Gates, Crossett and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. J. W. Babers of Bastrop.

Rev. Raymond Franks performed the ceremony in a setting of white gladioli and carnations. Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. W. B. Anderson organist and Mrs. Clyde Howard, soloist.

For her wedding the bride wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace with hand - cut scallops edging the short sleeves of the bolero jacket and chapel train. Her shoulder length veil fell from a pillbox of peau de soie accented with lace and seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses.

Miss Patricia Mitchell of McArthur was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Janie Dunn of Tinsman and Mrs. Charles Gates of Berdette. Miss Karen Howard of Little Rock was flower girl.

Mike Travis of Bastrop served as best man for his cousin. Ushers were Gary Murphy, Dicky Weatherly of Hamburg, Steve Travis of Bastrop, cousin of the groom and James Cosby of Warren.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in fellowship hall of the church. Assisting in courtesies were Misses Ann Brooks, Susan Peterson and Linda Kay Roberts.

After a wedding trip the couple will establish a home in Monticello.

Tips Offered To Busy Wives

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI) — The Washington State Health Department offers this advice to busy housewives:

"Scramble the work instead of finishing arduous tasks, one at a time, so as to use different sets of muscles.

"Avoid hurrying. Frequent short rest periods are more valuable than the long rest period after a job is done.

"Don't sit too long in one position."

Helen Vining Is Bride Of James Pierce Madison

Miss Helen Yvonne Vining, daughter of Mrs. Clarence Eugene Vining and the late Mr. Vining of Choudrant, became the bride of James Pierce Madison of Bastrop in a ceremony performed at 2 p.m. Saturday, July 25 in the Choudrant Methodist Church. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Madison of Bastrop.

The Rev. Kirby A. Vining, brother of the bride, officiated in the presence of the immediate families. White flowers and woodwardia fern were used as a setting for the exchange of vows.

Given in marriage by her brother, Roy Basil Vining, the bride wore a white Italian silk suit with matching acessories. She carried an arrangement of stephanotis encircling a white orchid.

Mrs. Kirby A. Vining, who served as matron of honor, wore a pink silk suit and carried a corsage of pink roses and stephanotis.

Mr. Madison was attended by his father, James Madison, as best man.

The bride is a graduate of Choudrant high school and received a Bachelor of Arts and a Master of Arts degree at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. She is a member of the faculty of Oak Hill Elementary school in Bastrop.

Mr. Madison attended Bastrop high school and Augusta Military Academy in Fort Defiance, Virginia. He graduated from the School of Business Administration at Louisiana State University with a Bachelor of Science degree and also received his law degree from the LSU School of Law and is now a member of the law firm of Madison, Madison, Files and Garrett.

MISS BEVERLY LORENA BARTLETT

Engagement Announced For Beverly Bartlett

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Bartlett, 2213 Dogwood Drive, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Beverly Lorena Bartlett to William Dale Fritz Jr., lieutenant USAF. He is the son of Col. and Mrs. William D. Fritz, New Brunswick, New Jersey.

Miss Bartlett is a graduate of Neville high school and will be a senior this fall at Northeast Louisiana State College where she is majoring in elementary education. She is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority.

Lt. Fritz was graduated from Highland Park high school and Rutgers University, where he was a member of Theta Chi fraternity. He is a past president of Colonel John Neilson Society, C.A.R. At present he is in navigation training at James Connally Air Force Base, Texas, where he will graduate in August.

More Males Dye To Be Different

NEW YORK (UPI) — More and more males dye to be different.

And they're doing it to their locks in the privacy of their bathrooms — instead of going to the back rooms of barber shops.

H. B. Hagler, who says so, maintains that more males take to the bottle — of dye — for their graying hair these days because the accent's on youth.

Hagler, president of a firm that specializes in barber shop supplies, said one can't blame a man for taking to dye for the hair if brown or black means a livelihood and gray means no job.

The trend to touching up the male's hair is indicated mostly in increased sales of the firm's (Ozon) hair coloring kits for men.

"One in a while," Hagler said, "the coloring works in reverse. A young fellow walks into our hair clinic and asks to have his hair touched gray because he has a job with a lot of older men who resent the idea that he looks younger."

Wanda Moore Becomes Bride Of Lt. Don Turner

White chrysanthemums and ferns formed a background setting in Trinity Lutheran Church of Monroe, for the wedding of Miss Wanda Jean Moore and Lt. Don Ray Turner, which was solemnized Saturday, July 18, at 6:30 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Albert DeVon Moore and the late Mr. Moore of Bastrop and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Turner, 903 Roselawn, Monroe.

The Rev. Arthur Betz performed the ceremony following a program of nuptial music by Mrs. Edward G. Johnson.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Herbert Moore, the bride wore a bell-shaped gown of ivory peau de soie with bodice of Chantilly lace, featuring Sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. The detachable chapel train followed the contour of the skirt, with deep folds at the waistline. Her veil of ivory illusion was held in place by a queen's crown of pearls and she carried a bouquet of white bride's roses.

Miss Jeanette Moore, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and Mrs. J. W. Evans Jr., of Pine Bluff, Ark., was matron of honor. They wore identical gowns of pink lace and organza and carried bouquets of pink carnations. Flower girl was Miss Lisa Lynn Moss, niece of the groom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Moss of Shreveport. She wore a frock of pink eyelet and organza and carried pink carnations.

James E. Patrick of Monroe, served as best man and ushers were Elmo L. Simmons Jr. and Roy Hollis Witherington Jr., of Bastrop.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Moore chose a petal pink linen sheath and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Turner, mother of the bridegroom, wore a pink linen brocade sheath with accessories to match and an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony Mrs. Moore entertained at a reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Oliver Road. The bride's table was covered in white satin, draped with tulle and centered with an arrangement of pink carnations. Frosted pink punch and white and pink wedding cake were served from opposite ends of the table.

Mrs. Elmo Lee Simmons Jr. registerd guests. Presiding at the bride's table were Mrs. M. W. Bancroft of York, Ala., Mrs. R. J. Moss of Shreveport and Mrs. Elsie Tillstrom of Shreveport. Tea girls were Miss Linda Gunter of Bastrop, Miss Helen Jeanne Smith of Bastrop and Miss Sherry Bancroft of York, Ala.

After a wedding trip through Texas the couple will be at home in Bastrop. For travel the bride wore an ensemble of a brown and white polka dot crepe with matching brown silk linen coat. Her accessories were of white and brown.

Mrs. Turner is a graduate of Bastrop high school and Louisiana Business College and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. She is presently employed by a law firm in Bastrop. Lt. Turner was graduated from Bastrop high school and Northeast Louisiana State College, where he received a B. A. degree in business administration. Upon graduation he was commissioned a lieutenant in the army and is awaiting assignment.

Yacht Clothes Are The Most

Knowing what to wear with your brand-new yacht is a problem that could have you waterlogged if it were not for Ann Campion and the Amphibia collection she created for a New York department store.

Zippers and grippers are dandy. But some young ladies have discovered after exposure to the sea air that the grippers would not ungrip and the zippers were too rusty to unzip. Fortunately, Ann's sea worthy numbers have saltproof, rustproof hardware installed.

Ann thinks your yacht wardrobe should include: A white vinyl jumpsuit for bad weather, or for working on the boat. When the sun reappears, unzip to a two-piece swim suit. After a swim, dive into a terry dry-off suit. And for a stop at the yacht club, a pinafore to be worn over your swimmer.

RETAIN FLAVOR

Leafy green vegetables will retain their natural color and flavor best if they are seasoned as they finish cooking, according to Mary Ann March, home economist. Add sugar or salt just before removing the vegetables from the stove.

ENGAGEMENT of Miss Patsy Ruth Whittington to Michael Ray Scott is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Whittington of Grayson. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Scott of Columbia. A September wedding is planned to be solemnized in the home of the bride's parents.

MRS. WILLIAM ELTON KENNEDY

ANNOUNCEMENT is made by Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bryan of Hodge of the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Darlene to Dale King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carter King of Calion, Ark. The wedding will take place August 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Jonesboro Assembly of God Church.

Esther Tomette Shivers Weds William E. Kennedy

The First Baptist Church in Oak Grove was scene of the candlelight ceremony Saturday, July 18 at 7 p.m. which united in marriage Miss Esther Tomette Shivers and William Elton Kennedy. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shivers Sr., of Oak Grove and Mr. Kennedy's parents are the Rev. and Mrs. M. W. Kennedy of Goodwill.

The bride is a descendant of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Waters Sr., and Mrs. W. D. Shivers and the late Mr. Shivers. Grandparents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kennedy and Mrs. W. A. Luttrell and the late Mr. Luttrell of Bastrop.

Rev. J. D. Cheatham of Pineville performed the double ring ceremony. Miss Dee Hamilton of Kilbourne, at the organ, presented a program of nuptial music and traditional wedding marches and also accompanied the soloist, Miss Billie Jean Rush, of Shreveport.

Pedestal baskets of white gladioli and stock flanked with branched candelabra entwined with English ivy and holding white cathedarl tapers formed a background for the bridal party. Spiral candelabra entwined with ivy and a white satin prie dieu completed the setting.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown, fashioned of imported silk-faced peau de soie and hand clipped Chantilly lace re-embroidered with tiny seed pearls, featured a bateau neckline with scoop back, edged in scalloped lace. An over bodice was formed by the lace with brief sleeves etched in seed pearls. The dome silhouette skirt featured a chapel train with overlays of silk illusion and re-embroidered Chantilly lace. Her bouffant veil of imported silk illusion cascaded from a crown of pearls. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and lilies of the valley with a shower of satin ribbon, tied in lover's knots. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. James Earl Shivers Jr., of Tallulah, sister-in-law of the bride, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Misses Jackie Kester, Jeanette Johns, Ann Roberts and Leah Rush, all of Oak Grove. Their identical gowns of frosty yellow crystal silk were fashioned with fitted bodices and bell shaped skirts with back interest. Circlets of matching illusion anchored by self bows formed their matching headpieces. Each carried a single, long-stemmed yellow rose.

Flower girls were Lita Ruth Grubbs of Oak Grove and Janna Loette Oldham of Irving, Texas, nieces of the bridegroom. They wore frocks of white silk organza with yellow sashes and matching bow headpieces, and carried white baskets of yellow petals.

The Rev. M. W. Kennedy served his son as best man. Groomsmen - ushers were Larry Kennedy, Ronny Elkins, Thurmon Smith of Oak Grove and James Earl Shivers Jr. of Tallulah.

Mrs. Shivers chose for her daughter's wedding a sheath of dusty rose silk shantung, a hat of matching illusion and silk flowers and bone accessories. Mrs. Kennedy, mother of the bridegroom, was wearing a gown of mint green with white accessories. Both wore corsages of orchids.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Shivers were hosts at a reception in the church recreation rooms. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Azine Rush, who directed them to the receiving line. Tall baskets of gladioli and stock were used at the entrance.

Miss Billie Jean Rush of Shreveport, registered guests at a table covered with white linen and centered with a large memory candle, encircled by lily of the valley, rice bags and yellow tulle.

The bride's table, covered in pale yellow linen was overlaid with an imported lace cloth. The bride's bouquet formed the central decor at the base of a branched silver candelabra holding yellow tapers. The tiered wedding cake, embossed with yellow roses and white wedding bells, was served by Miss Mattie Rae Miller and Miss Betty Kennedy, cousins of the bridegroom. Mrs. Don Catron of Forest, cousin of the bride, and Miss Kay Whitten alternated at the crystal punch bowl. Tea girls were Misses Sherrell Roberts, Becky Smith and Marilyn Robinson. Miss Christy Brown distributed yellow and white rice bags to the guests.

Assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. J. G. Waters, Mrs. T. D. Waters, Mrs. R. A. Brown, Mrs. Billy Roberts, Mrs. Malcolm Crowe, and Mrs. John Wesley Smith, of Oak Grove and Mrs. Kelly Salemi of Lake Providence.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast the couple will be at home near Oak Grove. For travel the bride wore a three - piece bone linen suit with yellow accessories and the yellow roses from her bouquet.

Local residents among the many out of town guests were Mrs. Pat Bullock and Kelly of West Monroe; Miss Marilyn Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. King, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Woodburn, Mrs. Donald Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fowler, all of Monroe.

Autumn Color Range Includes Pale Shades

Leading designers are more strongly in favor of vivid fall hues than ever before. The fall color palette will range from brilliant to pale colors, with pinks and purples looking newest, especially when mingled in tweeds.

Black and white come on strong for conservative tastes, with dashes of red that allow red hats to be worn with them. The influence of "My Fair Lady's" Ascot scene, done by Cecil Beaton entirely in black-and-white fashions, give the trend a new impetus, and designers of both clothes and millinery are responding with many dramatic ideas.

Browns are new in brighter shades, often combined with oyster, oatmeal or white, particularly in plaids and tweeds. New tones of olive stand out among the greens, while emerald, a favorite last year, now is often mingled with blue for a misty look.

The pale hues start with the whites, seen in all collections for coats, suits and cocktail ensembles. In twill and ribbed ottoman, the whites lead the parade which deepens to intense pastels, mingling oranges and pinks, pinks and greens, pale greens and blues.

These pale hues done in whisper-weight wools, are lively for the deep of winter, when their sunny tones look bright on dark, cold days. This fall the woman who starts with an early fall suit in brown may go to a winter dress in azalea pink.

Phi Mu Mothers Plan Fall Rush, Elect Officers

Officers for the ensuing year were elected by the Phi Mu Mothers Club of Northeast College when it met this week in the home of Mrs. W. H. Griffith, 1607 Emerson.

The new officers include Mrs. Jim Loker, president; Mrs. L. N. Blair, vice - president; Mrs. Joe B. Mullins, secretary; Mrs. Whitney Alger, corresponding secretary; Mrs. F. L. Harmon, treasurer and Mrs. J. H. Rinehart, reporter.

During the business session plans were made to assist with fall rush activities at the college. The next meeting of the mothers club will be held following the Phi Mu houseparty in September.

This is the week of "My Fair Lady," most ambitious production ever for Little Theatre of Monroe. The musical opened Friday at Strauss Playhouse, and is to run nightly through the coming week, with a matinee this afternoon.

Lovely clothes being a particular interest of this column, we attended Thursday night's preview to catch an advance glimpse of Edwardian styles — that era which has passed into the language as a synonym for elegance. Sets and costumes indeed surpass anything ever done by Little Teatre before. Thursday night's performance earned an unheard-of accolade: a standing ovation from a preview audience.

Two scenes are particularly stunning, in quite different treatment. At Ascot race track, the entire ensemble is outfitted in black, white, and gray. Gentlemen wear gray cutaways, trousers, tophats, gloves even spats.

Ladies are attired in what seems an endless array of different treatments of black and white, in silks, satins, taffeta, lace. There is a dress of white with black polka dots . . . a bodice of black and white stripes over a white skirt . . . an overskirt of white lace worn over black taffeta . . . And the accessories! Spectacular hats: picture hats, turbans, sweeping brims, all trimmed with plumes. And parasols, of course . . and maribou on everything.

At the ball, on the other hand, each dress is a different vivid color in a rich fabric. Blue satin with a deep hem of brocade . . .green, lavender, or orange embroidered taffeta . . palest apricot chiffon. . .red chiffon with gold brocade . . green and blue combinations . . . black chiffon with gold brocade bodice . . . Eliza herself wears white with a brilliant red satin opera cape.

In direct contrast to these with the aristocracy are scenes showing Eliza's cockney background. Costumes, though far from elegant, fill the stage with a whirling kaleidoscope of color in unbelievable exuberant dances. Future productions at Little Theatre will be hard put to surpass the scene at Covent Garden Flower Market.

Summer continues, as ever, to be the time of visitors in town and travelers away. On Thursday EDWYNNE SOLOMON and STELLA SANDMAN entertained with a card party at Bayou DeSiard country club complimentary to GERTIE GOLDSMITH. The latter is here from New Orleans as the guest of SADIE ABRAMSON for several weeks. Dessert and coffee was served to three tables of players before an afternoon of bridge and canasta.

After a week's visit with HERNDON and ZELL SMITH, SYBIL SMITH and her daughters KATHLEEN and ANN returned to their home in Big Spring, Texas. The Smiths now have as their guests SARA and RICHARD SOLE of Elkhart, Kansas, who will be here about a week.

Prior to her departure, Sybil was honored by her sister, BETH McGOUGH at a dessert bridge at her home. There were two tables of players, with VIRGINIA CROW winning high score; ALICE RAY BURFORD, consolation . . . Also honoring Sybil was luncheon at the Paragon, with BETTY HARRIS hostess.

Beth and W. E. McGOUGH, with their children MARTHA and MIKE, left on Thursday for a three weeks visit to the East Coast. They plan to tour through Virginia, Washington, D.C., New York and the World's Fair. Their itinerary includes a return through North Carolina to spend several days at Nantahala Village.

Due home today are JUDY and GENE WORTHEN, ANNE and D.C. BERNHARDT, who have been in Dallas. They drove over Thursday for a long weekend of city treats.

On Thursday, CAROL CUDD was hostess at a bridge party honoring SANDRA RIZZO of New Orleans, who will be living in Monroe for the next few months. The party was held at Bayou DeSiard country club, where sixteen players gathered for the games. Prizes went to HARVEY ANN BUNN, high; and CAROL TENNIS, low.

FRED McCALL is off this weekend to bring home JEAN and two of the children, FRAN and CLIFT, who have been visiting grandparents at Atlantic Beach, North Carolina. Daughter RANDY will remain at camp in North Carolina.

Speaking of campers, word comes from Waldemar that Monroe girls are well represented in tribal officers there. ANN SHERROUSE was named low senior cheerleader of the Aztec tribe. Commanche leader as well as choral director is JAN POWELL, daughter of former Monroyans MAVIS and JOE POWELL, who now live in Orange, Texas. KATHY SHAVER was chosen high senior Comanche leader and chief of the war canoe crew. In the Tejas tribe, DAY OAKLEY is low senior leader.

First session was completed Tuesday at Camp DeSoto, Mentone, Alabama. Monroyans BECKY HUENFELD and HOLLY HEUER were named honor campers at closing ceremonies.

Out of town for six weeks visit with relatives is LETA OLIVER, who is now in Ohio with her sister, JEAN FLATTERY. Later Leta will go to Chicago, where she will be the guest of her son, COL. S. C. OLIVER.

Summer is also time for catching up on one's reading. In lieu of a poem today, we quote from an article by Lewis Galantiere on the joys of a book of quotations, including some samples of the contents:

A BOOK of quotations is of all books the least tiresome. The subject is constantly changing. The reader is constantly making fresh discoveries. The platitudinous is surprisingly drowned out in the comic, the witty, the sagacious, the sublime. The mind is challenged, the memory pieced out, the past recalled, the present illuminated. It is pleasant to learn where Mrs. Grundy came from; that it was the witless Mme. du Barry who found the phrase, "more royalist than the king"; that San Francisco, in the person of Ambrose Bierce, could give us so Parisian an observation as "Woman would be more charming if we could fall into her arms without falling into her hands."

Perhaps you have never really read the Bible; Oxford or Bartlett will do what a hundred preachers could never do — persuade you to make it for a time your bedside book and that Paul was one of the most dazzling writers who ever lived.

The kind of man who calls Paul "Christ's publicity agent" has heard somewhere that "Shakespeare wrote nothing but quotations." He doesn't know the half of it. You lie in our throat: more in sorrow than in anger; make assurance doubly sure; a charmed life; Greek to me; pride of place; a trick worth two of that; wear my heart on my sleeve; scotch'd the snake; ever man Jack; the primrose way; infirm of purpose; a foregone conclusion—through here and there these figures originate in folk speech it was Shakespeare who gave them form and put them into our mouths. It is in the leisurely conning of a book of quotations that, extracted from the grand scenes in which they are uttered, these ways of speech spring at us and furnish the delight of astonished recognition.

Of course the greatest writers constitute its richest source. But behind them stand the unlettered granddads of farm and seacoast, mountain and plain. Anon, who first said, "The squeaky wheel gets the grease," was a La Rochefoucauld of the frontier. Nor can we spare the baseball fan's anguished cry ("Say it isn't so!")

A little learning is a dang'rous thing;
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring:
There shallow draughts. intoxicate the brain,
And drinking largely sobers us again.
Alexander Pope

Yet each man kills the thing he loves,
By each let this be heard,
Some do it with a bitter look,
Some with a flattering word.
The coward does it with a kiss,
The brave man with a sword!
Oscar Wilde

The boasts of heraldry, the pomp of pow'r,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Awaits alike the inevitable hour.
The paths of glory lead but to the grave.
Thomas Gray.

All the above from "The Oxford Dictionary of Quotations" (Oxford).

Fake Snakes Slither In Fall Fashion

Fake snakes are going to be slithering all over the place in fall fashions. According to samplings taken so far, both sportswear and coat-suit designers are using those wonderful new polymerics that look and act so much like the real thing that a snake could well greet one of them as a brother.

Fleming - Joffe is the firm making up a lot of these fake reptiles, of which Mocko Croco is perhaps most popular, especially in shoes and handbags.

At Style Trends, specialists in fur-lined coats, they have a fake silvery gray lizard raincoat, fur-lined, which could make a woman's whole fashion season. Tortoise appears in other raincoats, shoes and boots for fall.

VISITING IN MONROE are Mrs. Jefferson D. Smith Jr. and daughters, Cordelia, Miss Nessie and standing, Jane Davis, who with Lt. Col. Smith are guests of Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Baur, 1103 N. Third, and her aunt, Miss Alice Baur. The Smiths have just returned to the states after spending the past three years in Japan and Formosa. From here they will go to Camp LeJeune, North Carolina, where Col. Smith has been assigned.

Style Briefs

Fashion's four - season fabric will be crepe. Watch for it in four-ply, grainy, mossy, tree - bark versions. Satin - back crepe will be most important.

Tartan is at the top of the fashion picture, but not in the traditional Scotch plaids. Harper's Bazaar's Fashion Newsletter predicts there will be newsmaking in peach pink with grass green, charcoal, tomato red on big flannels and shetlands.

The old raccon coat, collegiate symbol of the roaring '20s, is back in style again, but slimmer, sometimes shirred at the waistline and with a chevron-cut to those shaggy pelts.

PROTECT FOODS

Nutritionists say that modern cooking utensils are made of materials that don't affect the nutritive values of foods cooked in them. These include aluminum, enamel, glass or stainless steel cooking ware.

PICTURE HANGING

Hang pictures so the center is about eye level. Eye-level varies from room to room. Some rooms, such as the living room, are used for sitting. Others, such as halls, usually are used just for walking.

September 5 Wedding Is Calendared

The Rev. and Mrs. E. D. Smith of Jena announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Metha Ann to Clyde Herman Arnold of Newellton. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gillis Arnold of Newellton.

The wedding will take place Saturday, September 5 at 8 p.m. in the Midway Baptist Church, with the father of the bride - elect performing the ceremony.

Sportswear Interest Shifts Back To Pants

Sportswear interest shifts back to pant excitement as weaves and patterns take on new importance. Even with stretch, in all directions, emphasis is on texture.

Stronger than ever is the pant look, more for streetwear as well as sportswear. Influenced, perhaps, by the burgeoning popularity of the number one winter sport — ski. Whether on the slopes in earnest, or merely spectator, this is 'where the boys are' and where the season's look is born.

Pantino conjures pants plain and fancy, strict or stretch. Vertically, horizontally and convertibly, from houndstooth to needlepoint, herringbone and twill. Conventionally non-stretch in jersey, iridescent tweeds and speckle, jacquard, checks and flannel.

The indomitable knit continues to reign supreme in a chenille-like rug knit, a thick and thin airy crochet puff, or soft and gently ribbon knit. Pantino treating knits like fabric —cuts and sews knitted yarns for the new pared-down sweater look—long-sleeved and covered-up or scooped and shelled, in monochrome or complimentary colors.

Knits are silky too, in stretch nylon turtlenecks for layering under V-plunge bulkies or fringe-trimmed rainbow plaids. Pantino takes summer's favorite sponge and does it blouson in sparkling jewel tones.

Corduroy re-enters the scene becoming fashionably synonomous with fall, in wide wale, broken stripe texture lightly scooped at the neckline, both collared and sleeved with rib knit.

A modern version of Sherwood Forest is styled in wool jersey with middy collar and contrast lacing to pullover its slim pant.

Bubbly surfaces become appealingly feminine in a matelasse shirt with collar and cuffs ruffled.

Warm, flowing colors ignite on challis and arnel jersey for Pantino's bold, bold prints fashioned into drawstring necklines, deeply cowled and hooded, blouson or lightly skimming tops.

This is the sum and substance of Pantino's collection for Fall '64 magically-hued in autumn fashion tones of paprika, emerald, gold, turquoise and royal, as well as the traditional color classics of navy, black, brown and beige.

AN AUGUST 8 wedding is planned by Miss Aundrea Bromley and Charles Beasley, whose forthcoming marriage is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Bromley, 310 Hamilton Ave. Parents of the future bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Beasley, 705 South 6th. The ceremony will be performed at 10 a.m. in St. Paschal's Catholic church with Father Vitus Duschinsky officiating.

BRIDE'S SILVER

Brides spent more than 270 million dollars for flatware and holloware for their new homes in 1963. Increasing number of brides - new and long-time - are turning to flatware and holloware of stainless steel. Flatware - what you eat with - and holloware - what you eat from - are being designed with an heirloom look and really will last a lifetime with soap and water care and no polishing necessary.

YOUR PROBLEMS

14-Year Olds Should Not Need Policing

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Phyllis, our 14-year-old daughter, invited her girl friend to spend the night with her. The two girls decided they'd like to have some blonde streaks in their dark brown hair. They went out and bought a bottle of extra strong peroxide and you ought to see what they did to themselves. When Phyllis and her friend showed up at the breakfast table this morning my husband and I were absolutely horrified.

The girls were sheepish and admitted that their hair didn't turn out the way they had hoped it would. The guest muttered, "I'm afraid my mother will kill me."

An hour later I received a phone call from the girl's mother. She was furious and said it was my fault. According to her, I should have kept my eye on the girls. The woman said she was taking her daughter to the beauty shop and getting her hair cut off — even if the child winds up looking like Yul Brynner.

Was it my fault? Should I insist our daughter have her hair cut off too — as punishment? I need your advice — HAVOC IN HINSDALE.

Dear Havoc: Fourteen-year-old girls should not need policing. The woman is blaming you unjustly.

In my book your daughter has suffered enough. Rather than give her a prison hair cut which would only add to her humiliation, insist that she earn the price of a professional hair tint, and have her hair restored to its natural color.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband passed away in 1959. I am 58 years old and have been the constant companion these past two years of a widower who is 63. I enjoy this man's company a great deal, get along well with his married children and his grandsons call me "Nanna."

Last week, for no apparent reason, he said to me, "I'll never marry again. Why should I? Everything is just the way I want it." I was deeply hurt because I was expecting a proposal of marriage at any moment. Things are NOT the way I want them, Ann. I would like to get married again — if not to this man, then to someone else. Shall I tell him how I feel? Or would it be prudent to wait a little longer and hope he will ask me to marry him on his own? — STILL PEPPY

Dear PEPPY: A man of 63 IS on his own. He has been frank with you, and now you ought to be frank with him.

Tell him you no longer care to date just for the fun of it and since he is not interested in marriage he'd better find another "constant companion." If this doesn't produce orange blossom give up already.

Dear Ann Landers: Byron and I have been arguing about something for weeks. We are both 22 although you probably will think we sound like 9-year-olds.

Whenever Byron and I go to a party or a dance, he disappears the minute we arrive and I'm on my own. One of the big problems is that Byron is a terrific dancer and I am just fair. He always hunts up the shimmy queen of the crowd and never checks to see what I am doing. Believe me, I like him to dance with other girls but when he doesn't dance even one number with me I feel like a fifth wheel. I've told him he is inconsiderate but he says I am childish and demanding.

What do you say? —STRANDED.

Dear Stranded: This is a date? If you drove your own car you wouldn't need Byron at all.

Give him his hat and tell him to date the shimmy queens.

Do you lack self-confidence . . . have trouble making friends If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Shaggy, Straggly Bangs Current Hair Style Rage

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bangs, bangs, bangs. Beatle bangs, fringe bangs, skimpy bangs, shaggy bangs, straggly bangs, and thick, luxuriant bangs all the way down to black-fringed orbs — that's the style now.

The downsweep is as in as the downbeat, and the upsweep is as out as Marie Antoinette. Now drawn over the once-proud high forehead, emphasized by imperious ladies of history by coiffing the curls upward and upward, is a curtain of hair.

If onetime movie queen Veronica Lake was blinded in one eye by her famous side sweep, today's bang beauties appear to be blinded in both. But like shaggy dogs they maneuver beautifully, flirtatiously, mysteriously without any obvious means of vision.

So frantic indeed is the panic to cover the forehead with curls that you would think bareness above the brows was a shameful sin.

You might also think that modesty hair-dressed foreheads in a fashion era of partially bared bosoms is a paradox.

But this is not paradoxical, it is proportionate, contends Kenneth Battelle, who as the former First Lady's couturier put the whole world of women in bouffant hairdos. And an indication that his influence is still strong is this current bang rage.

"With the necklines dropping and bosoms peeking out, there must be more softness with the hair . . . Slick, done-up hair front and back with bare clothes looks hard."

With or without the bosom covered up, however, Kenneth believes bangs are romantic. And, this being Leap Year, well . . . .

Everybody knows that bangs are for little girls. And hairbows are, too. But when do you draw the line?

"Never," asserts Kenneth. "You can have bangs if you're 70. Bangs draw attention to the eyes — but they must be down to the eye-brow or they don't mean a thing."

The trend to framing the eyes with hair is one reason why he is certain that women will pay more and more attention to making up their eyes, and why, indeed, more of them will try fake eye lashes.

As for bows, the Kennedy family ladies proved that grown up girls look charming in these too.

And like bangs, Kenneth believes not in itty bitty things but in big, beautiful ones.

MR. AND MRS. JESSE FRANK SHEPPARD

Patricia Telano, Jesse Sheppard Exchange Vows

Vows uniting Miss Patricia Telano and Jesse Frank Sheppard were solemnized Sunday, July 12 in Emanuel Baptist Church of Monroe. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Vida Telano and the late R. W. Telano of Monroe and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Y. E. Sheppard of Enterprise.

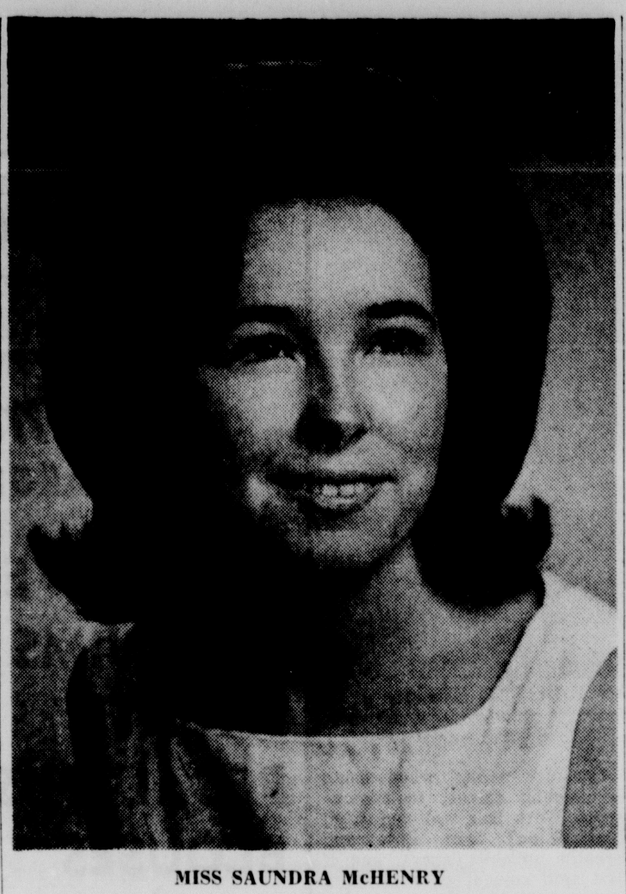
Rev. Fred Doolittle performed the double ring vows at 3:30 p.m. before the altar which was decorated with arrangements of stock and fern. Nuptial music was provided by the organist, Mrs. Moncrief.

Escorted by her brother, Joby Telano, who gave her in marriage, the bride was wearing a white brocade model with tunic overskirt. A small white hat completed her ensemble and she carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Clifford Tharp, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a light blue chiffon dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Serving as best man was Shelton Emfinger of Meadville, Miss., and ushers were Jackie and Barry Calhoun, nephews of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church reception room. An arrangement of multi-colored flowers centered the bride's table with the tiered wedding cake and crystal bowl of pink punch at either end. After a wedding trip to Arkansas the couple will be at home in Enterprise. The bride is a graduate of Ouachita high school. Mr. Sheppard graduated from Enterprise high school, attended Northeast Louisiana State College and graduated from Jackson Barber school. He is presently employed in Natchez, Miss.



MISS SAUNDRA McHENRY

Couple Lists Late August Wedding Date

Announcement is made today of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Saundra McHenry, 1604 South 12th, daughter of Mrs. C. A. McHenry, West Monroe, to James Collins Devereux, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kennedy Devereux, 204 South College.

The wedding is planned for August 29 at 9 a.m. in Our Lady of Fatima Church with Rev. George Martinez officiating.

Chosen as attendants by the betrothed couple are Mrs. Grady V. Rice, who will serve as matron of honor and Michael Timothy Devereux, who will act as best man.

Miss McHenry is a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school. Mr. Devereux graduated from St. Matthews high school and is employed in Monroe, while also attending Northeast Louisiana State College.

HALTER SWEATER

The sweater girl is going to have a new look this Fall. She'll be wearing a halter neck sweater with a very naked back, fastened with jeweled buttons. You'll see them in all of the brights as well as neutrals from light to dark.

WASH WALLS

Start from the bottom and work up when washing walls. This prevents streaks which develop when water trickles down an unwashed area.

Lt. Nelson, Miss Hatton Are Wed

Baskets of white gladioli and greenery against a background of ivy - entwined candelabra holding lighted cathedral tapers formed a setting in Boeuf River Baptist Church, Saturday, July 11 for the wedding of Miss Linda Nell Hatton and Lt. Michael Nelson.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hatton Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Madden, all of Winnsboro.

Rev. Meredith Hair performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. following an organ prelude by Patricia Alford, who also accompanied the soloist, D. H. Clark.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown of white dacron, which extended to a chapel train. The fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her fingertip veil of white tulle fell from a crown of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible, crested with a white orchid and tuberoses, showered with satin streamers.

Mrs. Julian Kendall and Mrs. Milton Linder served as matrons of honor. They wore short gowns of deep rose with matching accessories and carried cascade bouquets of pink blooms. Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the honor attendants were Miss Eddie Sue Sorey of Rayville; Miss Evelyn Hatton, Winnsboro, cousin of the bride and Mrs. Elmer Hilburn of Natchez.

Flower girl was Tericia Hilburn, who wore a white taffeta frock with inserts of rose fabric. Candlelighters were Martha Ann Madden and Terry Hatton, brother of the bride.

Glen Madden served as best man for his brother and groomsmen-ushers were Milton Linder, Robert Turnage, Joe Hatton and Gary Armstrong of Monroe. Ring bearer was James Wyeem of Ferriday.

A reception followed in Fellowship hall of the church. Receiving guests the bride's mother wore a pink sheath embroidered model with white accessories. Mrs. Madden, mother of the groom, wore a beige dress with matching accessories and both mothers had phalaenopsis orchid corsages.

Mrs. C. H. Dickens of Natchez, served the wedding cake and presiding at the punch services were Mrs. Ora L. Chevallier and Mrs. Glen Madden. Mrs. Peggy Ann Butler had charge of the guest book and serving as tea girls were June Prather, Judy Fortenberry, Judy Mongle and Betty Zane Carlisle.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a blue suit with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. They will be at home in Topeka, Kansas where Lt. Nelson is assigned as a pilot. The bride is a graduate of Ogden high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College, Monroe. Lt. Nelson graduated from Ogden high school and Northeast and James Connally Air Force base, Waco, Texas.

FLUFFY MERINGUE

To beat egg whites into a firm and fluffy meringue, make sure that the eggs are at room temperature, advises Mary Ann March, home economist. You can warm up cold eggs from the refrigerator in a hurry by putting them in a pan of lukewarm water before breaking them and separating the yolks.

Before washing throw rugs, baste a strip of any white fabric to one long edge. This is easier to pin over the line than a thick fold.

MRS. FRED ERNEST POTTS III

Charlotte Ann Byrom Wed In Tennessee Church

Vows uniting Miss Charlotte Ann Byrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Edgar Byrom of Memphis, Tenn., formerly of this area, and Fred Ernest Potts III, also of Memphis, were solemnized Friday, July 24 in LaBelle Haven Baptist Church at Whitehaven, Tenn. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Fred Ernest Potts Jr., of Memphis and Fred Ernest Potts Jr., of Olive Branch, Mississippi.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Willie Byrom, 112 Ozone St., West Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Velmar Hughes of Tallulah.

Rev. D. M. Renick performed the double ring ceremony at 8 p.m. following nuptial music by Mrs. Doris Shipp, church organist and Jimmy Pakala, soloist. Yellow tapers in branched candelabra and bouquets of white gladioli formed a setting at the altar for the exchange of vows.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie with scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves. Appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace sprinkled with seed pearls covered the front of the bodice. Inverted pleats formed the controlled skirt, also embellished with lace appliques. A detachable chapel train was caught at the black waistline by a tailored bok. A queen's crown of pearls and crystal beads held her waist length veil of imported silk illusion. The bride carried a yellow throated white orchid, surrounded by stephanotis in a crescent design.

Miss Mary Lou Wells, Henderson, Tenn., served as maid of honor and wore a short gown of yellow peau de soie. Her headpiece was a Dior bow of matching peau de soie with yellow silk illusion veil. Dressed identically to the honor attendant were the bridesmaids, Miss Nancy Yarbrough, Miss Patsy Hughey, cousin of the groom and Mrs. James Byrom, Jackson, Miss., aunt of the bride. Flower girl was Dana Thornton.

Tom McEwen attended the bridegroom as best man and ushers were Tommy Byrom, brother of the bride; Edward Orio and Rodney Clark. Kenneth Weaver acted as ring bearer.

A yellow theme was carried out in all appointments for the reception held in the church following the exchange of vows. For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip through the South the bride was wearing a blue imported linen suit with white accessories. The couple will be at home at Austin, Texas, where Mr. Potts has a teaching assistantship at the University of Texas.

The bride was graduated from Whitehaven high school, Whitehaven, Tenn., attended Memphis State University and will be a senior at University of Texas. Mr. Potts graduated from Central high school, Memphis, and from Memphis State University where he served as president of his fraternity, Lambda Chi Alpha.

Mary Ann Dugas, Texas Man Plan August Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Dugas of Jonesboro, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Ann Dugas to Don L. Ragland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cull Ragland of Mexia, Texas. The wedding will be an event of August 15 at 7 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Jonesboro with a reception to follow in the church parlor.

The bride - elect is a graduate of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston and has been teaching for the past two years in Houston, Texas.

Mr. Ragland attended Sam Houston State Teachers' College in Huntsville, Tex. He is presently district sales supervisor for Union Texas Petroleum, of Houston, a division of Allied Chemical Corp.

Following their marriage the couple will be at home in Memphis, Tenn.

Tissue Turban Protects Hair

If you like a shower better than a tub bath — but your hairdo doesn't—try this hair-dresser's trick.

Use a large size shower cap designed for bouffant hair-dos. Before putting on the shower cap, wrap lengths of bathroom tissue around your coiffure. Make sure the tissue covers the entire hair line. Hold tissue in place with a few hair clips. Put on the shower cap carefully, making sure not to displace the tissue wrapping.

Get a lasting, sparkling shoeshine by smearing shoes with a wet cake of soap before polishing them.

LAMP SHADE

After washing a lamp shade in detergent suds, blot with a terry towel. Replace it on its lamp base and turn on the light. Slight heat generated by the bulb helps to dry the damp fabric quickly.

USE CARE

Consider safety when using a cleaning solvent to remove spots. Work in a well-ventilated room, don't lean close and breathe solvent vapors, and if you spill solvent on your skin, wash it off at once.

Vows Slated

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Constance Dianne Miles, daughter of Mrs. Algernon Pittman of New Orleans and the late Aubrey Lavelle Miles of Monroe to Farrell Charles Latour, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Louis Latour, New Orleans.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. Vina R. Miles of West Monroe and the late William T. Miles.

Wilds-Haynes Wedding Held In Home Scene

MR. AND MRS. A. J. WILDS JR.

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday, July 18, Miss Annette Haynes, daughter of Mrs. Grace Haynes, 104 Orange St., West Monroe, became the bride of A. J. Wilds Jr., Dawn Lane, son of Mrs. Fred King, 103 Orange St., West Monroe.

Rev. Roy Humphrey performed the double ring vows at 7:30 p.m. at the George L. King residence in West Monroe, where a pink rose covered arch, draped with white nylon net and flanked with pink tapers formed a background for the ceremony. Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Bill Bright.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, R. J. Womack. For her wedding she wore a short gown of pink chiffon with jeweled bodice and small jewel - encrusted pink hat with brief veil. She carried one large pink rose.

Mrs. Judy Traylor, matron of honor, wore a pastel green whipped cream shift and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Vicki Greer, flower girl, was also wearing a pale green whipped cream frock and carried a basket of pink and white roses from which she sprinkled rose petals in the path of the bride.

George L. King served as best man and usher was George L. King Jr.

For the occasion Mrs. Haynes, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue crepe model with yellow accessories and a corsage of yellow baby chrysanthemums. Mrs. King, mother of the bridegroom, wore a white crepe dress with white accessories and corsage of yellow chrysanthemums.

A reception followed in the home, where the bride's table in the dining room held a central arrangement of pink roses, flanked by pink candles. Mrs. Jack Parish served the wedding cake and Mrs. Bill Caldwell presided at the punch bowl.

The couple has established a home on Dawn Lane, West Monroe. The bride was graduated from West Monroe high school and Mr. Wilds, who graduated from Thomas Jefferson high school in Port Arthur, Texas, attended Arkansas Polytechnic Institute at Russellville, Ark.

An earlier prenuptial courtesy honoring the bride-elect was a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Judy Traylor and Mrs. George L. King in the First National Bank in West Monroe.

FRUIT COMPOTE

Don't overcrowd the saucepan or deep skillet when you are cooking fresh fruit in a sugar syrup for a compote. Use a perforated mixing spoon for removing the fruit.

TOO-TIGHT SHOES

Tight-fitting shoes or boots can cause frostbite, which can be not only painful but serious.

REMOVE HAIR

A moistened chamois will remove dog hair from clothes and will not harm the fabric.

CLEAN STEM

To clean the hard-to-reach stem of a percolator, use a cotton swab. The swab will slide easily into the stem and do a thorough job of collecting coffee residue.

King-Size Bed Status Symbol

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you're looking for a status symbol with 500 years of tradition behind it, the king-size bed is for you. Large beds became a symbol of social status in the 15th century, reports the Sleep Institute of the Spring Air Mattress Co.

In those days, a prosperous man would spend an average of $5,000 on a bed to show that he had arrived," said Ronald J. Shepherd, the firm's executive vice president.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Monsieur Marc is one of America's top hair stylists. When asked what it is like to do the gorgeous Elizabeth Taylor's hair he said, "Miss Taylor is very pleasant to work with and I have styled her hair myself several times, but now I send someone else from my staff when she is in New York because it is practically a full time job."

"One must wait, wait, wait while the lady finishes her bath or talks on the telephone or chooses clothes. It is hard to devise new styles for her because she has tried practically every style, and while her hair is lovely and curly, this makes it difficult to work into the popular straight styles. The elaborate hairdos she wears in photos are built with several hairpieces, but she actually prefers a simple, casual look."

Monsieur Marc has had many celebrity clients, such as Rosalind Russell, Renata Tebaldi, Eva and Zsa Zsa Gabor, Rita Gam and Doris Day for her film "Tunnel of Love." His absolute favorite is a gray-haired lady who is 95 years old and insists on wearing her hair Beatle fashion.

This tall Parisian-born stylist, who looks like a distinguished diplomat, says that American women are too prone to copy hair styles they see on others without studying their own face to see if the style will suit them. His answer to the complaint that one must often wait at a popular salon is that women who require elaborate hairdos for evening should say so when they make their appointments so that the stylist will know how to schedule his time.

Monsieur Marc finds that American women have healthier, stronger, thicker hair than French women, and attributes this to better nutrition. They are more vitamin-conscious. He also feels that the mixture of nationalities plays a part. This stylist definitely feels that gray hair is aging "except for women with very pale, smooth, translucent complexions." He also said, "Most men, even if they don't admit it, prefer their wives to have softly colored hair rather than all gray."

If any of my readers would like to have my leaflet "Framing Your Face Attractively" to help decide what hair style will be flattering, send a stamped, self - addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 51 to Josephine Lowman in care of Monroe Morning World.

Handles Appear On Handbags For Autumn

The important handbags for fall will have handles, and many will be over-the-shoulder. With good designers, the latter style will have contour, so that the bag will shape to the body, not bounce about when carried over the shoulder.

The handled bags won't look excessively sporty, since styling features soft detailing such as quilted suede, brushed pigskin with darts, crushed grain leathers, combinations such as patent outlining soft suede.

There will be a touch of fringe on wool plaid handbags, silk cord rope handles on leather bags, Spanish rug totes in wildly colorful patterns. Many smooth calf envelopes will continue to have those double chain handles already so popular.

Reptile leathers are classics, of course, in everything from expensive genuine alligator and crocodile to the popular-price imitation reptile vinyls.

Opti-Mrs. Club Welcomes Four New Members

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Elements Of Design

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

"Elements of Design," was the lesson title for the fourth of a series of lessons being taught by Dr. John Wright, Louisiana Tech, Ruston, for the Fifth District Garden Center weekly program on Wednesday of each week.

Many favorable comments have been coming in from the "scholars" who confess that Dr. Wright is doing a wonderful job teaching the basics of flower-arranging art.

"In speaking of elements of design we may divide this into three categories," Dr. Wright commented, at the beginning of his lesson last Wednesday. First, generally, we refer to the plant materials, whether fresh-cut or dried, treated or artificial. We may refer to objects used within the design, the container itself, or the base on which the design is placed. Second - To be specific we mean a certain flower such as larkspur, glads, dahlias, glycerinized magnolia leaves, fruit (fresh), roses, dock, any other specific plant or flower to be used.

Third, the basic elements in artistic design, which are the most important to keep in mind and learn in order to be successful in making artistic designs.

They are line, form, pattern, color, texture.

TREND OF ACTION

Taking the first of these, line, Dr. Wright explained that the line in design is a trend of action, leading the eye from place to place. It charts the course or direction that creates movement or continuity. We must not be confused with the outline which delineates the contour, but, we must create a line with plant materials (properly related) and placed within the silhouette of the design forming a well established visual path. These path directions may be vertical, diagonal, or horizontal. Some linear materials are straight in form, as cattails, banana stalks, or sansavera. These may be used to construct vertical design creating a feeling of dignity and strength. Other lines may be curving, such as liatris, pussy willow and quince. These lend themselves naturally to the graceful circular patterns. The horizontal line is restful, because of the lack of energy found in the tall, straight vertical. A diagonal line is a line of action. It is like a plane taking off the ground defying the law of gravity.

SPACE DESIGNS

Most of our modern "space" designs follow this line. A zigzag line gives a feeling of insecurity. Much skill is required to solve the problems of the zigzag line. Lines are the most important medium of expression in our interpretive designs. We should train ourselves to study the natural lines of tree branches and other living materials. In our designs we will find that a contrast of line tion to the quality and character of the overall design. Flowers placed within a vertical line (in a zigzag fashion) tend to create interest in this monotonous and stately line.

The second element discussed by Dr. Wright was the form. makes an important contribu- In flower forms we find that our spike or lenear types such as banana stalk, or cattails as an example, are best suited for structural material in the design. Some linear materials, such as celosia, glads, and dock may be used for filler or transitional forms. Solid forms such as zinnias, open roses, dahlias, etc., are known as target material and serve as focal point. These rounded forms may be used to create a line by grading the sizes from small to large.

COMBINING FORMS

It is important to combine these three forms of plant materials when making a well balanced design. Other forms to consider in flower arranging art is the shape of the container, and the natural forms such as driftwood, rocks, and other natural elements. When combining these with our plant materials we must strive for unity and harmony. Within the silhouette of the design, there are patterns that are formed by the lines and masses. It is well to make these patterns con-form to the shape of the outline (silhouette). Round forms are in place in the curving pattern. Gentle curves of transitional material (filler) may emphasize a sweeping curve of the dominant line. — perhaps of a Hogarth or cresent.

Texture, as one of the elements, plays an important part in our design. These may be objects or materials within the design that are smooth or rough, velvety or satiny, prickly, fuzzy, waxy, or leathery . It is the visual impression of texture that is most important in flower - arranging. Texture may be an element that will enable the designer to show quality in the design, as elegant roses, silver, camellias or highly polished wood. Rough textures, as zinnias, sunflowers, driftwood, and dull finished pottery are generally used to create an informal mood.

TEXTURE INTEREST

Texture creates interest in designs where color is dull or monotonous. Usually dried materials are picked for their texture quality and combined in such a way that the textures will create interest. Otherwise, a dull, colorless, and monotonous design would be the result. Texture has been called the fourth dimension of color. When light comes in contact with raised parts of uneven surfaces, the shadow created will darken the color. Smooth surfaces appear darken the color. Smooth surfaces appear lighter than rough surfaces.

Color, the last of these elements, was not discussed by Dr. Wright. Lack of time would not permit it. This is such a dynamic element that quite a lot of time could be spent in teaching it's importance in flower-arranging. Because of it's dynamic force in the arrangement, color is judged according to the art principles of design, as the design itself is judged in a flower show. Dr. Wright promised a lesson in the future on this all important texture.

Wednesday, "The Art Principles of Design" will be the lesson topic presented by Dr. John Wright.

New Outdoor Design Idea Is Matching

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The newest outdoor design idea is to match your costume to the furniture, or furniture to costume, says imaginative decorator, Frances Lee of New York.

Everyone moves outdoors in good weather, if they can, so interior designers are cooperating on that mode of living. They're busy planning, coordinating and dreaming up ideas so home owners can really live it up stylishly in the open air.

NATURAL TREND

And it just naturally follows that popular blonde Miss Lee, noticing a trend to patio dresses at all the resort parties she has attended in recent years, would try to match them to something.

"Well, why not the table cloth," she thought, as she watched friends at Palm Beach and Rio entertain in patio dresses on terraces and at swimming pools.

Since her own favorite color is hot pink, one of her interesting coordinated - to - table outfits is a hot pink with paler pink zebra - stripe, two-piece sleeveless dress.

The dress and tablecloth are accent to the turquoise blue wrought iron dining furniture used on her penthouse terrace. Lounge chairs have blue cushions and dining chairs have yellow and white-stripe cushions. And everywhere there are gorgeous rose bushes in the just-right hot pink and pale pink that Miss Lee loves — a feat alone, growing roses on Park Avenue, she explains, with the wind, dust and what not. She has three night blooming jasmin that look pretty healthy, too.

SLIPCOVERED

Miss Lee got so carried away with the beauty of it all that she slipcovered two sofas in the room off the terrace in a floral-printed blue. Two closet doors in the room were painted blue and antiqued and the blue slipcover material was inset into the door panels. That floral note plus a large bay window loaded with plants that hang, sit, lean — tall, short, fat and small — add a sheltered outdoor room to the terrace, "ideal when it mists" she points out.

"A great many people have terraces that open into living and dining rooms of apartments and houses. When they reupholster or slipcover in these rooms they should keep the outdoors in mind — the color of the furniture and the plants and they can have a pretty color scheme. It is more satisfying usually, to put garden colors in a room of this sort so that even in cold weather it can be charming, than to have colors that do not harmonize in summer with things outdoors."

On the turquoise dining table outdoors, Miss Lee uses heavy pink ceramic plates with white lily of the valley and green leaf motif. Mexican hurricane shades of stained glass in a mosaic design are used over candles.

INTERIOR DESIGNER Frances Lee takes her designing talents outside and matches her pink dress to the pink tablecloth on her terrace dining table. The pink also accents Miss Lee's wrought iron terrace furniture, which is turquoise blue.

CURVACEOUS HOME—This sculpture will be home on a Colorado mountainside for architect Charles Deaton. Deaton says he is escaping the square world of the city by building the 3,000-square-foot home in which nearly every line is curved.

Architecture Moves Away From Squares

DENVER (AP) — The house being built on a Colorado mountainside by architect Charles Deaton looks like an opened clam shell.

Only a portion of the floor is flat in the unique structure perched on a cliff 8,000 feet above sea level on Genesee Mountain, 25 miles west of Denver.

Deaton, calls the house, which he intends to live in, a piece of "habitable sculpture on a pedestal." The view from the terrace includes the city of Denver and the Continental Divide.

DIVIDED

The interior of the sculpture (house) is divided into a living room, kitchen, three bedrooms and four baths. Laundry, sewing room and library are in the supporting pedestal. Three floors and an entrance level will be served by an elevator.

The structure has 3,000 square feet of living space. The supporting portion, or pedestal, is constructed of reinforced concrete with precast columns. The upper portion is a double shell of sprayed-on concrete supported by welded steel frame. The structure is 83 feet long, 45 feet wide and 36 feet high. There are 105 windows.

Most interior walls and doors are curved. There are few straight lines in the building. The kitchen counters will be straight and square to accommodate the square appliances. The beds will be shaped like watermelon seeds. The living room wall will be curved in two directions and will stand as a shell-like partition.

Deaton is custom designing most of the furniture to fit his building. He expects to complete the home by November at a cost of $100,000.

Deaton, 43, a self-taught architect, began his architectural career in New York City in 1944 after working in aircraft design, industrial design and commercial art. His hobbies are drawing, painting and sculpture.

He has designed buildings in 36 states. Among his recent commissions were the Wyoming National Bank building at Casper and the Central Bank and Trust Company building at Denver.

Some Plants Need Iron

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Mrs. Gardener, if the leaves of your azaleas are yellowing between the veins, and veins are remaining dark green, your plants lack iron. Correct the deficiency by applying aluminum sulphate to the soil at the rate of one-fourth pound per yard of soil surface. Ferrous sulfate sprayed on the leaves will give temporary correction of this yellowing.

Cut back dahlias to induce new fall blooms.

Check to see if you have enough shade. This is the time of the year we need more shade; so you may need to plant more this fall. If you think you need summer blooming trees, consider the crepe myrtles, golden rain or mimosa. They are all fast growing trees.

REMOVE DEAD FOLIAGE

Remove and burn the dead foliage of iris, and fertilize by working a little bone meal around the plant.

Reminder to chrysanthemum growers: the Exposition will be held October 24 and 25 at the LSU Union Cotillion Ballroom. The Louisiana State University, in cooperation with the Louisiana Garden Club Federation, will present the Exposition for the first time. If you, Mrs. Gardener, are interested in the rules and regulations, we have a few copies in our Agriculture Extension office, 704 Cypress, W. Monroe. Entry in the Design Division is by invitation only.

The Horticulture Division is open to the public, both commercial and amateur growers of chrysanthemums, but the entries must be grown by the exhibitor.

The entries by commercial and amateur growers will be judged separately. If you desire more information regarding the fall Chrysanthemum Exposition please call our Agriculture Extension Building in West Monroe.

TULIP PLANS

Mr. or Mrs. Gardener, have you placed your order for tulips? You may call the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce and place your order now. George Tyner said plans are being made for a bigger and better 1965 Tulip show.

Mrs. Homemaker, if you are planning to line draperies you will be interested to know there is a new all white, insulated drapery lining on the market. According to our house furnishing specialist, Mrs. Jessie Schneider, the lining does not droop, and is not quick to fade. The new material is insulated, but does not have a surface finish which will crack and peel or wash off, as many of them have in the past, according to our house furnishing specialist.

PEACHES

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, have canned and frozen peaches and you want variety, try drying some. According to our food specialists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, these fruits will keep a year when stored in a cool, dry, dark place.

Here's how to dry peaches in your own oven. Select about six pounds of fresh, ripe, firm peaches. Wash and drain. Peel if you wish (but it is not necessary; then cut in halves and remove pits. To prevent discoloration, soak peaches 15 minutes in a solution of 3½ tablespoons sodium sulfite to one gallon of water. You can buy the sodium sulfite from your druggist.

Two other methods you may use but which are less effective: one, dip peaches in salt water bath of four to six tablespoons of salt to one gallon of water for about 10 minutes or; two, precook peaches in steam or boiling water until tender but firm.

Arrange the peaches on trays and place in 150 degrees F oven with the bottom tray three inches from the oven floor. Do not use the top unit in electric oven. Prop open the door of an electric oven one-half inch; a gas oven door eight inches.

This helps control heat and lets out moist air. Alternate trays every one or two hours. Peaches are usually dry when pliable and leathery, usually about six hours or longer. Pieces around the edges of the tray will dry first. Remove these as soon as they are dry.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Big Clumps Of Lilies

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

As you ride through old towns in the deep south and the middle south in spring and early summer, you may see giant clumps of "milk - and - wine - lilies." There are several kinds of these flowers that look much alike. Actually, they are all hardy in the upper south, but we are just beginning to grow them up here. Since spring comes to us later than it does farther south all crinums bloom later here than they do along the coasts. In fact, one of the best milk-and-wine crinums, C. scabrum, does not flower until fall in some of our gardens.

If we were to rate crinums according to their frequency of bloom and their beauty, we would have to put the pink hybrid Cecil Houdyshel first because it blooms over and over until frost. Tops in white crinums would be C. powelli album (It will bloom again if heavily fed). Then the hybrid called Ellen Bosanquet would top all the deep colored ones because of the very unusual shade of red of the large blossoms which come along after most of the commoner crinums. Bulbs of these three can be bought from seed and bulb stores or ordered from the Florida and West Coast bulb dealers.

FINE HYBRIDS

The catalogues of these bulb dealers list a great many fine named crinum hybrids. One of the newest was listed by Mr. Giridlian of Oakhurst Gardens several years ago as Herald. Giridlian thinks this is the finest early white crinum. The late Luther Burbank was interested in crinums and created one which he called White Queen, a much sought after bulb, but now in the catalogues.

Among the pink hybrids, you will find Crinum moorei, which varies greatly in its shades of pink. The flowers of this shade loving plant are bell shaped and very beautiful. C. moorei has given rise to many fine named hybrids besides Cecil Houdyshel. Read the descriptions of all the pink hybrids in catalogues and choose the ones you wish to try. Some of these are J. C. Harvey, Louis Bosanquet and two varieties of C. powelli called Harlemense and Krelagei.

EVERGREEN FOLIAGE

If you have a cool greenhouse, you can grow the tulip shaded Christopher - lily and other forms of Crinum giganteum which have evergreen foliage. Actually, these crinums are not giants at all, as their name would indicate, and no one can figure out why they were given such a mis-nomer in Latin. It is in places like New Orleans that the tender crinums can be seen in people's patios and gardens. By merely taking the tender ones into the cool greenhouse in winter, we can grow every single one of them up here in the cool areas.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Some exciting new ideas in movie and slide presentations are on view at various pavilions at the New York World's Fair. Some involve multiple screens, multiple projectors and various combinations of front and rear projections.

Probably the best film at the Fair is an 18-minute movie, "To Be Alive!", at the Johnson's Wax Pavilion. A free exhibit, it is imaginative in concept, ingeniously projected on three screens in an unusual theater and deftly supports the fair's theme of "Peace Through Understanding."

STILL STANDS

An earlier recommendation still stands: "The Searching Eye" film at the Kodak Pavilion. Now camera fans have a double - feature "must see" target to aim for when they visit the fair. These are films of basic human experiences which project a universal message made by photographic craftsmen. Their ideas can be adapted, however, by serious amateur home movie makers in their own environments.

For a unique experience in audio-visual projection, there's the United States Pavilion and the auditorium in the Port Authority Building. At the former, both the eye and ear are besieged by a varied assortment of moving images as you are transported on a traveling grandstand. Motion picture and slide screens, some suspended in space, others at odd angles, pick up and tell a continuous story of our country's history with the most complex variety of visual projection ever seen. However, a less hectic pace might leave a more lasting impression of the picture content.

At the base of the Port Authority Building, noted for its heliport on top, is a circular room with 10 movie screens around its walls. The audience stands in the center watching a 360 - degree movie of the approaches to New York City by land, water and air. It was filmed by a battery of 10 movie cameras in a tight circle which shot in every direction. You see the scene ahead, the scene behind you and to the right and to the left. It's a unique photographic accomplishment but the quality of the film is necessarily rough at times.

SUPERB QUALITY

"To Be Alive!" was filmed in color with a rig of three aligned cameras over a period of 18 months on three continents. Its quality is superb. It is the work of two veteran documentary film producers, Francis Thompson and Alexander Hammid.

The films are projected on three side - by - side 18 - foot screens. Sometimes the subject matter spreads out over all three screens for a wide, wide effect. At other times each screen may have a related or a contrasting different picture like a three-ring circus. At still other times one picture might be seen on each of the three screens thereby getting impact by repetition. This projection technique is truly inspired.

The film's story is very simple: the joy of being alive is universal and our world is filled with people who share and delight in everyday experiences though their environment, language or dress may differ.

The film is shown in an unusual disc-shaped theater which holds 500 people at a time. The theater is suspended over a circular pool with an inclined ramp approach. The setting as well as the film is ingenious and helps you remember it's great "To Be Alive!"

Safes Looted Of Over $3,000 At Fountainhill

FOUNTAINHILL, Ark. (Special) — Two Fountainhill general merchandise stores, near Hamburg, were broken into Friday night, and about $3,225 stolen.

One of the stores, Boyd and Nichols, was entered by forcing the front door. The safe, from which $3,000 was taken, was broken open with a sledge hammer and crowbar, according to investigating officers.

Phillips Brothers, which is across the road from the first store, was also broken into. The iron bars on a window had been forced apart for the entry. Approximately $225 to $250 was taken from the safe which had been opened in the same manner as the one in Boyd and Nichols store.

No leads had been developed by late Saturday.

AMUSEMENTS

THOMASINA, a most unusual cat, has her breakfast with Karan Dotrice and Patrick McGoohan, to the consternation of the family maid. The scene is from Walt Disney's Technicolor feature, "The Three Lives of Thomasina," starting Wednesday at the Jim Theatre.

CURTAIN CALL

Everything that hard-working, dedicated people could do to make "My Fair Lady" the greatest show ever to come to northeast Louisiana has been done. Its success now rests with the response of our audiences which we hope will be overwhelmingly enthusiastic.

During the last hectic week before opening last Friday, the final amagamation of actors, costumes, sets and orchestra took place. Here is where the eight long weeks of rehearsal paid off, for the cast could concentrate on the new elements without worrying about lines, songs, blocking and choreography which had become second nature.

The costumes arrived by air from Salt Lake City on Wednesday and our fondest expectations were fulfilled when the half dozen packing cases disclosed their contents. The outfits were freshly designed and made for this summer's "My Fair Lady" season.

By opening night, the first Friday and Saturday performances were close to sell-outs, but seats still remain for this afternoon and evening. Naturally we would like to see them filled before curtain time, so the box office telephone, FAirfax 3-1235, awaits your call. Tickets are also available for the remainder of the run through next Sunday.

LARGE CREW

"My Fair Lady" requires a large backstage crew. With Paul Wank as stage manager, Lee Bairnsfather, David Barnes, Tim Ernst, Cliff Farnum, Gordon Gilstrap, Dudley Houghton, Tom Houghton Hugh Matthews and Rick Taylor are coping with the sets. Jerilyn Gilstrap, Tom Ernst and George Hargus control light and sound. Sharon Griffith, Nellie Neal, Marcia Service, Sally Service and Betsy Taylor have charge of props.

It is hard to know where to begin in expressing gratitude for the widespread promotion of "My Fair Lady." Frances Phillips' feature story in last Sunday's Monroe Morning World, the many releases in the News-Star—World, the cooperation of the local newspapers and radio stations throughout the area, the motel and bank billboards, the story in Twin City Highlights, the First Nighter window at The Palace, the mentions in the ads of many business firms, Mac Ward's KNOE Report, Roger Kelley's pictures, the Rotary Club, the Miss Louisiana Pageant, Anita Bryant, Garland Shell, Trend House and the Picadilly Cafeteria all deserve our appreciation. We hope none have been overlooked.

GREEN ROOM TILE

The cast and crew of "Simple Simon" presented director George Brian with a Green Room tile inscribed "To The Chief Pieman." The miniature theatre and toy actors on display in the lobby during the children's play were loaned by Howard Griffin's Land of Toys. We want to add that the exemplary behavior of our young audiences was most praiseworthy.

Newly retired Sgt. Sam Harrison had a good chance to observe the workings of children's theatre during his son's participation in "Simple Simon." He was impressed by the warm associations and esprit de corps that developed among the cast, which he likens to the spirit of a graduating class. In fact, Sgt. Harrison comments that the stage experience is only one of the values of children's theatre and so say we.

Bruce Harrison's appearance as Simon produced a gathering of his kinfolk from as far as Atlanta, Little Rock and Dallas. His 86 year old great-grandmother insisted upon coming from Oak Grove to see the young man, thereby establishing an age record for Strauss Playhouse that Grandpa Nobles will have to wait a few months to equal.

Elroy Scruggs Smith who was technical director for two seasons from 1940 to 1942 when her husband Lorenzo was director, came up from Baton Rouge recently for a visit with the Paul Neals. The former Kathleen Miller, now Mrs. Ernest Stanger, who took many acting parts at about the same time, is now stationed in South Africa with her husband.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

More New Books Now In Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The books continue to arrive each day at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. This week there are a number of exciting new books of fiction. "Leah" by Seymour Epstien is a very readable story about a woman whom life has passed by. "The Pilgrim Project" by Henry Searls is an exciting story of the world of space and will appeal to many readers. "Sometimes a Great Notion" by Ken Kesey is a story of a strong-willed family in the Oregon Territory. It will appeal particularly to men. "First Lady" by Patrick Dennis is another of his hilarious stories. This is an account of a 30 day tenure of the White House and is just as funny as "Little Me". "Path of Dalliance" by Auberon Waugh is a story of undergraduate life at Oxford and will appeal to readers who enjoy English novels. "A Perfect Stranger" by Edward Hyams is a readable novel written for a sophisticated audience, and will be popular. "Perdita Get Lost" is a slight story built about the advertising world of Madison Avenue. It is a good story for light summer reading. "Quick Before It Melts" by Philip Benjamin is a humorous fast moving story of life in Antartica. It is Mr. Benjamin's first novel, but should be very popular. "Sunshine and Salt" by Sylvia Rotchild is the story of a young matron, whose Mother comes to share her home in the suburbs. It presents a problem with which readers will identify and the book will attract and hold the interest of the reader. "The Cadillac Cowboys" by Glendon Swarthout is a modern story, which will have a definite appeal.

The field of non-fiction is exceptionally varied this week and there should be a book for every reader. "What is Existentialism?" by William Barrett should appeal to the thoughtful reader. "The Baptist Church in the Lower Mississippi Valley - 1776-1845" is a fine contribution to local church history. "Religions of the World" by John A. Harden is an extremely useful and informative book. "Justice on Trial; the case of Louis D. Brandeis" is an account of his approval to the supreme court, written by Alden Todd. "The Art of Rapid Reading" by Walter Pitkin is a valuable and needed book. "Voices on the River" by Walter Havighurst is a very interesting account of shipping on the Mississippi River. Excellent guides to learning are: "The Blue Book of Spanish" by Robert L. Dixson, "Blue Book of Latin" by Alma H. Griffiths and "Blue Book of Elementary Algebra" by Seelig Lester. A new book in the field of astronomy is "A Field Guide to the Stars and Planets" by Donald H. Menzel.

A new gardening book is "Hardy Garden Bulbs" by Gertrude S. Wister. A useful book for anyone planning a visit to New York is "The New York Times Guide to dining out in New York" by Craig Claiborne." "Emotional Health in the World of Work" by Harry Levinson and "Resumes That get Jobs" by Edward C. Gruber are useful books for a person entering the business world. "Engineering Drawing" by Albert J. Lombardo is a useful book. "The Sports Rules Encyclopedia" by Jess R. White will be widely used. Another practical book is "How to Teach Children to Swim" by Carolyn Kauffman. There are three additions to the literature collection; "Long Days Journey into Night" by Eugene O'Neill "How Shakespeare Spent the Day" by Ivor Brown and "Fifty Poems" by Boris Pasternak.

There are several interesting travel books. "Thrilling Cities" by Ian Fleming will interest the readers of the James Bond stories. "Temples, Tombs and Hieroglaphs" by Barbara Mertz is an interesting book about Egyptian archeology; "With Forks and Hope" by Elspeth Huxley is an account of a trip to Africa while "San Francisco Bay" by John Kemble is a very beautiful book about this region.

There are several new books in the history collection also. "The Decline of the West" by Oswald Spengler is very well written. "The Rich Nations and the Poor Nations" by Barbara Ward explains much of the trouble in the world today. "The Ancient Greeks" by Morton Smith will help students. "A Family of Islands" by Alec Waugh is a history of the West Indies from 1492 to 1898. "Cortes, the life of the conqueror of Mexico" by Francisco Gomara is a very fine book.

The field of biography is well-represented this week. "The Rest of the Story" by Sheilah Graham continues the story of Francis Scott Fitzgerald. Wallace Mendelson is the author of Felix Frankfurter; a Tribute. "The Times 've Seen" by Ulick O'Connor is a biography of Oliver St. John Gogarty. "The Life and Death of Lenin is a very fine study by Robert Payne. Rebecca Marcus is the author of "Antione Lavoisier and the Revolution in Chemistry, while the latest volume of the correspondence of Rose McCaulay is called "Letters to a Sister".

There are also two new reference books, "Bookman Guide to Americana" by Joseph N. Heard is very useful in finding the prices of books while "Famous First Facts" by Joseph Nathan Kane is a quick source of finding when any event first occurred.

Use your Public Library for pleasure and for information.

County Fines Two Captains For Fishing

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — Captains of two Menhaden fishing boats were fined $100 and court costs Saturday for fishing within one mile of the Harrison County shoreline.

Justice of the Peace Sam Armato imposed the fines on Captains Ed Allison and Marvin Lewis, both of Pascagoula, in a hearing at Pass Christian.

Inspector Felix Pavolini of the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission arrested both men Friday near Pass Christian.

Goldwaterites Stage Fiery Meet At Jena

JENA (Special) — Jena attorney A. B. Parker has been named chairman of a "Citizens for Goldwater and the Constitution" group here and plans are underway for a widespread campaign in behalf of Republican nominee for President Barry M. Goldwater.

Other officers elected at a Friday night meeting held at the LaSalle Parish Courthouse are James Justiss, vice chairman; Joe Paul Stevens, secretary and I. B. Robertson, treasurer.

A meeting will be held August 3 for the election of ward chairman to take the campaign down to the grassroots level.

LaSalle went Republican in the last general congressional election.

Parker, keynoting the meeting Friday, quoted a woman delegate to the Republican National Convention in San Francisco as saying, "What has happened to the America we knew? What have they done with it"'

Said Parker, "There was a time when the federal government stayed within the limits of the Constitution — that of maintaining armed forces for the protection of the aggregate states — and no constitutional authority of any kind rested upon the shoulders of the people to interfere in the conduct of their own business and private affairs."

But, said Parker, "We now have Johnson, the worst man ever catapulted into the office of president by either accident or election, who came in roaring, 'Kennedy, Kennedy,' and 'What a great man am I,' who jerks the ears of both houses of Congress, beagle - style, and forces upon us the worst power grab ever to befall a previously free country."

Parker said that, "The falsely labeled civil rights bill was passed to please the Kremlin, to fool the Negroes in order to get their votes, and at the same time take it for granted that the rest of this country's citizenry has taken so much already that they would permit anything else being rammed down them."

Added Parker, "And he is not through."

PIN-UP BABIES

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Even the ugliest babies are to become pin-ups at a hospital here.

To avoid any possible mix-up among new-born babies a Johannesburg gynaecologist photographs them within minutes of their birth, and hands the photograph to the mother.

"In no time at all," he said, "the mother has the new-born infant in one hand and the picture in the other. It's amazing how many mothers are frightened they may get the wrong baby."

He said two hospitals in Australia had recently introduced the same checking method.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Expansion Design Meets Needs Of Growing Family

By ANDY LANG

The biggest house in the world, as far as you are concerned, is not the one that covers the most ground or has the most square foot area. It's the house that makes your family comfortable and costs only what you can afford.

An expansion design to meet a minimum building budget yet take care of the needs of a growing family has been developed by architect Herbert Struppmann. What distinguishes it from many economy houses is the care that has been taken not to keep the money-savings features from interfering with appearance and comfort. Note, for instance, that this is a fully rectangular house, a shape which saves on construction costs. But you need only a quick glance at the exterior of the latest House of the Week to see that there is nothing "boxy" about it. The outside is as attractive as the inside is practical.

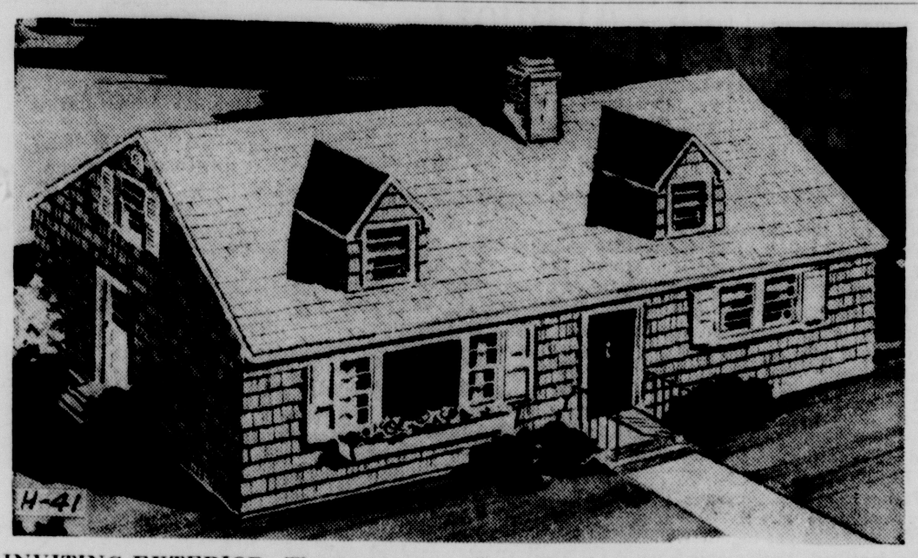
You might find a smaller house than this, but within the limits of the area of 36' by 24', with or without a basement, and with the upper floor finished at once or allowed to wait until your budget can handle it, you won't find more house for the money. On the main floor, there is a living room, two bedrooms, a bath, a kitchen and a dining room. The inclusion of the dining room is a design feature for families who want a formal or semi-formal eating area for company meals. But there's no reason why it could not be used as a family room or, if needed, as an extra bedroom until the upper floor is completed. The two regular bedrooms, by the way, both have cross ventilation.

The center hall entry, with a guest closet, permits quick movement into the living room, but there is a convenient side entrance to the kitchen for the children or the housewife returning from a shopping expedition. Should you decide to dispense with a basement, the stairwell area can be used for heater and hot water equipment.

The second floor plan of this house, design H-41, has two versions. One shows two generous-sized bedrooms, the other the same two bedrooms with a large bath built into an optional dormer at the rear. Here again the architect has provided for cross ventilation in each bedroom. This type of second floor interlocks with the economy idea that building up costs less than building out.

The square foot area for the first floor is 864; the expansion floor has 452 square feet, including the extra dormer. That's a total of 1,316 square feet of living space in a house that can be built on a small plot of ground at a reasonable price.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan H-41.



INVITING EXTERIOR: The rectangular design of this expandable house cuts construction costs but fails to detract from the charm of the inviting exterior, with entrances at the front and side.

FLOOR PLANS: There are 1,316 square feet of habitable area in this house if the second floor is utilized at the start. The first floor has a square foot area of 864. Heater and hot water equipment can be used in the stairwell section if there is no basement.

It's easy to see why this is called an expansion design. A family can utilize it to meet either its present or future needs. It can begin with either a two or three-bedroom house, depending on whether it needs a dining room or an extra bedroom, and later on have the second floor finished with two more bedrooms. Or, if it is a large family, it can start with four or five bedrooms and two baths.

There's a great temptation to call this "the biggest little" house design you ever saw. Perhaps it isn't. But there's no doubt that it's a case of dollars, carefully spent, making lots of home sense.

Arcadia Group To Hear East

Wade B. East, superintendent of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe, will address a meeting of the men of the Frist Baptist Church in Arcadia Monday at 7 p.m.

The child care executive will discuss the ministry of the Children's Home which is made possible by Louisiana Baptists and other friends of needy boys and girls.

PRETTY ONE SIDED

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Volunteers were all on the same side when a Civil War commission got ready to reenact the battle of Olustee, Florida's biggest engagement of that war. Everybody wanted to play rebels. The other side not only was Yankee but also it lost the battle.

FAST ACTION

PACIFICA, Calif. (UPI) — Mrs. Emilene Greer got extra-fast action when she phoned the fire department to report she had stuffed some rags into an oven to dry and they ignited. Responding firemen were led by her husband, Fire Chief Ed Greer.

SMOKE RISES FROM foam-covered fusilage of a Navy jet attack plane which crashed Saturday and killed three persons. The craft was attempting to land when it crashed into a house. The pilot and two women inside the house were killed. The fusilage came to rest a short distance from another dwelling. Firemen sprayed foam to put out the blaze. (AP Wirephoto)

TAKING VERBAL POKES

Minister Trailing Path Taken By King

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — The Rev. Bob Harrington, known as the "Chaplain of New Orleans' Bourbon Street," took verbal pokes Saturday at the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King.

The minister, emulating the Negro leader by addressing a pool hall gathering, branded Dr. King a "false prophet, seeking gain for himself and not the kingdom of God or his own race."

On Friday, while Dr. King toured this rural community, he played a game of pool at a Negro Community center and then addressed the 50 patrons and spectators.

Harrington told his audience he was following the same route of "King but with a different message."

"I challenge Martin Luther King to explain how he calls himself a minister of the gospel when the gospel is the good news of the Lord.

"I beleive that the three civil rights workers are alive, not as heroes, but as fools."

Dr. King told his gathering Friday he feared the three civil rights workers were "probably dead."

"Some preacher this Martin Luther King is," Harrington said. "He comes into town and instead of a Bible, he uses a pool stick.

"Instead of good news from the Lord, he brought confusion. . ."

Harrington said he went to the site where a charred station wagon of the missing trio was discovered and "I prayed for God to reveal in his own way the whereabouts of these three missing persons."

The minister said he plans to take his preaching throughout the South and the nation to point out "the other side of Mississippi."

Harrington has set up offices in Jackson and has several other crusades slated in the state this summer.

Andrew Goodman and Mickey Schwerner, both of New York, and Meridian Negro James Cheney have vanished since June 21.

Federal, state and personnel from the Meridian Naval Air Station are continuing to search for the trio.

Dr. King left by plane Saturday for Atlanta after conducting a four-day tour of Mississippi stumping for the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party.

The party hopes to gain recognition for a delegation at the national Democratic convention in August.

Backers of the party claim Negroes are systematically denied the right to participate in state politics, and their delegation should be recognized.

Bad Timing Makes Reds To Miss Mark

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Soviet spacecraft designed to hit Venus or to come close enough to gather scientific data on the plant apparently missed its mark earlier this week, sources said Saturday.

The craft was called Zond I, which the Russians identified only as a small weather-testing laboratory launched April 2 from a satellite orbiting the earth.

Because of the timing of the shot, Western scientists immediately guessed that it was an attempt to land instruments on Venus or to approach closer than the 21,468-mile distance at which the U. S. Mariner II passed the planet Dec. 14, 1962.

American tracking stations previously had noted similar Soviet shots on Feb. 26 and March 4 and learned that both went astray.

Information gathered by U. S. space teams indicated that the Russians were able to correct the course of Zond I several times.

An official said the Soviet shot was expected to reach the area of Venus as early as July 18 or as late as July 25.

It is believed that had the flight been successful, the Russians for reasons of world prestige would have announced the results quickly. They have said nothing about it.

U. S. tracking data indicated that the spacecraft moved out of range of the planet about last Wednesday.

The Russians are believed now to have failed in more than a dozen consecutive attempts to send probes to the moon or to the planets.

The 449-pound Mariner II, launched Aug. 27, 1962, gathered data continuously on its 180-million-mile journey to Venus and then, during a 42-minute fly past, probed the planet for surface and atmospheric temperatures and cloud structure.

The satellite relayed this information 36 million miles to earth and then sped on toward the sun. Radio contact with it ended Jan. 4, 1963, when it was 54.3 million miles out in space.

State Opens Headquarters For Goldwater

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — Charlton Lyons, chairman of the Goldwater for President campaign in Louisiana, announced Saturday the opening of the state headquarters in New Orleans next week.

In a statement from his office, Lyons said, "today is decision day minus 100. Today we start on a 100 day countdown that will tell whether or not America will continue down the trail of Socialism."

Lyons invited every person in Louisiana interested in constitutional government to join the campaign. He said offices will be set up in the next few weeks in every parish.

Lyons said he planned to stay in New Orleans until November.

Freeman Raps Sen. Goldwater At Demo Dinner

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—The last thing this nation can afford in this nuclear age is the election of a trigger-happy president, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said here Saturday night.

Freeman attacked Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Republican presidential candidate, on several particulars and Republicans in general in remarks prepared for a 4th District Democratic fund-raising dinner Saturday night.

Freeman pointed out increases in industrial production, employment, wages and farm income as achievements under a Democratic administration. He said these were "conveniently ignored just nine nights ago when Barry Goldwater accepted his party's nomination for the presidency."

"He could speak only of failure," Freeman said. "In contrast with the positive, purposeful performance and philosophy of the Democratic administration the senator from Arizona could only repeat an age-old Republican party theme, could only demonstrate, once again, that what GOP really stands for is Groucy Old Pessimists."

Freeman said Republicans find it difficult to determine what Goldwater meant by what he said at San Francisco.

Interpretations are, indeed, varied," he said. "But if you measure the meanings in terms of simple definitions of the words he uses, you cannot laugh.

"They constitute a threat to peace.

"Peace is no more the product of bluster and bluff than it is the product of appeasement and apathy.

"The last thing this nation can afford in this nuclear age is the election of a trigger-happy president."

Woman Makes Error On Taxi

A 49-year-old Negro woman apparently mistook a police car for a taxi Saturday night.

According to Monroe police, Geneva Ishop, 3317 Pearl St., ran out in the street waving her arms at a police car at North 4th and DeSiard about 10 last night. When the car stopped, she climbed into the back seat and ordered, "Take me home."

They took her to jail instead, booking her on a drunk and disorderly charge.

FOUR RESOLUTIONS

Constitution Party Closes Convention

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The national convention of the Constitution parties of the United States ended Saturday with the election of national officers and adoption of four resolutions.

Bert Ellis, a manufacturer's representative from Houston, was elected national chairman. He succeeds Curtis Dall, Philadelphia, former son-in-law of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mrs. O. W. McDaniel of Victoria, Tex., was elected secretary and Wickliffe Vennard, Houston, was named party treasurer.

At the final morning session the 25 delegates present voted on four resolutions which called for:

—Reaffirmation of the party's platform adopted in 1955.

—Repeal of the U.S. Constitution's 17th Amendment and a return to the election of U.S. senators by the state legislatures rather than by popular vote.

—A reaffirmation of U.S. control and operation of the Panama Canal Zone and the Guantanamo, Cuba, Naval Base.

—A Constitution amendment requiring two-thirds of the Senate members to adopt any treaty entered into by the U.S. government.

The 54 delegates—25 of them from Texas—representing 12 states nominated Joseph Lightburn, 64, their nominee for president Friday.

Lightburn is the owner of a general store in Tiny Jane Lew, W.Va.

The vice-presidential nominee, also selected Friday, is Theodore C. Billings, a Denver, Colo., grocer.

Their names are assured of appearing on the ballot in New Mexico, Texas and Washington.

Party officials said they were hopeful of getting on the ballot in four or five other states, including Illinois and Florida.

Persons Tell Of Rochester Race Rioting

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—"I asked the man to leave and he didn't want to leave. Later he grabbed a woman by her blouse. I asked two policemen who were supervising the dance to remove the man. Things exploded."

Gene Stevens, whose wife Carrie was a member of a committee that arranged a block dance in a Negro section of Rochester on Saturday night, thus described the events leading up to a major race riot that raged throughout the night.

Police said that, as they tried to put the young Negro into a patrol car, four or five other Negroes jumped on them. The crowds at the dance encircled them and the riot began.

A 17-year-old Negro, Willie Pugh, who was seized in the rioting had this version: "There was a street dance and the boys got in a fight. They said police handcuffed a boy and beat him.

"I should have done what my mother told me. She told me to stay home and not get into any trouble."

There were other quotes:

City Manager Homer W. Porter—"I will take all steps to stop and eliminate civil insurrection in Rochester."

James Ford, a Negro—"This city has done me no wrong. I want people to get together."

Unidentified Negro about police activity—"As far as they're concerned, we're dogs."

Fire department Bn. Chief Frederic Vogt—"Every time we pulled up, they'd hurl rocks, bottles, pieces of junk and debris at us. I never in all my life expected to see anything like this happend in Rochester.

A Negro in his 30's came over to the patrol car during the rioting and told plainclothesman Joseph Conte, "I am trying to get people off the street."

"That's good," Conte replied. "We need all the help we can get. Keep helping us."

Mrs. Mildred Johnson, a director of the Rochester chapter, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People—"The people are tired of police brutality to any extent and it must be stopped. Either it is stopped or they will use other means, including violence."

Monroe Police Book Negro On Three Charges

Monroe police early Saturday morning arrested a 19-year-old Negro and booked him for aggravated assault and on two weapons charges.

Arrested was Willie Otis Moore, 120 S. 11th. According to officers, Moore pulled a gun and fired at two men.

Moore was first booked on attempted murder with the charge later reduced to aggravated assault. He was also booked for carrying a concealed weapon and discharging a firearm.

A Starkville, Miss., man, Reuben Eugene Lee, 21, is in the parish jail after being picked up Saturday. He is being held for West Point Miss., authorities in connection with an auto theft.

Monroe officers booked Earnest McDaniel, 42, a Negro of 1714 Adams for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and reckless driving. He was picked up in the 1700 block of Adams Street Saturday morning.

Local police are investigating three thefts from soft drink machines which occurred Friday night. The three machines broken into were located at Sears, 1501 Louisville; Parrish Service Station, 1715 Louisville; and Warner's Service Station, 114 Jackson, according to police.

Wheat Gains, Soybeans Fall On Grain Mart

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat was the only gainer in the grain futures market last week, but it was barely discernible on the nearby months and only moderate on the others.

Among the losers, soybeans posted the broadest declines. They were down more than 2 cents in spots on the new crop months as crop conditions and weather forecasts combined to maintain selling pressure in the pit.

Corn declined a cent or so on the same considerations which influenced soybean trade. Oats and rye eased fractions in a mostly light trade.

Brokers said speculators again guided the market as commercial buying appeared to have been limited largely to setbacks and without any actual show of urgent bidding. Flour mills were buying in limited quantities and export business was running at about the same rate as a year ago.

At the end of the week, wheat was ⅛-¾ cent a bushel higher than a week ago, September new grade $1.42⅝-¾; corn ⅜-1½ lower, September $1.18; oats ¼-¾ lower, September 61⅜-½ cents; rye unchanged to ½ lower, September $1.24½; soybeans ⅜-2½ lower, August $2.45⅞-46.

SCRANTON POSSIBILITY

Goldwater Wanted 'Miller For Walk'

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—On a Wednesday afternoon with the first wisps of a fog moving in from San Francisco Bay, Sen. Barry Goldwater placed a telephone call to New York Rep. William E. Miller.

Goldwater was in his suite at the Mark Hopkins Hotel atop Nob Hill. Within a few hours delegates to the national Republican convention would select their 1964 presidential candidate.

When Miller answered, Goldwater said:

"Bill it looks like I'm going to take a long walk and I want some company. You want to come along?"

When Miller replied in the affirmative, Goldwater said simply, "Thanks, Bill," and hung up.

GOP National Chairman Dean Burch told the story during a Tucson interview.

Burch was one of several aides with Goldwater when the call was made.

Burch recalled that for some time Goldwater "had assumed that should he win the presidential nomination, Gov. William Scranton would be his running mate.

"But Scranton's campaign partially changed the senator's feelings," Burch said, "and when the letter from the governor arrived that was the absolute end."

The Pennsylvanian sent Goldwater a blistering letter the day before the presidential balloting began.

Burch said Goldwater also had considered former Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota and Rep. Jerry Ford of Michigan.

"We were with him in the suite shortly before he called Rep. Miller," Burch said, "and he told us only, 'It's Miller.'"

Then Burch recalled Goldwater said something of this nature: "I know the arguments. I've made up my mind. There's no point in calling a lot of people together to discuss it when I've made up my mind."

The GOP chairman said Goldwater had expressed to his aides a "deep fondness and admiration for Miller. He also was conscious of the geographical advantages, but I'll wager the senator never ever considered the fact of Miller's religion.

Miller is from New York, Goldwater from Arizona, giving the ticket an east-west balance. Miller also is a Roman Catholic, Goldwater an Episcopalian.

"There were two other factors favoring Miller," Burch said. "The senator wanted somebody who would go out and break his back campaigning for 90 days. He knew Miller fit this requirement. And the delegates showed a preference for Miller. The senator didn't overlook this."

Mississippi Names Queen At Biloxi

BILOXI, Miss. (UPI) —A tall, blonde beauty from Itawamba County was crowned by Gov. Paul Johnson here Saturday night as the 1964 Miss Hospitality.

Rosanne Burleson, 20, of Fulton, a student at Mississippi State University, succeeds Dianne Cox of Clarksdale as the state's ambassador of good will at travel shows and tourist events across the nation.

Chosen from a field of 59 contestants during four days of interviewing and judging behind closed doors, Miss Burleson is 5 feet, 8 inches tall, weighs 130 and measures 36-23½-37.

The new Miss Hospitality is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burleston of Fulton. She was born in Mobile, Ala.

First alternate was Jackson's representative in the annual contest, 18 - year - old Marty Smira, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Smira and a sociology major at the University of Mississippi.

Janice Waggoner, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Waggoner of Carthage, was second alternate. She attends Mississippi State College for women.

Sen. Humphrey Predicts Passage Of Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., predicted Saturday Senate passage of President Johnson's $3,466,700,000 foreign aid authorization bill this week without any "crippling cuts."

The annual battle over foreign aid shifts to the Senate floor where Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., has announced he will lead a fight to trim $466,700,000 from the bill and revamp foreign aid policies.

Debate likely will start Tuesday.

Morse told a reporter he may face an uphill fight, "but if senators vote the way they talk in the cloakrooms, I'll win."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved the bill by a 13-3 vote after cutting $50 million below the authorization requests made by Johnson and passed by the House.

The House subsequently cut the foreign aid program to $3.3 billion in the appropriations bill, which provides the actual money for which the authorization bill simply sets ceilings. The Senate Appropriations Committee will continue hearings all this week on its own version of the money bill.

"I think the Congress will support the President's very prudent and trimmed down foreign aid request," Humphrey, Assistant Democratic leader, told an interviewer.

"I don't see the possibility of any serious or crippling cuts. Foreign aid was cut at the White House. It doesn't need to be cut at the Capitol."

Johnson's request for $3.5 billion in foreign aid this year was a reduction of a billion dollars below the program the late President John F. Kennedy submitted a year ago. Congress ended up by voting $3 billion in new appropriations.

Morse said he would have enough amendments to keep the foreign aid bill on the floor about a week.

"I'm satisfied this administration knows the foreign aid program should be revised, but not this year," Morse said in a separate interview. "The time to do it is now."

In addition to efforts to cut the totals in the bill, Morse, Sens. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, and others will push for other amendments placing restrictions on administration of the program.

Floor fights were ahead also on:

1. An amendment by Morse, and Sens. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., and Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, to raise the interest rates on development loans abroad which was defeated 8-7 in committee.

Congress amended the law last year to require a minimum rate of 2 per cent after a 10-year grace period during which it usually is 3-4ths of 1 per cent. Sponsors of the amendment want to harden these terms and bring commercial loans more into line with the amount the government pays for its money.

2. Another by Gruening to add $1.5 billion to the bill to spend on an accelerated public works program in this country.

Another battle appears likely on a house-rejected amendment giving foreign aid administrator David E. Bell greater flexibility in "selection out" authority for weeding out aid employes in the upper levels.

Algeria Terms Blast As Work Of Saboteurs

ALGIERS (UPI) — The official newspaper of President Ahmed Ben Bella's ruling party, placing the death toll at 182, Saturday called an explosion aboard a munitions ship sabotage and blamed it on foreign-backed counter-revolutionaries.

The 2,738-ton Egyptian freighter "Star of Alexandria," carrying 2,000 tons of ammunition, blew up Thursday night at the port of Annaba 290 miles east of Algiers. The blast wrecked buildings in a 500-yard area in the port and rescue crews were still digging bodies out of the debris Saturday.

The ship disaster occurred only 24 hours after a munitions dump exploded at Sidi Ferruch army camp just outside the capital. Newspaper reports Saturday placed the death toll there at 80 soldiers and workers.

The two blasts appeared to indicate a new terror campaign against Ben Bella by his Algerian enemies similar to the violence wreaked by the Secret Army Organization (OAS) in the period before Algerian independence.

Saturday the newspaper "Algier Republicain," official voice of Ben Bella's National Liberation Front (FLN) party said the ship explosion was "undoubtedly the work of the counter-revolution."

Legion Chief Want To Keep Red China Out

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) —The president of the American Legion said Saturday his trips to the Far East convinced him the legion should continue its opposition to amitting Red China into the United Nations.

Daniel F. Foley of Wabasha, Minn., also told the Louisiana Legion Convention that America's current political debate over southeast Asia is "strictly over the matter of how to proceed, not whether to do so."

"We are firmly committed to the defense of freedom in strifetorn Viet Nam and, current campaign oratory notwithstanding, I believe we are a people united behind a principle that we shall fulfill these committments," Foley added.

The excess of exports over imports in Gabon grew larger in 1963 than it was in '62. The average per capital annual income, though only $110, is high by African standards.

Business Firms Report Profits Hit New High

NEW YORK (AP) — The strength of the business upturn was underscored during the week by a stream of glowing corporate profits reports.

The second quarter was a period of record earnings for many corporations.

This was particularly true in the booming automobile industry, where General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. came out with highest-ever profits for the three months and six months ended June 30.

A Wall street stock market analyst commented: "I've never seen such a big batch of improved earnings statements."

Some of the credit for the gains was attributed to the federal income tax cut which became effective in February. It enabled companies to retain a greater amount of their profits and increased the money available to consumers for spending.

General motors earned $602 million, equal to $2.11 a share, in the second quarter, against $464 million, or $1.62 a share, a year earlier.

Ford reported second-quarter earnings of $179.9 million, up 15 per cent from the previous record of $155.9 million in the second quarter of 1963.

Chrysler earned $60.6 million in the three months ended June 30, compared with $41.7 million a year earlier.

This reflected Ford's sales of 738,720 vehicles in the second quarter, up 13 per cent from the 1963 second quarter, and Chrysler's sales of 903,643, up from 738,292, in the first half.

Adding to the rosy glow were improved reports from such companies as Motorola, B.F. Goodrich, Celanese, Du Pont, Reynolds Metals, Kaiser Steel, American Airlines and United Air Lines.

Although the government reported that cigarette consumption fell in May after rising in April, American Tobacco Co., and R.J. Reynolds Co. reported record profits for the second quarter.

With steel production holding up better than usual in the normally quiet summer season, Republic Steel, Jones & Laughlin and Youngstown Sheet & Tube—three of the nation's eight major steel producers—announced increases in first-half earnings from a year earlier.

The healthy condition of corporations was pointed up by the Commerce Department's report that cash dividends paid by U.S. companies in June were 10 per cent higher than in June 1963.

The June total of $2.6 billion compared with $2.3 billion a year earlier. The rises were particularly sharp in the machinery, automobile and textile industries.

Taking a look into the future, economists for the Bank of America—the world's largest—predicted that the business boom, already more than 4 months old, will continue at least through the middle of 1965.

Developments in the steel industry were encouraging, where production posted its first increase in eight weeks. Output during the week rose to 2.32 million tons, up 1.5 per cent from the 2,285,000 tons turned out the previous week.

Industry sources said steel demand may hold at the current level into September before showing any large rise.

The changeover to 1965 cut into the automobile industry's production during the week and Chrysler shut down some plants.

Output dwindled to an estimated 113,700 passenger cars from 154,999 the previous week.

Negotiations over new contracts for more than 550,000 workers in the automobile industry continued to plod along. Expectations were that the higher earnings reports of the automakers would give the United Auto Workers more ammunition for their demands for higher wages and fringe benefits and suggestions that car prices be cut.

FOR THE FIRST time in seven weeks The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined, closing Friday at 320.2 from 322.0 a week ago as shown in the above chart. Led by grains the commodity index moved lower this week to 163.3 from 164.4 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto)

Stock Prices Close Week Notch Lower

NEW YORK (AP)—A flood of best-in-history corporate profits and a string of favorable business developments somehow failed to impress the stock market last week.

Prices started at an historic peak and closed a few notches lower. The setback was the first in seven weeks and was the worst in three months, based on the averages.

The setback thus, at least temporarily, halted a summer rally which had hiked the averages to new peaks on the last three Fridays.

Most brokers seemed to think it was a normal consolidation period when profits were being taken. Others thought most of the record earnings had been discounted well in advance.

Other factors listed by analyst included concern over the Viet Nam situation and the racial strife in New York City. Some European selling of holdings also was mentioned.

The good news included a drop in the federal budget deficit for the last fiscal year from previous predictions, a 10 per cent increase in cash dividend payments in the first half over a year ago, a number of dividend boosts and the settlements of a 30-day strike by new car haulers along the East Coast.

Volume dipped to 22,264,110 shares from 23,503,309 the previous week and was below 5 million each day.

The Associated Press 60-stock average fell 1.8 to close at 320.2. Dow Jones industrials were off 5.71, more than offsetting the previous week's gain.

AREA OIL, GAS

Five Completions Highlight Action

Five wells were completed or gauged last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District, while other activity continued at levels only slightly below the previous week's.

The weekly report of District Manager Duncan S. Cook in Monroe showed 41 rigs active, drilling or testing, in 12 of the district's 15 parishes, and 37 new locations staked in nine.

Completions occurred in Concordia, Grant, LaSalle, Rapides and Union Parishes, one each.

Leading the list of active rigs was LaSalle Parish with 10, followed by Avoyelles and Grant with six each, and Concordia, with five. The rest of the breakdown showed three active in Tensas Parish, two each in Ouachita, Rapides, Richland and Union, one each in Caldwell, Catahoula and Franklin.

Concordia Parish led in new locations with 11. Catahoula and LaSalle had six each, Union had five, Rapides four, Tensas two and Ouachita, Morehouse and Jackson, one each.

Eighteen wells were plugged and abandoned during the week, leaving the total on the district's inactive sites at 68.

The weekly report included this information on completions, active rigs and new locations:

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

When you shorten a skirt, did you ever think of using the one or two-inch strip you cut off the hem?

It can be sewn down the front of a cardigan sweater that blends with the color of the skirt.

Remove the buttons from the sweater and sew the strip of material down both edges of the front of the sweater. Rework button holes. When the sweater is open, this shows the matching color of material on both panels. When buttoned, you see only one strip.

If you don't have enough material for both sides . . . apply it to the buttonhole side only.

This makes a lovely outfit. Since I have had so many compliments and copies made of mine, I thought I would like to share this idea with your readers.

Lillian Anspach

DEAR HELOISE:

I save my frozen dinner trays and use them as hot plates when I serve my family frozen dinners!

I place the hot dinner tray in an empty one. This saves burning my fingers while carrying the trays to the table and also saves the top of my table.

M. B.

* * *

Ladies, you could use two or three of these tins on the bottom of the original, depending upon what your table top is made of. I caution you, use more than one tin when putting a hot tray on a beautiful table top.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

The scent of pine disinfectant in the bathroom, laundry area and kitchen gives a feeling of cleanliness.

To cope with the problem of quart bottles, messy drippings and sometimes pouring too much . . . I purchased four plastic squeeze bottles (one could use empty plastic liquid detergent bottles) and filled them with the disinfectant.

These bottles are placed where needed in the handiest cabinet. Since there are no caps to these plastic bottles, they give out just enough scent to keep the room sweet-smelling. I use a pine-oil type of disinfectant and have no trouble with evaporation. The bottles are also CAREFULLY LABELED.

Jeanette Mukai

DEAR HELOISE:

Thanks for telling us how to freeze pancakes. You said to take leftover batter and continue making the pancakes until they are just barely brown, then freeze them. And when ready to use them put them in a toaster.

I thought of a better way: When it comes time to heat them, I use a cookie sheet instead of a toaster. This way I heat enough in the oven for the whole family at one time! They can be turned over halfway through the heating cycle so both sides get crisp.

Sally Crescent

* * *

Now, who would have ever thought of heating pancakes in the oven except our dear Sally?

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

For those who have a dog or cat that will not stay out of a beautiful chair . . . try taking a thin sheet of newspaper and putting it over the cushion of the chair.

As the dog or cat jumps into your chair to snuggle down, the paper will startle him! Besides, the paper is not as cozy as the upholstery on the chair!

Bet

DEAR HELOISE:

Old, faded plastic drapes or shower curtains can be sewn together to make a large envelope for storing folding-type summer chairs. Keeps them from getting grimy, too.

Reader

DEAR HELOISE:

To keep the heads of your upholstery tacks from being marred by the hammer head when you are upholstering, just put a strip of adhesive tape over the head of your hammer! When the hammer hits the upholstery tack it cannot possibly mar it.

The width of the tape naturally depends on the size of the hammer one uses when upholstering.

Mrs. Van Dozer

DEAR HELOISE:

When cooking hard-boiled eggs, or even soft-boiled ones for that matter, always put one-half teaspoon of cream of tartar in the water in the pan and stir it up before putting the eggs in.

Your pot will never get black or discolor, nor will there be any need to clean it afterwards. It's shiny and new-looking again.

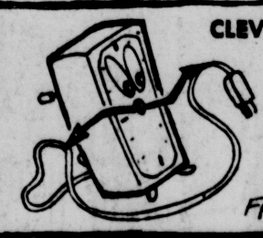
Mrs. Margie Hullenmeier

* * *

This is absolutely true.

Heloise

CLEVER CORDS



DEAR HELOISE:

Whenever I redecorate, I paint the cords of my electric clocks the same color as the walls or wallpaper, and they can hardly be seen.

FRESH GREEN PEPPERS

DEAR HELOISE:

Since we do not eat many bell peppers at one time, I freeze mine.

I slice them into thin, narrow strips, wrap them in foil and place them in my freezer. When it comes time for a "bit-of-bell" for something . . . I just unroll the foil and slice off as much as is needed. They are very easily sliced when frozen.

The wrapper then may be refolded and placed back in the freezer. This way you always have green pepper on hand.

Laurel Honeycut

* * *

DEAR FOLKS:

Bless each of you who has taken the time to write.

I am so glad to have you share your hints with us. Keep those letters coming. We love 'em.

Love,
Heloise
